Most material risk factors pertaining to the guarantor

3. An interruption in or a breach of the BNP Paribas Group's information systems may cause substantial losses of client or customer information, damage to the BNP Paribas Group's reputation and result in financial losses

4. The BNP Paribas Group may incur significant losses on its trading and investment activities due to market fluctuations and volatility
5. Adjustments to the carrying value of the BNP Paribas Group's securities and derivatives portfolios and the BNP Paribas Group's own debt could have an adverse effect on its net income and shareholders' equity

What are the key risks that are specific to the W&C securities?

Most material risk factors specific to the W&C securities
--

There are also risks associated with the W&C Securities, including:

1. Risks related to the structure of the W&C securities:

The return on the W&C Securities depends on the performance of the Underlying Reference(s). There is no capital protection. As a consequence, investors may be exposed to a partial or total loss of their investment.

2. Risks related to the underlying and its disruption and adjustments:

If an Additional Disruption Event occurs or any Optional Additional Disruption Event specified in the Final Terms occurs, the W&C Securities may be subject to adjustment, early redemption or the amount payable on scheduled redemption may be different from the amount expected to be paid at scheduled redemption. Any of these consequences is likely to have a material adverse effect on the value and liquidity of the W&C Securities and/or the return a Holder can expect to receive on their investment.

Exposure to shares, similar market risks to a direct investment in an equity, global depository receipt ("GDR") or American depository receipt ("ADR"), potential adjustment events or extraordinary events and market disruption or failure to open of an exchange may have an adverse effect on the value and liquidity of the W&C Securities.

An adjustment to the W&C Securities may have an adverse effect on the value and liquidity of the affected W&C Securities and accordingly the amount Holders can expect to receive on their investment. If the W&C Securities are early redeemed, an investor generally would not be able to reinvest the relevant proceeds at an effective interest rate as high as the effective return on the relevant W&C Securities being redeemed and may only be able to do so at a significantly lower rate, and investors should consider reinvestment risk in light of other investments available at that time. Consequently, the occurrence of an Extraordinary Event in relation to a Share may have an adverse effect on the value or liquidity of the W&C Securities and accordingly the amount Holders can expect to receive on their investment.

Where the value and return an investor can expect to receive in respect of the W&C Securities depends on the performance of one or more Underlying References issued by issuers located in, or subject to regulation in, emerging or developing countries, denominated in the currency of, or are traded in, emerging or developing countries or where the W&C Securities are denominated in currencies of emerging or developing countries, Holders are exposed to greater risks associated with political and economic uncertainty, adverse governmental policies, restrictions on foreign investment and currency convertibility, currency exchange rate fluctuations, possible lower levels of disclosure and regulation, and uncertainties as to the status, interpretation and application of laws including, but not limited to, those relating to expropriation, nationalisation and confiscation. Holders of W&C Securities with such a nexus to emerging or developing countries are exposed to the risk that such W&C Securities may be less liquid and the prices of such W&C Securities more volatile, thus increasing the risk that such Holders may experience a loss on their investment. In addition, settlement of trades in such markets may be slower and more likely to be subject to failure than in markets in developed countries. Investors in such W&C Securities should also be aware that the probability of the occurrence of a Hedging Disruption Event and consequently loss of investment or profit by an investor may be higher for certain developing or emerging markets.

3. Risks related to the trading markets of the W&C securities:

The trading price of the W&C Securities may be affected by a number of factors including, but not limited to, the relevant price, value or level of the Underlying Reference(s), the time remaining until the scheduled redemption date of the Securities, the actual or implied volatility associated with the Underlying Reference(s) and the correlation risk of the relevant Underlying Reference(s). The possibility that the value and trading price of the W&C Securities will fluctuate (either positively or negatively) depends on a number of factors, which investors should consider carefully before purchasing or selling W&C Securities. The only means through which a Holder can realise value from their W&C Securities prior to the beginning of their Exercise Period is to sell them at the market price in an available secondary market, which may be a lower value than the original price at which the Holder purchased the W&C Securities. If there is no or a limited secondary market for the W&C Securities and the Holder is unable to sell its W&C Securities they will have to exercise the W&C Securities to realise any value.

4. Legal risks:

The terms of the W&C Securities will contain provisions for calling meetings of holders of such Securities to consider matters affecting their interests generally. These provisions permit defined majorities to bind all holders, including holders who did not attend and vote at the relevant meeting and holders who voted in a manner contrary to the majority.
