Issue of Euro 30,000,000 of Share Linked Certificates by Amundi
under the Euro 10,000,000,000 Notes and Certificates Programme

The Base Prospectus referred to below (as supplemented by these Final Terms) has been prepared on the assumption that, other than as provided in sub-paragraph (ii) below, any offering of Certificates in any Member State of the European Economic Area that has implemented the Prospectus Directive (each a Relevant Member State) shall be made pursuant to an exemption from the requirement to publish a prospectus for offers of Certificates, in accordance with the Prospectus Directive, as implemented in the Relevant Member State. Accordingly, any person offering or intending to offer Certificates may only do so:

- (i) in circumstances under which neither the Issuer nor any Dealer is under any obligation to publish a prospectus pursuant to article 3 of the Prospectus Directive or a supplemental prospectus in accordance with article 16 of the Prospectus Directive; or
- (ii) in a Public Offer Jurisdiction as referred to in paragraph 31 of Part A below, provided that such person is one of the persons referred to in paragraph 31 of Part A below and that such offer is made during the Offer Period specified for such purpose in such same paragraph.

Neither the Issuer nor any Dealer has authorised or authorises the offering of any Certificates in any other circumstances.

The expression Prospectus Directive means the Directive 2003/71/EC of the European Parliament and Council dated 4 November 2003 as amended or superseded and includes any measure for the implementation of such directive in the Relevant Member State.

PART A- CONTRACTUAL TERMS

Terms used in these Final Terms shall have the meaning given to them in the chapter headed “Terms and Conditions of the Certificates” of the base prospectus dated 10 July 2019 and the first supplement to the Base Prospectus dated 22 August 2019 which together constitute a base prospectus (the Base Prospectus) as defined in the Directive 2003/71/EC of the European Parliament and Council dated 4 November 2003 as amended or superseded and includes any relevant implementing measure in a relevant Member State of the European Economic Area (the Prospectus Directive).

This document constitutes the Final Terms of the Certificates described herein within the meaning of article 5.4 of the Prospectus Directive and must be read in conjunction with the Base Prospectus, as supplemented. All of the information concerning the Issuer and the offer of Certificates set forth in these Final Terms must be read in conjunction with the Base Prospectus. Copies of the Base Prospectus, as supplemented, shall be published, in accordance with article 14 of the Prospectus Directive and are available on the websites of (a) the AMF (www.amf-france.org) and (b) the Issuer (www.amundi.com) and copies may be obtained at the registered office of the Issuer and at the designated office of the Paying Agent. A summary of the issue is appended to these Final Terms and includes the information contained in the summary of the Base Prospectus and relevant information on the Final Terms.

Section B – Issuer
B.1	Legal and commercial name of the Issuer:	Amundi (the Issuer).
B.2	Registered office and legal form of the Issuer, the legislation governing its activities and its country of origin:	Amundi is a société anonyme organized and existing under French law, with a Board of Directors and registered in the Registre du Commerce et des Sociétés of Paris (Trade and Companies Register for corporate entities) under number 314 222 902. Its registered office is located at 91-93, boulevard Pasteur - 75015 Paris, France (Phone: +33 1 76 33 30 30). Amundi is a credit institution governed by all applicable legislative and regulatory provisions and its statutes.

B.4b	Trend information:	US US indicators were hard to interpret in Q1. Disagreements between Republicans and Democrats over the budget caused a partial shutdown of government services, which led to temporary disruptions and delayed the release of certain figures. The economy does, however, appear to have lost some steam. Retail sales slowed after several quarters of strong growth and are now more in line with their long-term average. Nevertheless, growth in disposable income continues to be supported by the ongoing strength in the labour market, allowing for a further decrease in unemployment and a slight increase in wages. Business confidence, although somewhat weaker than in 2018, remains compatible with a moderate pace of business expansion, but the decline in expectations was reflected in less dynamic investment expenditure. Inflation slowed, as the base effect from energy prices turned negative. General inflation is now 1.5%-1.6% (versus 2.5% at the beginning of Q4 2018), while underlying inflation is stable at around 2.1%; the reference price index used by the Federal Reserve remains below target (at 1.8%). The Federal Reserve's statement became more cautious and it reiterated that its future decisions will depend on economic data and financial conditions. On the trade policy front, talks between China and the United States continue, as do those between the United States and the eurozone. Eurozone After a very disappointing 2018, signs of an additional deterioration emerged in early 2019. GDP growth announced at end-January was only 0.2% in Q4 for the eurozone as a whole. Germany, at 0%, narrowly escaped recession. In addition, industry-related economic indicators (IFO and manufacturing PMI) continued to worsen in Q1, with the decline in orders indicating that this weakness could continue for a longer time. The manufacturing sector is still facing significant challenges: temporary shocks related to sector-specific factors in Germany and longer-term pressure tied to protectionism, the slowdown in global trade and the slowing Chinese economy. The risk that the United States might introduce tariffs on the US auto industry also re-emerged following submission of a report on this subject to the US president. However, after poor figures in January, the services sector improved over the course of the quarter, mainly because the situation appeared to normalise in France after the significant social tensions of the last few months. Inflation declined due to base effects from oil prices, while underlying inflation remained very low. On the political front, Brexit-related uncertainty increased: the British Parliament refused three times to approve the exit deal reached in November 2018 with the Europeans and, in the last few days of the quarter, the United Kingdom was given an extension on its exit deadline until at least 31 October 2019. Emerging markets On the economic front, growth figures for the last quarter of 2018 were published throughout the first quarter. The results were mixed. In China,
--------------------	----------------------------------	---

	GDP was virtually flat. In some countries, including India, Mexico, Brazil and most Central European countries, GDP was down relative to the previous quarter. In others, such as Peru, Russia and South Africa, it was higher. The recession was sharp in Turkey and Argentina. Economic indicators sent conflicting signals during the quarter. One common theme emerged, however: greater weakness in exports of manufactured goods relative to more resilient domestic demand. These two countervailing trends have thus far prevented a recession dynamic from developing in regions such as Asia, where export growth has been particularly sluggish. The change in tone that the major central banks of advanced countries (Fed and ECB) began to adopt in December, with a more accommodative message, was also confirmed in January. This brought some relief for emerging asset classes and bolstered currencies, mitigating inflationary pressure and paving the way for less restrictive monetary policies. Lastly, the trade talks between the United States and China appear to have been successful: the United States announced that it would postpone the tariff increases on USD 200 billion in Chinese products planned for 1 March. Equity markets After falling at the end of last year, the markets rebounded sharply in Q1 2019 with the MSCI ACWI ($), the global equity benchmark index, up 11.6%. It is now within 3.0% of its end-September level. This rebound in the MSCI indices was seen across the board: +13.3% in the United States; +10.7% in Europe, of which +12.5% in France; and +9.6% in emerging markets, of which +17.8% in China and +6.6% in Japan, which came in last due to the strength of the yen. More broadly, this renewed market confidence is tied to the radical change in tone at the major central banks, in particular the Fed (United States), the ECB (eurozone) and the PBOC (China) which, given the build-up of risks, including the slowdown in trade and global growth, tighter monetary conditions and the fragility of the financial markets, have decided to significantly delay any attempts at normalisation. While new tariffs loomed on 1 March, the resumption of talks between the United States and China, followed by several weeks of progress, has also provided investors with some relief. Interest rate markets The risk-free sovereign interest rate markets have fallen sharply in recent weeks. The German 10-year yield is now close to -0.2%. The US 10-year yield is near 2.1%. These moves can be attributed to the slowdown in the global economy and the mounting risks to growth (trade war). Inflation expectations in the eurozone have fallen to their lowest level since 2016. The ECB's announcements are no longer enough to bring inflation expectations back up. The European economy — and Germany in particular — is now being hurt by the slowdown in global trade. Leading indicators (IFO, PMI) point to a significant deterioration in business confidence in the manufacturing sector. Domestic demand has nevertheless held up well, buoyed by lower unemployment and higher wages. The imbalance in the supply of and demand for highly rated securities also played a role in this decline. German bonds perceived to be risk-free are scarce despite the ECB's decision to end its asset purchase programme.

Section D – Risks
D.2	Key risks regarding the Issuer:	Amundi is exposed to certain risk factors that may affect its capacity to fulfil its obligations under the Securities. These risk factors related to Amundi, its operations and its industry include, without limitation: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - risks borne by Amundi related to own account activities, including: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • risk associated with the investment portfolio, including the risk of loss of value on investments made by Amundi on its balance sheet; • liquidity risk, including the risk of margin calls on collateralised OTC transactions; • foreign exchange risk, including the risk that is primarily linked to the structural positions resulting from stakes acquired abroad ; • interest rate risk, including the risk that is primarily generated by the investment portfolio; and • credit risk, including the risk from securities that are held directly or by guaranteed funds, such risks may result in a discrepancy between the asset versus liability structure, a drop in investment value (obligation to retain shares, negative Mark to Market), a

		<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • business risk in this business sector, including the risk with a uniform impact on all asset management companies; • business risk specific to Amundi, including the risk solely impacting Amundi, or noticeably more so than competitors; • regulatory and legal risks, including the risk in the form of costs for achieving compliance with various regulations and the payment of fines, regulatory reforms may in particular reduce client interest in Amundi products leading to an adverse impact on assets under management and results; • non-compliance risk, including risks related to legal, administrative or disciplinary sanctions, financial losses and reputational damage; • operational risk, including risks related to legal, administrative or disciplinary sanctions, financial losses, reputational damage, loss of expertise or to the non-availability of IT systems (cyber-attack or other) preventing the completion of market transactions (potential losses from breaches); • risk of the dilution or cancellation of Amundi shares, including the risk resulting in a negative impact on the market value of Amundi shares and the risk of divergences in the interests of Amundi and its shareholders; and • tax risks, including risks in the form of tax reassessments or the payment of late fees, fines and penalties and risks related to increases in tax expenses and costly reporting requirements. – risks related to failure to attain the objectives set out in the Crédit Agricole Group’s medium-term plan: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • on 6 June 2019, the Crédit Agricole Group presented its new group project and new medium-term plan (2019-2022) (together, the 2022 Medium-Term Plan). The 2022 Medium-Term Plan contains a certain number of financial objectives linked notably to income, expenditure, net profit and equity ratios for entities within the Crédit Agricole Group, including Amundi. As such, the objectives selected for Amundi within the 2022 Medium-Term Plan are as follows: (i) an average annual

		adjusted net income growth target⁵ of +5%⁶ between 2018 and 2022 and (ii) a cost/income ratio of 53%⁵ or less. As part of the 2022 Medium-Term Plan, Amundi is confirming its 2020 profitability targets⁷: (i) accounting net income \geq €1bn, and (ii) adjusted net income \geq €1.05bn. All of these objectives assume a neutral market effect over the period of 2018-2022. In addition, the dividend payout ratio will continue to be at 65%⁸. These financial objectives have been established principally for the purposes of internal planning and allocation of resources, and are based on a number of economic and commercial hypotheses. These financial objectives do not constitute projections or forecasts of results. Amundi's actual results may differ (and could differ significantly), in several respects, from these objectives, notably if one or more events described in the risk factors set out in this section occurs. The success of the 2022 Medium-Term Plan depends on a large number of initiatives (on a significant scale, as more reduced) being implemented within the various entities of the Crédit Agricole Group, including notably Amundi. Although a large number of these objectives may be attained, it is unlikely that they will all be and it is not possible to predict, among these objectives, which will be attained and which will not. The 2022 Medium-Term Plan also provides for significant investments, but if the objectives of the 2022 Medium-Term Plan are not attained, the return on such investments will be less than that predicted. If Amundi does not fulfil the objectives set out in the 2022 Medium-Term Plan, its financial situation and its results could be adversely affected. - As a French credit institution (établissement de crédit), Amundi must comply with the provisions of Directive 2014/59/EU providing for the establishment of an EU-wide framework for the recovery and resolution of credit institutions and investment firms (the BRRD) as implemented under French Law. The impact of the BRRD and its implementing provisions on credit institutions, including Amundi, is still partially unclear but its current and future application or the taking of any action under it could materially affect the value of any Securities issued by Amundi and the ability of the Issuer to satisfy its obligations under the Securities.
D.3	Key risks regarding the Securities:	Together with the risks relating to the Issuer (including the risk of default), which could affect the capacity of the Issuer to fulfil its obligations under the Securities, certain factors are material for the purpose of assessing the
