| B.13                                         | A description of any recent events particular to the issuer which are to a material extent relevant to the evaluation of the issuer's solvency. | Significant events that may have a material impact on the assessment of the Issuer's solvency have recently not occurred. However, Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG is currently subject to an extra-ordinary audit on withholding taxes by the Frankfurt-Hoechst tax authority for the years 2007-2008. In this context the tax authority has expressed its view that Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG may not have deducted and paid withholding taxes from dividends received in connection with so called cum-ex transactions for shares held by it in custody for its clients as required. Based on these findings the tax authority is currently of the view that Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG is liable for non deducted withholding taxes in the amount of more than Euro 706 million for the years 2007 and 2008. In case the tax authority's view should succeed further tax liability for the years 2009 to 2011 may arise which can not be estimated at the moment. The main starting point for the liability claim of the tax authorities is the question if Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG is to be qualified as a German bank executing the trade (die den Verkaufsauftrag ausführende Stelle) in the respective years. Furthermore, the method applied to identify the amount of the liability claim is debatable as well as the question if Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG can be held liable as principal debtor. Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG has obtained legal advice from a reputable tax consultant office as well as from a reputable accounting firm. Based thereon, the management of Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG is of the view that the likelihood to win any legal proceedings in this matter exceeds 50 per. cent. On this basis, Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG's management has decided to put up a reserve only for expected legal advice and litigation expenses, if any, and has decided that 2 million Euro is an adequate figure in this respect. Furthermore, it should be noted that Citigroup is currently evaluating measures to optimize its organizational structure. |                 |        |        |                |     |     |                |       |       |                     |     |     |  |                                                       |                                                       |                                 |   |   |                                     |    |    |                                      |   |   |                                              |    |    |                                 |    |    |

| D.2 | Key information on the key risks that are specific to the issuer. | Risk of the cessation or limitation of price-setting by the Issuer If the Issuer were to limit or completely abandon its voluntary intention to set bid and ask prices, there would be a danger, if prices for the Certificates were not set by any other party that investors would have to wait for the final maturity of the Certificates or, where early exercise is possible, exercise the certificate right. Liquidity risk despite control and profit and loss transfer agreement The Issuer would also be unable to meet its obligations arising from the securities despite the control and profit and loss transfer agreement if, in the event that the Issuer generated a net loss, while the immediate parent company would in principle be required to assume that loss, it was unable or unwilling to comply with this contractual obligation as a result of its own liquidity difficulties or overindebtedness. Brokerage of transactions for other Group companies and allocation of work within Citigroup The great majority of the Issuer's commission income consists of transfer pricing income from brokerage transactions with affiliated companies. The Issuer's costs arising from the exchange of services with individual Group companies are reimbursed on the basis of existing agreements using transfer prices. For this purpose, income and expenses, in particular commission income for transactions assisted by the bank in an advisory capacity in the context of its sales activities, are determined and allocated to the relevant areas providing the services. The transactions relate to equity trading, bond issues and corporate finance as well as to the sale of structured products, corporate derivatives and currency management products, and also global relationship banking. This process is coordinated closely across all areas with Citigroup Global Markets Limited, London, in particular, and also with Citibank, N.A., London. If a decision were made within Citigroup to reallocate the relevant activities to other Group companies, the Issuer could lose a material source of income. Risks in the lending business |

|  | The Issuer's loan portfolio consists mainly of loans to international customers in the industrial and financial services sectors with investment grade<sup>1</sup> credit ratings. Loan defaults have been avoided in recent years thanks to this business policy. The loan portfolio is mainly concentrated on a manageable number of borrower units, as defined by German banking law. If significant individual borrowers in the Issuer's portfolio were unable to meet their obligations, therefore, a substantial increase in loan loss provisions would be conceivable in principle and loan defaults could occur. Pension fund risk The Issuer currently has three pension funds. However, the risk-bearing capacity calculation lists only two funds, for which the Issuer bears an economic risk regarding the minimum return (yield) targets and a duty to make subsequent contributions. Risks of interest rate changes The Issuer assesses and controls the risk of interest rate changes. The Issuer is exposed to the risk of changes in interest rates in mid to long-term in holdings in liquid securities if these were not originally covered by hedging transactions. The same applies to medium and long-term loans granted by the Issuer. A significant risk from interest rate changes could arise where interest rates are not monitored in a timely or sensitive manner, which may produce the concomitant danger that action to cover such interest rate exposure is not taken early enough. Operating risk The Issuer has transferred a number of areas that are significant for the proper management and control of its business activities and the risks associated with them to other companies within and outside Citigroup. In the event that the companies to which these areas have been transferred do not fulfill their contractual obligations or do not do so at the proper time, the ability of the Issuer to meet its own obligations arising from the securities it has issued on the due dates could also be adversely affected. Tax risks The tax decisions issued to the Issuer are regularly subject to subsequent review in the form of an external tax audit or to the resolution of individual issues by the relevant courts. This is normal practice and means that an additional tax demand can be issued by the tax authorities years after the original assessment as a result of a tax audit or a generally applicable decision by a tax court. General business risks <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Settlement riskThe risk that a business transaction is incorrectly processed or that a transaction is executed which is different from the intentions and expectations of the Issuer's management.</li> <li>• Information riskThe risk that information, which was generated, received, transmitted or stored within or outside the Issuer's place of business, can no longer be accessed. Furthermore, such information may be of poor quality, or have been wrongly handled or improperly obtained. The information risk also includes risks that are generated by systems and used for processing information.</li> <li>• Reputation riskThis represents the Issuer's risk that its relations with its customers could be harmed if its services are poor or transactions are incorrectly executed. <sup>1</sup> "investment grade" is an indication for the credit risk of a debtor which allows a simple assessment of the solvency. For long-term ratings, i.e. for a period of time of more than 360 days the rating codes are, e.g. from S&P or Fitch, split into AAA (highest quality, lowest risk), AA, A, BBB, BB, B, CCC, CC, C to D (payment difficulties, delay). The ratings AAA to BBB (average good investment; in case of a deterioration of the global economy problems could be expected) are regarded as "investment grade".

| D.6 | Key information on the key risks that are specific to the securities. This must include a risk warning to the effect that investors may lose the value of their entire investment or part of it, as the case may be, and/or, if the investor's liability is not limited to the value of his investment, a statement of that fact, together with a description of the circumstances in which such additional liability arises and the likely financial effect. | General risk factors of Certificates Risk of total loss The Certificates represent risky investment instruments. They entail the risk of losing the capital invested, up to and including a total loss. The rights represented by the Certificates may suffer an irrecoverable loss of value, because these Certificates only ever represent rights that are valid for a limited period. Risk of default by the Issuer of the Certificates In the event of the Issuer becoming insolvent, investors could suffer a loss up to and including a total loss. As bearer securities, Certificates do not fall within the scope of the deposit protection arrangements. Risk of the absence or non-functioning of a secondary market in the Certificates or restricted availability of the Issuer's electronic trading system Investors should not assume that they will be able to sell a Certificate at a particular time or at a particular price during its term. Investors should assume instead that pricing on the exchange can only take place within the spread of bid and ask prices quoted by the Issuer, if available, and that their buy or sell orders on the exchange will be executed with the Issuer as the direct or indirect counterparty. Risk in connection with the cessation of secondary trading immediately prior to final maturity The Issuer and/or the exchange cease trading in the Certificates shortly before their valuation date. However, the reference price of the underlying on the valuation date and/or the applicable exchange rate, both of which are important for the purpose of determining the cash amount of the Certificates, may still change between the last exchange trading day and the maturity date, which may be to the disadvantage of the investor. There is a particular risk that the price of the underlying may reach, fall below or exceed a barrier for the first time shortly before the reference price on the valuation date is determined and after trading in the secondary market has already finished. Exchange rate risk If the underlying asset or basket constituents on which the Certificates are based are denominated in a currency other than the settlement currency, investors may be exposed to the risk of suffering a loss as a result of the conversion of the currency of the underlying or of a basket constituent into the settlement currency or into the trading currency (in the event of a sale in the secondary market). Risk of Certificates with currency hedging (Quanto Certificates) |

However, the price of Certificates with Quanto currency hedging may also respond to exchange rate movements prior to the valuation time of the Certificates, even if the factors affecting their value remain otherwise unchanged. In the event that the Certificate is sold during its term, the investor may be exposed to a corresponding exchange rate risk. If a Certificate has Quanto hedging, therefore, investors must assume that they will also pay for any costs of the Quanto hedging. In the case of Certificates with currency hedging Investors do not participate in a favourable development of the exchange rate at the time of the determination of the redemption amount. Risk relating to market disruption events In the event of market disruption events with respect to the underlying occurring on the (final) valuation date or, in the case of Open End Certificates, i.e. Certificates which do not have a defined term, on exercise, the Issuer has the right to postpone the valuation date for the reference price. This may result in an additional risk for investors if the underlying performs negatively during the period of delay or, where applicable, if the exchange rate for conversion into the settlement currency moves in a direction that is unfavorable for the investor. Product specific risk factors Product No. 1: Specific risk factors of Bonus or Capped Bonus or Bonus Pro or Capped Bonus Pro Certificates: If the observation price equals or falls below the barrier at any time during the observation period within the observation hours, the Certificate is subject to a risk of loss depending on the relevant reference price of the underlying on the valuation date. In the worst case this will involve the total loss of the capital invested. This will be the case if the relevant reference price of the underlying on the valuation date amounts to zero. In the case of Bonus Certificates with physical delivery, if the observation price equals or falls below the barrier at any time during the observation period within the observation hours and in the case of Capped Bonus Certificates if the reference price on the valuation date is determined to be lower than the cap, then instead of the cash amount the investor receives the underlying in the number expressed by the multiplier. The market value of the underlying may be lower than the purchase price of the Certificate. In this event investors will suffer a loss. In the worst case this will involve the total loss of the capital invested. This will be the case if the relevant reference price of the underlying on the valuation date amounts to zero. |

| E.4 | A description of any interest that is material to the issue/offer including conflicting interests. | The Issuer, its affiliated companies or other companies belonging to Citigroup, Inc. or affiliated to it generally act as the calculation agent for the Certificates. This activity can lead to conflicts of interest since the responsibilities of the calculation agent include making certain determinations and decisions which could have a negative effect on the price of the Certificates or the level of the cash amount. The Issuer, its affiliated companies or other companies belonging to Citigroup, Inc. or affiliated to it may actively engage in trading transactions in the underlying, other instruments or derivatives, stock exchange options or stock exchange forward contracts linked to it, or the issuance of other securities and derivatives based on the underlying. The companies may also be involved in the acquisition of new shares or other securities of the underlying or, in the case of stock indices, of individual companies included in the index, or act as financial advisers to the entities referred to or work with them in the commercial banking business. The companies are required to fulfill their obligations arising in this connection irrespective of the consequences resulting for the certificate holders and, where necessary, to take actions they consider necessary or appropriate in order to protect themselves or safeguard their interests arising from these business relationships. The activities referred to above could lead to conflicts of interest and have a negative effect on the price of the underlying or securities linked to it such as the Certificates. The Issuer, its affiliated companies or other companies belonging to Citigroup, Inc. or affiliated to it may issue additional derivative securities based on the respective underlying or constituents of the underlying, including securities whose features are the same as or similar to those of the Certificates. The introduction of such products that compete with the Certificates may impact the price of the underlying or the constituents of the underlying and thus also the price of the Certificates. The Issuer, its affiliated companies or other companies belonging to Citigroup, Inc. or affiliated to it may receive non-public information relating to the underlying or the constituents of the underlying, but are under no obligation to pass on such information to the certificate holders. Furthermore, companies belonging to Citigroup, Inc. or affiliated to it may publish research reports relating to the underlying or constituents of the underlying. These types of activities may entail certain conflicts of interest and affect the price of the Certificates. |
| E.7 | Estimated expenses charged to the investor by the issuer or the offeror.                           | The estimated expenses for the Certificates, including the cost for admission to exchange trading, are included in the issue price or the selling price, as the case may be. | A.1                                        | Le présent Résumé présente les caractéristiques et les risques principaux de Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG (« l'Émetteur ») et les Certificats émis au titre de Prospectus de Base daté du 7 mai 2014 (complétés par le supplément en date du 13 août 2014 et encore augmentés de temps à autre). Le Résumé a pour finalité de servir d'introduction au Prospectus de Base. Les investisseurs devraient donc veiller à ne prendre aucune décision d'investir dans les Certificats avant d'avoir pris connaissance du Prospectus dans sa totalité, y compris des documents intégrés par référence, de tous les suppléments et des Conditions Définitives. Dans le cas où un recours relatif aux informations contenues dans un prospectus de base, les documents intégrés par référence, dans tous les suppléments ou dans les Conditions Définitives respectives serait intenté auprès d'un tribunal, l'investisseur agissant en tant que plaignant pourrait, en vertu des lois de différents États membres de l'Espace économique européen, être contraint de prendre en charge le coût de la traduction du prospectus de base, des documents intégrés par référence, de tous les suppléments et des Conditions Définitives, dans la langue de travail du tribunal avant le commencement de la procédure judiciaire. L'Émetteur assume la responsabilité du contenu de ce Résumé, y compris de toute traduction en étant faite. L'Émetteur ou toute personne ayant déposé le Résumé peut être jugé responsable, mais seulement dans le cas où le Résumé serait trompeur, inexact ou contradictoire par rapport aux autres parties du Prospectus, ou, dans le cas où il est lu en même temps que les autres parties du Prospectus de Base, s'il ne donne pas toutes les informations clés nécessaires. |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |

Pour les années suivantes, nous nous attendons à une nouvelle augmentation de 3,3% pour 2015 et à une hausse de 3,5 % pour 2016 et 2017. D'une façon générale, l'Émetteur s'attend au maintien d'écarts significatifs entre les différentes régions.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |

|  | secteurs d'activité. | L'Émetteur s'attend à une croissance modeste dans l'Eurozone (les prévisions de croissance de l'Émetteur sont de 0,9 % et de 1,0 % pour 2014 et 2015, respectivement) après avoir enregistré un taux de -0,4 % en 2013. La reprise économique devrait être dynamisée par la réduction des mesures publiques d'austérité, une politique monétaire favorable dans la durée de la part de la Banque Centrale Européenne (BCE), le redressement de l'économie mondiale et la diminution des facteurs d'incertitude. Un euro plus fort, un endettement plus élevé dans les secteurs privés et publics et des conditions de financement toujours difficiles (surtout pour les petites et moyennes entreprises et pour de nombreux États membres) devraient continuer à empêcher la croissance potentielle dans l'Eurozone. L'inflation devrait être très modérée dans l'ensemble de l'Eurozone. En 2014, les éléments importants seront « l'examen de la qualité des actifs » et le test de stress qui sont prévus et que la BCE réalisera en lien avec les autorités de contrôle nationales et l'Autorité bancaire européenne (ABE). Malgré les efforts actuels de nombreuses banques européennes pour réduire la dette et augmenter le capital, de nouveaux déficits ou insuffisances des banques dans certains pays pourraient apparaître au cours de ces recherches. Cette perspective et l'incertitude, qui prévaut actuellement sur la manière dont les besoins en capital pourraient être potentiellement satisfaits, pourraient entraîner une incertitude à la fois sur les marchés financiers et, potentiellement, à l'approche de ces tests. Étant donné les risques actuels de déflation et la faible croissance, nous nous attendons à ce que la BCE poursuive l'ajustement des taux d'intérêt et décide d'apports supplémentaires de liquidités si la situation du marché le nécessite. Compte tenu de la persistance des taux d'intérêt bas, de l'hésitation des clients et de la volatilité encore prévisible sur les marchés, le potentiel de croissance des bénéfices dans le secteur bancaire doit encore être considéré comme modeste. Des questions telles que les exigences en matière de capital, la réglementation et la restructuration seront encore des sujets essentiels dans le secteur bancaire en 2014 et marqueront de leur empreinte l'aspect financier des choses. Des réductions générales des coûts et la révision des modèles de gestion occuperont une fois de plus une place centrale. L'accroissement des exigences réglementaires en matière de fonds propres et de liquidités continuera à préoccuper l'ensemble du secteur financier et, sans aucun doute, augmentera fortement les charges d'exploitation. Pour l'Allemagne, l'Émetteur prévoit des taux de croissance de 1,9 % environ pour 2014 et de 1,7 % pour 2015. Aux États-Unis, il faut encore observer comme réagira la Réserve fédérale aux défis actuels et si les partis politiques des États-Unis peuvent parvenir à un accord sur le budget du pays. L'Asie semble stable et demeurera certainement attractive pour les investisseurs. Néanmoins, il faut encore voir comment la Chine résoudra certains de ses défis actuels. Pour les pays industriels, le taux d'inflation en 2014 devrait légèrement augmenter à 1,7 % et demeurer ensuite relativement stable les années suivantes. De même, en Allemagne, le taux d'inflation devrait osciller au-dessous de 2%. Concernant les taux d'inflation des pays émergents, l'Émetteur s'attend à une légère augmentation de 5,0 % en 2014 et de 5,2 % en 2015. Aucun projet de modification importante du modèle de gestion n'existe en 2014 pour l'Émetteur. Il continuera à s'axer sur son activité de base et, compte tenu de l'environnement difficile du marché, s'efforcera de maintenir et, si possible, d'étendre sa part actuelle de marché. À cet égard, l'Émetteur conseillera et soutiendra ses clients dans toutes les activités générales en s'appuyant sur le réseau mondial et les produits de Citi. En 2014, l'Émetteur mettra en œuvre une nouvelle fois un programme strict de gestion des coûts et de la comptabilité. Dans ce sens, il recherchera essentiellement à améliorer l'efficacité opérationnelle et à consolider davantage les structures de gouvernance d'entreprise. L'optimisation des procédures internes restera aussi l'objectif. Il n'existe aucun projet |

L'Émetteur a cependant l'intention d'ajouter ponctuellement des clients stratégiquement importants à sa clientèle dans la mesure où peut être mis au point un modèle de gestion apportant des gains économiques durables pour ces clients et pour Citi. La solvabilité du portefeuille de clients actuel est considérée stable. L'exposition du portefeuille de prêts par rapport aux pays périphériques est limitée au maximum. Aucun préjudice important de cette exposition n'est présagé. | B.13                             | Décrire tout événement récent propre à l'émetteur et présentant un intérêt significatif pour l'évaluation de sa solvabilité.                                                               | Aucun événement présentant un intérêt significatif pour l'évaluation de la solvabilité de l'Émetteur n'est identifié à ce moment. Cependant, Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG est actuellement sujet à un audit extraordinaire sur les retenues à la source fiscales par l'autorité fiscale Francfort-Hoeschst pour les années 2007-2008. Dans ce contexte, l'autorité fiscale a explicité ses vues quant au fait que Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG peut ne pas avoir déduit et payé la retenue à la source des dividendes reçus en relation avec des transactions communément appelées cum-ex transactions pour des actions qu'il conserve pour ses clients suivant les besoins. S'appuyant sur ces observations, l'autorité fiscale est actuellement de l'avis que Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG est responsable de la non-déduction de la retenue à la source d'un montant supérieur à 706 millions d'euros pour les années 2007 et 2008. Dans le cas où l'autorité fiscale a raison, la responsabilité fiscale pour les années 2009 à 2011 pourrait se poser, ce qui est impossible d'estimer pour le moment. Le principal point de départ de l'action en responsabilité des autorités fiscales est de savoir si Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG est qualifié de banque allemande exécutant une transaction (die den Verkaufsauftrag ausführende Stelle) durant ces années. De plus, la méthode appliquée pour identifier le montant des dommages et intérêts est débattue comme celle de savoir si Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG peut être tenu responsable comme débiteur principal. Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG a obtenu l'avis juridique d'un bureau réputé de consultants en fiscalité ainsi que d'un cabinet réputé d'expertise comptable. A partir de ces avis, la direction de Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG considère que la probabilité d'obtenir gain de cause dans l'hypothèse d'une procédure judiciaire excède 50 pourcents. De ce fait, la direction de Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG a décidé de n'écrire dans ses comptes qu'une réserve au titre de l'avis juridique et des dépenses éventuelles de litige et a décidé à cet égard qu'un montant de 2 millions d'Euros était adéquat. De plus, il devrait être noté que Citigroup envisage actuellement des mesures visant à optimiser sa structure d'organisation. |                                  |    |    |

Les coûts pour l'Émetteur résultant de l'échange de services avec différentes sociétés du Groupe sont remboursés sur la base des accords existants en utilisant les prix de cession. À cette fin, le revenu et les dépenses, en particulier le revenu de commission pour les transactions réalisées avec l'assistance de la banque à titre de conseiller dans le cadre de ses activités commerciales, sont déterminés et alloués aux différents secteurs fournissant les services. Les transactions se rapportent à la négociation sur les titres, les émissions d'obligations et la gestion financière d'entreprise ainsi qu'à la vente de produits structurés, dérivés de titres de sociétés et les produits de gestion de devises, et aux opérations bancaires internationales. Ce processus est coordonné étroitement dans l'ensemble des secteurs avec Citigroup Global Markets Limited, Londres, en particulier, et également avec Citibank, N.A., Londres. Si une décision était prise au sein de Citigroup pour réaffecter les activités concernées à d'autres sociétés du Groupe, l'Émetteur pourrait perdre une importante source de revenu. Les risques de l'activité de prêt Le portefeuille de prêt de l'Émetteur consiste principalement en prêts accordés à des clients |

Les défauts de remboursement de prêt ont été évités ces dernières années grâce à cette politique commerciale. Le portefeuille de prêts consiste principalement en un nombre raisonnable d'unités empruntrices, comme le prescrit la loi allemande sur les opérations bancaires. Si des emprunteurs individuels importants du portefeuille de l'Émetteur n'étaient pas en mesure d'honorer leurs obligations, une forte hausse des provisions pour pertes sur prêt serait envisageable en principe et des défauts de remboursement sur prêts pourraient se produire. Risque des fonds de pension L'Émetteur possède habituellement trois fonds de pension. Toutefois, le calcul de la capacité de couverture des risques indique uniquement deux fonds pour lesquels l'Émetteur supporte un risque économique par rapport aux objectifs (de rendement) minimum et un devoir de réalisation de revenus importants. Risques de fluctuations des taux d'intérêt L'Émetteur évalue et maîtrise le risque de fluctuations des taux d'intérêt. L'Émetteur est exposé au risque de fluctuations des taux d'intérêt à moyen ou à long terme pour la détention de titres liquides si ceux-ci n'étaient pas à l'origine couverts par des transactions de couverture. Il en va de même pour les emprunts à moyen et long terme accordés par l'Émetteur. Un risque significatif de fluctuation des taux d'intérêt pourrait survenir lorsque les taux d'intérêt ne font pas l'objet d'un suivi attentif et en temps opportun, ce qui peut générer le danger concomitant qu'une mesure pour couvrir une telle exposition au risque de taux d'intérêt ne soit pas prise suffisamment tôt. Risque opérationnel L'Émetteur a transféré un certain nombre de domaines qui sont importants pour une gestion et un contrôle appropriés de ses activités économiques et les risques qui s'y rapportent à d'autres sociétés au sein et à l'extérieur de Citigroup. Au cas où les sociétés auxquelles ces domaines ont été transférés ne s'acquitteraient pas de leurs obligations contractuelles ou ne le feraient pas en temps opportun, la capacité de l'Émetteur à assumer ses propres obligations découlant des titres qu'il a émis aux dates prévues pourrait également être compromise. Risque fiscal Les décisions fiscales prises concernant l'Émetteur sont régulièrement soumises à un examen ultérieur sous forme d'audit fiscal externe ou d'arbitrage des affaires individuelles par les tribunaux compétents. Cette pratique est courante et signifie qu'un rappel d'impôts peut être décidé par l'administration fiscale des années après l'évaluation initiale en raison d'un contrôle fiscal ou d'une décision à portée générale rendue par un tribunal fiscal. Risques généraux liés à l'activité <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Risque de règlementLe risque qu'une transaction soit traitée de manière incorrecte, ou qu'une transaction soit exécutée différemment des intentions et des attentes de la direction de l'Émetteur.</li> <li>• Risque en matière d'informationLe risque que l'information, qui a été produite, reçue, transmise ou conservée au sein ou à l'extérieur du siège social de l'Émetteur ne soit plus accessible. <sup>1</sup> « crédit de qualité » est une indication du risque de crédit d'un emprunteur qui permet une simple évaluation de la solvabilité. Pour des notations sur le long terme, c'est-à-dire pour une période de plus de 360 jours, les taux de notation sont, par exemple selon S&P ou Fitch, divisés en AAA (qualité maximale, risque minimum), AA, A, BBB, BB, B, CCC, CC, C à D (difficultés de paiement, retard). Les notations AAA à BBB (bon investissement moyen ; en cas de détérioration de l'économie mondiale, des problèmes pourraient survenir) sont considérées comme « crédit de qualité ».

Cependant, le prix de référence de la valeur sous-jacente à la date d'évaluation et/ou le taux de change applicable, lesquels sont importants dans la détermination du montant des Certificats, peuvent varier entre le dernier jour de cotation et la date d'échéance, dans un sens défavorable à l'investisseur. Il existe un risque particulier que le prix de la valeur sous-jacente atteigne, chute au-dessous ou dépasse une barrière pour la première fois juste avant que le prix de référence à la date d'évaluation soit déterminé et après la clôture de la cotation sur le marché secondaire. Risque de change Si l'actif sous-jacent ou si les composants d'un panier sur lesquels les Certificats sont libellés dans une devise autre que la devise de règlement, les investisseurs pourraient être exposés au risque de subir une perte du fait de la conversion de la devise du sous-jacent ou d'un composant d'un panier dans la devise de règlement ou dans une devise d'échange (en cas de vente sur le marché secondaire). Risque relatif aux Certificats avec couverture par rapport à la devise (Certificats Quanto) Dans le cas de Certificats avec couverture par rapport à la devise (Certificats Quanto), le taux auquel le prix de référence concerné, exprimé dans la devise de la valeur sous-jacente est converti dans la devise de règlement à la date d'évaluation, est spécifié à l'avance dans les termes et conditions. Cependant, le prix des Certificats avec couverture par rapport à la devise (Certificats Quanto) peut tenir compte des fluctuations des taux de change avant la période d'évaluation des Certificats, même si les facteurs affectant leur valeur restent sinon inchangés. Dans le cas où le Certificat est vendu pendant sa période de validité, l'investisseur peut être exposé à un risque de taux de change correspondant. Si un Certificat a une couverture Quanto, en conséquence, les investisseurs doivent supposer qu'ils paieront aussi les coûts de la couverture Quanto. Dans le cas de Certificats avec couverture par rapport à la devise, les Investisseurs ne contribuent pas à un développement favorable du taux de change au moment de la détermination du montant de rachat. Risques d'événements perturbant le fonctionnement du marché En cas de survenue d'événements perturbant le fonctionnement du marché pour la valeur sous-jacente à la date d'évaluation (finale) ou, dans le cas de Certificats Open-End, c'est-à-dire de Certificats qui n'ont pas une validité définie, lors de l'exercice, l'Émetteur a le droit de repousser la date d'évaluation du prix de référence. Ceci peut entraîner un risque supplémentaire pour les investisseurs si la valeur sous-jacente réalise une performance négative pendant la durée du report ou, le cas échéant, si le taux de change utilisé pour la conversion en devise de règlement fluctue dans un sens qui est défavorable à l'investisseur. Facteurs de risque spécifiques au produit Produit n° 1 : facteurs de risques spécifiques aux Certificats Bonus ou Bonus Cappés ou Bonus Pro ou Bonus Pro Cappés : Si le prix d'observation atteint ou chute en dessous de la barrière à tout moment pendant la période d'observation au cours des heures d'observation, le Certificat présente un risque de perte dépendant du prix de référence considéré du sous-jacent à la date d'évaluation. Dans le pire des cas, ceci entraînera la perte totale du capital investi. Ceci sera le cas si le prix de référence du sous-jacent considéré à la date d'évaluation correspond à zéro. Dans le cas de Certificats Bonus avec livraison physique, si le prix d'observation atteint ou chute en dessous de la barrière à tout moment pendant la période d'observation au cours des heures d'observation et dans le cas de Certificats Bonus Cappés, si le prix de référence à la date d'évaluation est inférieur au plafond (niveau bonus), alors au lieu du montant en numéraire, l'investisseur recevra le sous-jacent dans un nombre exprimé par le coefficient |

Les sociétés peuvent également intervenir dans l'acquisition de nouvelles parts ou d'autres titres de la valeur sous-jacente ou, dans le cas d'indices de valeurs, de sociétés individuelles incluses dans l'indice, ou agir en qualité de conseillers financiers pour les entités auxquelles il est fait référence ou collaborer avec elle dans le secteur de la banque d'affaires. Les sociétés sont tenues de s'acquitter de leurs obligations à ce titre, indépendamment des conséquences qui peuvent en résulter pour les détenteurs de certificats et, le cas échéant, devront prendre les mesures qu'elles considèrent nécessaires ou appropriées pour se protéger ou sauvegarder leurs intérêts dans le cadre de ces relations d'affaires. Les activités visées ci-dessus pourraient entraîner des conflits d'intérêt et avoir un effet négatif sur le prix de la valeur sous-jacente ou des titres qui lui sont associés comme les Certificats. L'Émetteur, ses sociétés apparentées ou d'autres sociétés appartenant à Citigroup, Inc. ou affiliées à lui peuvent émettre des titres dérivés supplémentaires fondés sur la valeur sous-jacente, ou sur des éléments constitutifs de la valeur sous-jacente, notamment des titres dont les caractéristiques sont identiques ou similaires à celles des Certificats. L'introduction de tels produits, qui concurrencent les Certificats, peuvent avoir un effet sur le prix de la valeur sous-jacente ou les éléments constitutifs de la valeur sous-jacente et donc aussi sur le prix des Certificats. L'Émetteur, ses sociétés apparentées ou d'autres sociétés appartenant à Citigroup, Inc. ou affiliées à lui peuvent recevoir des informations de nature non publique se rapportant à la valeur sous-jacente, ou à des éléments constitutifs de la valeur sous-jacente, mais ne sont pas tenus de les communiquer aux détenteurs de certificats. De plus, les sociétés appartenant à Citigroup ou affiliées à lui peuvent publier des rapports de recherche se rapportant à la valeur sous-jacente ou aux éléments constitutifs de la valeur sous-jacente. Les activités de ce type peuvent créer certains conflits d'intérêt et affecter le prix des Certificats. |

based on the following underlying

ArcelorMittal

ISIN: DE000CC41HQ2

The respective Final Terms to the Base Prospectus will be made available free of charge as a separate document in paper form at the address of the relevant paying agent in each member state of the European Union in which the Certificates are offered and published on the Issuer's website www.citifirst.com.

The subject of the Final Terms are Capped Bonus Certificates (Product No. 1) (the "Certificates" or the "Series") based on a share or a security representing shares, issued by Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG, Frankfurt am Main (the "Issuer").

The Final Terms were prepared in accordance with Article 5 (4) of Directive 2003/71/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council of 4 November 2003 (as most recently amended by Directive 2010/73/EU of the European Parliament and of the Council of 24 November 2010) (the "Prospectus Directive") and must be read in conjunction with the Base Prospectus (as supplemented by the supplement dated 13 August 2014 and as further supplemented from time to time), including the documents incorporated by reference and any supplements thereto. Complete information about the Issuer and the offer of the Certificates can be obtained only from a synopsis of these Final Terms together with the Base Prospectus (including the documents incorporated by reference and all related supplements, if any).

The Final Terms to the Base Prospectus take the form of a separate document within the meaning of Article 26 (5) of Commission Regulation (EC) No. 809/2004 of 29 April 2004 as amended from time to time (the "Prospectus Regulation").

The Base Prospectus, any supplements thereto and the Final Terms are published by making them available free of charge at Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG, Frankfurter Welle, Reuterweg 16, 60323 Frankfurt am Main, Federal Republic of Germany and in another form as may be required by law. Furthermore, these documents are published in electronic form on the website www.citifirst.com.

An issue specific summary that has been completed for the Certificates is attached to these Final Terms.

INFORMATION ABOUT THE TERMS AND CONDITIONS - ISSUE SPECIFIC CONDITIONS

With respect to the Series of Certificates, the Issue Specific Conditions applicable to the Capped Bonus Certificates, as replicated in the following from the Base Prospectus and supplemented by the information in the Annex to the Issue Specific Conditions as set out below, and the General Conditions contain the conditions applicable to the Certificates (referred to together as the "Conditions"). The Issue Specific Conditions should be read in conjunction with the General Conditions.

Part A. Product Specific Conditions

No. 1

Certificate Right

Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG, Frankfurt am Main (the "Issuer") hereby grants the holder (the "Certificate Holder") of Capped Bonus Certificates (the "Certificates"), based on the Underlying, the right (the "Certificate Right"), in accordance with these Terms and Conditions and as specified in detail in each case in Table 1 and Table 2 of the Annex to the Issue Specific Conditions, to require the Issuer to pay upon exercise the Cash Amount (No. 2 (1) of the Issue Specific Conditions) or the Termination Amount (No. 2 of the General Conditions).

Cash Amount; Definitions

- (1) The "Cash Amount" for each Certificate upon exercise shall be equal, subject to paragraph (2), to the Final Reference Price multiplied by the Multiplier.
- (2) a. If the Observation Price (No. 5 (2) of the Issue Specific Conditions) does not equal or fall below the Barrier at any time during the Observation Period (paragraph (3)) within the Observation Hours (No. 5 (2) of the Issue Specific Conditions), the Cash Amount for each Certificate shall be at least equal to the Bonus Amount. The "Bonus Amount" for each Certificate shall be equal to the Bonus Level multiplied by the Multiplier.

b. The maximum Cash Amount (the "Maximum Amount") for each Certificate shall be equal to the Cap multiplied by the Multiplier.

- (4) All amounts payable under these Issue Specific Conditions shall be rounded to two decimal places in accordance with normal commercial practice.

No. 3

Exercise of the Certificate Right; Payment of the Cash Amount

- (1) The Certificate Right may be exercised by the Certificate Holder only with effect as of the Valuation Date for the respective Certificate.

If the Certificate Holder has not exercised the Certificate Right and if the Cash Amount is not equal to zero (0), the Certificate Right of the respective Certificate Holder shall be deemed to be exercised with effect as of the Valuation Date without further preconditions and without the submission of an explicit Exercise Notice.

- (2) Subject to the occurrence of a Market Disruption Event or an Adjustment Period, the Issuer will arrange for the Cash Amount to be paid in the Settlement Currency by the fifth Banking Day following the Valuation Date or the Currency Conversion Date, whichever is the latter, for the benefit of the account of the respective Certificate Holder via the Central Securities Depository.
- (3) The currency conversion rate used for the conversion of the Cash Amount, of the Extraordinary Termination Amount pursuant to No. 2 of the General Conditions or of any other amount payable under these Terms and Conditions into the Settlement Currency shall be determined by the Exchange Rate Reference Agent on the basis of the respective currency conversion rate published on the screen page specified in No. 2 (3) of the Issue Specific Conditions under "Reference Rate for Currency Conversion" on (i) the Currency Conversion Date or (ii) in the event of extraordinary termination pursuant to No. 2 of the General Conditions, the date on which the Extraordinary Termination Amount was determined by the Issuer, or, if that day is not a Banking Day, the immediately following Banking Day. In the event that no relevant Reference Rates for Currency Conversion are published on such screen page or that the rates published are questionable, the Issuer shall be entitled to use an appropriate corresponding rate for currency conversion published by a comparable financial services provider (e.g. Bloomberg) and calculated using a similar method. The relevant financial services provider shall be selected in the reasonable discretion of the Issuer.

In the event that the currency conversion rate cannot be determined or quoted in the manner described above, the Issuer shall be entitled to determine the currency conversion rate on the basis of the prevailing market circumstances.

- (4) The Issuer shall be released from its obligations upon payment of the Cash Amount or any other amounts payable under these Terms and Conditions to the Central Securities Depository.
- (5) The Central Securities Depository has given an undertaking to the Issuer to make a corresponding onward transfer. In the event that the onward transfer of the Cash Amount or of any other amount payable under these Terms and Conditions is not possible within three months after the Maturity Date ("Presentation Period"), the Issuer shall be entitled to deposit the relevant amounts or the fair market value of the Underlying with the Frankfurt am Main Local Court for the Certificate Holders at their risk and expense with a waiver of its right to reclaim those amounts. Upon the deposit of the relevant amounts with the Court, the claims of the Certificate Holders against the Issuer shall expire.
- (6) All taxes or other levies that may be incurred in connection with the payment of the Cash Amount or of the fair market value shall be borne by the Certificate Holders.

- (7) If the Valuation Date falls between the date on which the Issuer determines that there are grounds for making an Adjustment in accordance with No. 6 of the Issue Specific Conditions and the date on which the Issuer has given notice of the Adjustments (referred to in the following as the "Adjustment Period"), the Maturity Date shall be the fifth Banking Day common to the head office of the Issuer and to the location of the Central Securities Depository following the date on which the Issuer has given notice of the Adjustments for the Valuation Date. The calculation of the Cash Amount in accordance with No. 2 of the Issue Specific Conditions shall be based on the relevant Reference Price of the Underlying on the Valuation Date together with the adjustments made by the Issuer.
- (8) The Cash Amount and the fair market value shall be paid in the Settlement Currency without a requirement for the Issuer to give notice of any kind.
- (9) A declaration shall be deemed to have been made automatically that the person entitled to the rights arising from the Certificates is not a US person (as defined in Regulation S pursuant to the United States Securities Act of 1933) and that that person has agreed with the Issuer and, if the latter is not also the seller, with the seller of these Certificates (a) not to offer, sell, resell or deliver the Certificates acquired at any time directly or indirectly in the United States or to or for the account of or for the benefit of US persons, (b) not to purchase Certificates for the account of or for the benefit of US persons and (c) not to offer, sell, resell or deliver Certificates (acquired in any other manner) directly or indirectly in the United States or to or for the account of or for the benefit of US persons.

Part B. Underlying Specific Conditions

No. 5
Underlying

- (1) The "Underlying" shall correspond to the share or security representing shares of the Company specified in Table 2 of the Annex to the Issue Specific Conditions (the "Company").
- (2) The "Reference Price" of the Underlying shall correspond to the price of the Underlying specified as the Reference Price in Table 1 of the Annex to the Issue Specific Conditions, as calculated and published on Trading Days on the Relevant Exchange specified in Table 2 of the Annex to the Issue Specific Conditions (the "Relevant Exchange"). The "Observation Price" of the Underlying shall correspond to the prices for the Underlying calculated and published on an ongoing basis on Trading Days on the Relevant Exchange. "Observation Hours" shall be the Trading Hours. "Trading Days" shall be days on which the Underlying is normally traded on the Relevant Exchange. "Trading Hours" shall be hours during which the Underlying is normally traded on the Relevant Exchange on Trading Days.

Adjustments

- (1) If an Adjustment Event pursuant to paragraph (2) of this No. 6 occurs, the Issuer shall determine whether the relevant Adjustment Event has a diluting, concentrative or other effect on the computed value of the Underlying and, if such is the case, shall if necessary make a corresponding Adjustment to the affected features of the Certificates (referred to in the following as "Adjustments"), which in its reasonable discretion is appropriate in order to take account of the diluting, concentrative or other effect and to leave the Certificate Holders as far as possible in the same position in financial terms as they were in before the Adjustment Event took effect. The Adjustments may relate, among other things, to the Strike, the Multiplier or other relevant features, as well as to the replacement of the Underlying by a basket of shares or other assets or, in the event of a merger, by an adjusted number of shares of the absorbing or newly formed company and, where relevant, the specification of a different exchange as the Relevant Exchange and/or a different currency as the Reference Currency. The Issuer may (but is not obliged to) base the determination of this appropriate Adjustment on the adjustment made in response to the relevant Adjustment Event by a futures exchange, on which options or futures contracts on the Underlying are traded at the time of the Adjustment Event, in respect of options or futures contracts on the relevant share traded on that futures exchange.
- (2) An "Adjustment Event" shall be:
  - (a) the subdivision (stock split), combination (reverse stock split) or reclassification of the respective shares or the distribution of dividends in the form of bonus shares or stock dividends or a comparable issue;
  - (b) the increase in the capital of the Company by means of the issue of new shares in return for capital contributions, with the grant of a direct or indirect subscription right to its shareholders (capital increase for capital contributions);
  - (c) the increase of the capital of the Company from its own financial resources (capital increase from corporate funds);
  - (d) the grant by the Company to its shareholders of the right to subscribe for bonds or other securities with option or conversion rights (issue of securities with option or conversion rights);
  - (e) the distribution of an extraordinary dividend;
  - (f) the spin-off of a division of the Company in such a way that a new, independent company is formed or the division is absorbed by a third company, with the grant to the shareholders of the Company of shares in either the new company or the absorbing company for no consideration;
  - (g) the permanent delisting of the Underlying on the Relevant Exchange as a result of a merger by absorption or new company formation or for another reason;

- (h) other comparable events that could have a diluting, concentrative or other effect on the calculated value of the Underlying.
- (3) The rules described in the preceding paragraphs shall apply analogously to securities representing shares as the Underlying (such as ADRs, ADSs or GDRs).
- (4) Changes in the method of calculating the Reference Price or other prices for the Underlying Basket Constituent that are relevant in accordance with these Terms and Conditions, including a change in the Trading Days or Trading Hours relevant for the Underlying, shall entitle the Issuer to adjust the Certificate Right accordingly in its reasonable discretion. The Issuer shall determine the date on which the adjusted Certificate Right shall first apply, taking account of the date of the change.
- (5) In the event that the Underlying is permanently delisted on the Relevant Exchange but continues to be listed on another exchange or another market which the Issuer in its reasonable discretion considers to be suitable (the "New Relevant Exchange"), then, subject to Extraordinary Termination of the Certificates by the Issuer pursuant to No. 2 of the General Conditions, the Cash Amount shall be calculated on the basis of the corresponding prices for the Underlying calculated and published on the New Relevant Exchange. In addition, all references in these Terms and Conditions to the Relevant Exchange shall then be deemed, insofar as the context allows, to be references to the New Relevant Exchange.
- (6) In the event that a voluntary or compulsory liquidation, bankruptcy, insolvency, winding up, dissolution or comparable procedure affecting the Company is initiated, or in the event of a process as a result of which all of the shares in the Company or all or substantially all of the assets of the Company are nationalized or expropriated or required to be transferred in some other way to government bodies, authorities or institutions, or if following the occurrence of an event of another kind the Issuer reaches the conclusion that it is not possible to make an Adjustment that would reflect the changes that have occurred appropriately from a financial point of view, then the Issuer will terminate the Certificates pursuant to No. 2 of the General Conditions.
- (7) The Issuer shall give notice of the Adjustments and the date on which the Adjustments become effective in accordance with No. 4 of the General Conditions.

Market Disruption Events

- (1) If a Market Disruption Event in accordance with paragraph (2) of this No. 7 exists on the Valuation Date, then the Valuation Date shall be postponed to the next following day which fulfills the criteria for a Valuation Date with respect to the Underlying in accordance with No. 2 (3) of the Issue Specific Conditions and on which a Market Disruption Event no longer exists. The Issuer shall endeavor to give notice to the Certificate Holders without delay in accordance with No. 4 of the General Conditions that a Market Disruption Event has occurred. However, there shall be no obligation to give notice. If, as a result of the provisions of this paragraph, the Valuation Date has been postponed for five (5) consecutive days that fulfill the criteria for a Valuation Date in accordance with No. 2 (3) of the Issue Specific

Conditions and if the Market Disruption Event continues to exist on that day as well, then that day shall be deemed to be the relevant Valuation Date with respect to the Underlying and the Issuer shall determine the Cash Amount in its reasonable discretion taking account of the market conditions prevailing with respect to the Underlying on any such deemed Valuation Date.

(2) "Market Disruption Event" shall mean:

- (i) the suspension or restriction of trading in the Underlying on the Relevant Exchange, or
- (ii) the suspension or restriction of trading (including the lending market) in a futures or options contract based on the Underlying on a Futures Exchange on which futures or options contracts based on the Underlying are traded (the "Futures Exchange");

if that suspension or restriction occurs or exists in the last half-hour before the calculation of the closing price of the Underlying that would normally take place and is material as determined by the Issuer in its reasonable discretion. A change in the Trading Days or Trading Hours on or during which the Underlying is traded does not constitute a Market Disruption Event, provided that the change takes place as the result of a previously announced change in the trading regulations by the Relevant Exchange.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

Name and address of the paying agents and the calculation agent

Paying agent(s):

Citigroup Global Markets Ltd., 1-5 Rue Paul Cézanne, 75008 Paris, France

Calculation agent:

Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG, Frankfurter Welle, Reuterweg 16, 60323 Frankfurt am Main, Federal Republic of Germany

Offer method

The Certificates are being offered over-the-counter on a continuous basis in one series.

The offer of the Certificates begins in France on 04/12/2014.

Stock exchange listing

Application has been made to include the Certificates to trading in the regulated market on the Eurolist, Euronext Paris S.A. Stock Exchange, which is a regulated market within the meaning of Directive 2004/39/EC starting from 04/12/2014.

Consent to the use of the Prospectus

The Issuer consents to the use of the Prospectus by all financial intermediaries (general consent). The general consent to the subsequent resale and final placement of the securities by the financial intermediaries is given with respect to France.

The subsequent resale and final placement of the securities by financial intermediaries may take place during the period of validity of the Base Prospectus pursuant to § 9 of the German Securities Prospectus Act (Wertpapierprospektgesetz, "WpPG").

Issue price, price calculation and costs and taxes on purchase

The initial issue price is specified in Table 1 of the Annex to the Issue Specific Conditions.

Both the initial issue price and the bid and ask prices quoted by the Issuer during the term of the Certificates are calculated using theoretical pricing models. In this context, the bid and ask prices for the Certificates are determined on the basis, among other things, of the mathematical value of the Certificates, the costs of hedging and accepting risk and the expected return. Please see also the information provided under "Risk relating to the calculation of the Certificate prices" and "4. Risk of conflicts of interest", both in Section "II. Risk factors" under "B. Risk factors associated with Certificates".

No costs or taxes of any kind for the certificate holders will be deducted by the Issuer whether the Certificates are purchased off-market (in countries where this is permitted by law) or via a stock exchange. Such costs or taxes should be distinguished from the fees and costs charged to the purchaser of the Certificates by his bank for executing the securities order, which are generally shown separately on the statement for the purchase transaction in addition to the price of the Certificates. The latter costs depend solely on the particular terms of business of the certificate purchaser's bank. In the case of a purchase via a stock exchange, additional fees and expenses are also incurred. Furthermore, certificate holders are generally charged an individual fee in each case by their bank for managing the securities account. Notwithstanding the foregoing, profits arising from the Certificates or capital represented by the Certificates may be subject to taxation.

Information on the underlying

Website: www.arcelormittal.com

Disclaimers in relation to Share Prices used as Underlyings

Insofar as share prices are the underlying of Warrants issued by the issuer and described in this Final Terms document, the respective public limited company that has issued the relevant shares, to whose reference price the Warrants relate (the “Issuer of the Underlying”), does not express any recommendation for the Warrants issued by Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG, Frankfurt am Main. The Issuer of the underlying neither directly nor indirectly assumes any liability for the Warrants issued by Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG, Frankfurt am Main.

The Warrants are the sole obligation of Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG and do not involve liability on the part of the Issuer of the underlying. This is not an offer of shares. The Issuer of the underlying has not been and does not want to be involved, neither directly nor indirectly, in deciding the timing of the issue, or the preparation of this document, or the constitution of the option rights under these securities. Furthermore, the Warrant Holder will not have any right through the Warrant to any information, votes or dividends in the Issuer of the underlying.

Publication of additional information

The Issuer does not intend to provide any additional information about the underlying.

The Issuer will publish additional notices described in detail in the terms and conditions. Examples of such notices are adjustments of the features of the Certificates as a result of adjustments relating to the underlying which may, for example, affect the conditions for calculating the cash amount or a replacement of the underlying. A further example is the early redemption of the Certificates if an adjustment cannot be made.

Notices under these terms and conditions are generally published on the Issuer's website. If and to the extent that mandatory provisions of the applicable laws or exchange regulations require notices to be published elsewhere, they will also be published, where necessary, in the place prescribed in each case.

| A.1                                   | This Summary presents the key features and risks of Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG (the "Issuer") and of the Certificates issued under the Base Prospectus dated 07 May 2014 (as supplemented by the supplement dated 13 August 2014 and as further supplemented from time to time). The Summary is intended as an introduction to the Base Prospectus. Investors should therefore ensure that any decision to invest in the Certificates is based on a review of the entire Prospectus, including the documents incorporated by reference, any supplements and the Final Terms. Where claims relating to the information contained in a base prospectus, the documents incorporated by reference, any supplements, and the respective Final Terms are brought before a court, the investor acting as plaintiff may, as a result of the laws of individual member states of the European Economic Area, have to bear the costs of translating the base prospectus, the documents incorporated by reference, any supplements, and the Final Terms into the language of the court prior to the commencement of legal proceedings. The Issuer has assumed responsibility for this Summary including any translations of the same. The Issuer or persons who have tabled the Summary may be held liable, but only in the event that the Summary is misleading, inaccurate or inconsistent when read in conjunction with the other parts of the Prospectus, or, when read in conjunction with the other parts of the Base Prospectus, does not convey all of the key information required. |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |

For the years thereafter, we are anticipating a further increase to 3.3% for 2015 and a rise to 3.5% for 2016 and 2017. Overall, the Issuer continues to expect significant differences between the individual regions. The Issuer expects modest growth in the Eurozone (the Issuer's growth projections are 0.9% and 1.0% for 2014 and 2015, respectively) after having reported a -0.4% rate in 2013. The economic recovery should be buoyed by scaled-down public austerity measures, a continuing supportive monetary policy from the European Central Bank (ECB), a recovering global economy and a decline in the factors of uncertainty. A stronger Euro, higher debt loads in the private and public |

|     |                                                                      | sectors and a persistently difficult financing terms and conditions (above all for small and mid-sized companies and for many Member States) should continue to inhibit the growth potential in the Eurozone. Inflation should be very modest in the entire Eurozone. Important factors in 2014 will be the planned “Asset Quality Review” and the stress test, which the ECB will perform in conjunction with national supervisory authorities and the European Bank Authority (EBA). Despite the current efforts by many European banks to lower debt and raise capital, new capital shortfalls or gaps at the banks in some countries could come to light during the course of these investigations. This prospect and the currently prevailing uncertainty about how such capital shortfalls could be potentially filled could cause uncertainty both on the financial markets and potentially in the run-up to these tests. Given the current risks of deflation and weak growth, we expect that the ECB will further adjust interest rates, and will decide on additional liquidity measures, if the market situation necessitates such action. In light of the continued low interest rates, the hesitancy of clients, and the volatility still anticipated on the markets, the potential for earnings growth within the banking industry must still be viewed as modest. Issues such as capital requirements, regulation and restructuring will again be the major themes in the banking industry in 2014 and will leave their mark on the cost side of things. General cost reductions and the review of the business models will once again take center stage. Increased regulatory requirements concerning equity capital and liquidity will continue to preoccupy the entire financial industry and will without question significantly increase operating costs. For Germany, the Issuer is forecasting growth rates of about 1.9% for 2014 and 1.7% for 2015. In the United States, it remains to be seen how the Federal Reserve will react to the current challenges and whether the political parties in the US can reach an agreement on the US budget. Asia is viewed as stable and will certainly remain attractive to investors. Nevertheless, it remains to be seen how China will resolve some of its current challenges. For the industrial countries, the inflation rate in 2014 should increase slightly to 1.7%, and then remain relatively stable in the years thereafter. Also in Germany, the inflation rate should hover below 2%. With respect to the inflation rates for the emerging countries, the Issuer expects a slight increase to 5.0% in 2014 and to 5.2% in 2015. There are no plans for the Issuer’s business model to change significantly in 2014. The Issuer will continue to focus on its core business and, in light of the difficult market environment, direct its attention to maintaining and, where possible, expanding its current market share. In this respect, the Issuer will advise and support its clients in all global activities by relying on the global network and products of Citi. In 2014, the Issuer shall once again operate a disciplined cost and accounting management program. It will direct most of its attention in this regard to improving operational efficiency and to further strengthening the corporate governance structures. Optimizing internal procedures will also remain a focus. There is no plan to significantly expand the client portfolio, the volume of business and the selection of products and services. The Issuer does intend, however, to selectively add strategically important clients to its client base, to the extent that a business model can be developed which provides sustainable economic benefits for these clients and Citi. The credit standing of the current client portfolio is viewed as stable. The loan portfolio exposure to the peripheral countries is to the largest extent limited. No significant detriment from that exposure is anticipated. The risk capital currently available is viewed as absolutely adequate for running the current business model. Given the forecasts made by the individual Issuer’s divisions and the measures described above, the Bank is again projecting an overall profit for fiscal year 2014, but it will probably be slightly lower than the 2013 profit. |

| B.13                                         | A description of any recent events particular to the issuer which are to a material extent relevant to the evaluation of the issuer's solvency. | Significant events that may have a material impact on the assessment of the Issuer's solvency have recently not occurred. However, Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG is currently subject to an extra-ordinary audit on withholding taxes by the Frankfurt-Hoechst tax authority for the years 2007-2008. In this context the tax authority has expressed its view that Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG may not have deducted and paid withholding taxes from dividends received in connection with so called cum-ex transactions for shares held by it in custody for its clients as required. Based on these findings the tax authority is currently of the view that Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG is liable for non deducted withholding taxes in the amount of more than Euro 706 million for the years 2007 and 2008. In case the tax authority's view should succeed further tax liability for the years 2009 to 2011 may arise which can not be estimated at the moment. The main starting point for the liability claim of the tax authorities is the question if Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG is to be qualified as a German bank executing the trade (die den Verkaufsauftrag ausführende Stelle) in the respective years. Furthermore, the method applied to identify the amount of the liability claim is debatable as well as the question if Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG can be held liable as principal debtor. Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG has obtained legal advice from a reputable tax consultant office as well as from a reputable accounting firm. Based thereon, the management of Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG is of the view that the likelihood to win any legal proceedings in this matter exceeds 50 per. cent. On this basis, Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG's management has decided to put up a reserve only for expected legal advice and litigation expenses, if any, and has decided that 2 million Euro is an adequate figure in this respect. Furthermore, it should be noted that Citigroup is currently evaluating measures to optimize its organizational structure. |                 |        |        |                |     |     |                |       |       |                     |     |     |  |                                                       |                                                       |                                 |   |   |                                     |    |    |                                      |   |   |                                              |    |    |                                 |    |    |

| D.2 | Key information on the key risks that are specific to the issuer. | Risk of the cessation or limitation of price-setting by the Issuer If the Issuer were to limit or completely abandon its voluntary intention to set bid and ask prices, there would be a danger, if prices for the Certificates were not set by any other party that investors would have to wait for the final maturity of the Certificates or, where early exercise is possible, exercise the certificate right. Liquidity risk despite control and profit and loss transfer agreement The Issuer would also be unable to meet its obligations arising from the securities despite the control and profit and loss transfer agreement if, in the event that the Issuer generated a net loss, while the immediate parent company would in principle be required to assume that loss, it was unable or unwilling to comply with this contractual obligation as a result of its own liquidity difficulties or overindebtedness. Brokerage of transactions for other Group companies and allocation of work within Citigroup The great majority of the Issuer's commission income consists of transfer pricing income from brokerage transactions with affiliated companies. The Issuer's costs arising from the exchange of services with individual Group companies are reimbursed on the basis of existing agreements using transfer prices. For this purpose, income and expenses, in particular commission income for transactions assisted by the bank in an advisory capacity in the context of its sales activities, are determined and allocated to the relevant areas providing the services. The transactions relate to equity trading, bond issues and corporate finance as well as to the sale of structured products, corporate derivatives and currency management products, and also global relationship banking. This process is coordinated closely across all areas with Citigroup Global Markets Limited, London, in particular, and also with Citibank, N.A., London. If a decision were made within Citigroup to reallocate the relevant activities to other Group companies, the Issuer could lose a material source of income. Risks in the lending business |

|  | The Issuer's loan portfolio consists mainly of loans to international customers in the industrial and financial services sectors with investment grade<sup>1</sup> credit ratings. Loan defaults have been avoided in recent years thanks to this business policy. The loan portfolio is mainly concentrated on a manageable number of borrower units, as defined by German banking law. If significant individual borrowers in the Issuer's portfolio were unable to meet their obligations, therefore, a substantial increase in loan loss provisions would be conceivable in principle and loan defaults could occur. Pension fund risk The Issuer currently has three pension funds. However, the risk-bearing capacity calculation lists only two funds, for which the Issuer bears an economic risk regarding the minimum return (yield) targets and a duty to make subsequent contributions. Risks of interest rate changes The Issuer assesses and controls the risk of interest rate changes. The Issuer is exposed to the risk of changes in interest rates in mid to long-term in holdings in liquid securities if these were not originally covered by hedging transactions. The same applies to medium and long-term loans granted by the Issuer. A significant risk from interest rate changes could arise where interest rates are not monitored in a timely or sensitive manner, which may produce the concomitant danger that action to cover such interest rate exposure is not taken early enough. Operating risk The Issuer has transferred a number of areas that are significant for the proper management and control of its business activities and the risks associated with them to other companies within and outside Citigroup. In the event that the companies to which these areas have been transferred do not fulfill their contractual obligations or do not do so at the proper time, the ability of the Issuer to meet its own obligations arising from the securities it has issued on the due dates could also be adversely affected. Tax risks The tax decisions issued to the Issuer are regularly subject to subsequent review in the form of an external tax audit or to the resolution of individual issues by the relevant courts. This is normal practice and means that an additional tax demand can be issued by the tax authorities years after the original assessment as a result of a tax audit or a generally applicable decision by a tax court. General business risks <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Settlement riskThe risk that a business transaction is incorrectly processed or that a transaction is executed which is different from the intentions and expectations of the Issuer's management.</li> <li>• Information riskThe risk that information, which was generated, received, transmitted or stored within or outside the Issuer's place of business, can no longer be accessed. Furthermore, such information may be of poor quality, or have been wrongly handled or improperly obtained. The information risk also includes risks that are generated by systems and used for processing information.</li> <li>• Reputation riskThis represents the Issuer's risk that its relations with its customers could be harmed if its services are poor or transactions are incorrectly executed. <sup>1</sup> "investment grade" is an indication for the credit risk of a debtor which allows a simple assessment of the solvency. For long-term ratings, i.e. for a period of time of more than 360 days the rating codes are, e.g. from S&P or Fitch, split into AAA (highest quality, lowest risk), AA, A, BBB, BB, B, CCC, CC, C to D (payment difficulties, delay). The ratings AAA to BBB (average good investment; in case of a deterioration of the global economy problems could be expected) are regarded as "investment grade".

| D.6 | Key information on the key risks that are specific to the securities. This must include a risk warning to the effect that investors may lose the value of their entire investment or part of it, as the case may be, and/or, if the investor's liability is not limited to the value of his investment, a statement of that fact, together with a description of the circumstances in which such additional liability arises and the likely financial effect. | General risk factors of Certificates Risk of total loss The Certificates represent risky investment instruments. They entail the risk of losing the capital invested, up to and including a total loss. The rights represented by the Certificates may suffer an irrecoverable loss of value, because these Certificates only ever represent rights that are valid for a limited period. Risk of default by the Issuer of the Certificates In the event of the Issuer becoming insolvent, investors could suffer a loss up to and including a total loss. As bearer securities, Certificates do not fall within the scope of the deposit protection arrangements. Risk of the absence or non-functioning of a secondary market in the Certificates or restricted availability of the Issuer's electronic trading system Investors should not assume that they will be able to sell a Certificate at a particular time or at a particular price during its term. Investors should assume instead that pricing on the exchange can only take place within the spread of bid and ask prices quoted by the Issuer, if available, and that their buy or sell orders on the exchange will be executed with the Issuer as the direct or indirect counterparty. Risk in connection with the cessation of secondary trading immediately prior to final maturity The Issuer and/or the exchange cease trading in the Certificates shortly before their valuation date. However, the reference price of the underlying on the valuation date and/or the applicable exchange rate, both of which are important for the purpose of determining the cash amount of the Certificates, may still change between the last exchange trading day and the maturity date, which may be to the disadvantage of the investor. There is a particular risk that the price of the underlying may reach, fall below or exceed a barrier for the first time shortly before the reference price on the valuation date is determined and after trading in the secondary market has already finished. Exchange rate risk If the underlying asset or basket constituents on which the Certificates are based are denominated in a currency other than the settlement currency, investors may be exposed to the risk of suffering a loss as a result of the conversion of the currency of the underlying or of a basket constituent into the settlement currency or into the trading currency (in the event of a sale in the secondary market). Risk of Certificates with currency hedging (Quanto Certificates) |

However, the price of Certificates with Quanto currency hedging may also respond to exchange rate movements prior to the valuation time of the Certificates, even if the factors affecting their value remain otherwise unchanged. In the event that the Certificate is sold during its term, the investor may be exposed to a corresponding exchange rate risk. If a Certificate has Quanto hedging, therefore, investors must assume that they will also pay for any costs of the Quanto hedging. In the case of Certificates with currency hedging Investors do not participate in a favourable development of the exchange rate at the time of the determination of the redemption amount. Risk relating to market disruption events In the event of market disruption events with respect to the underlying occurring on the (final) valuation date or, in the case of Open End Certificates, i.e. Certificates which do not have a defined term, on exercise, the Issuer has the right to postpone the valuation date for the reference price. This may result in an additional risk for investors if the underlying performs negatively during the period of delay or, where applicable, if the exchange rate for conversion into the settlement currency moves in a direction that is unfavorable for the investor. Product specific risk factors Product No. 1: Specific risk factors of Bonus or Capped Bonus or Bonus Pro or Capped Bonus Pro Certificates: If the observation price equals or falls below the barrier at any time during the observation period within the observation hours, the Certificate is subject to a risk of loss depending on the relevant reference price of the underlying on the valuation date. In the worst case this will involve the total loss of the capital invested. This will be the case if the relevant reference price of the underlying on the valuation date amounts to zero. In the case of Bonus Certificates with physical delivery, if the observation price equals or falls below the barrier at any time during the observation period within the observation hours and in the case of Capped Bonus Certificates if the reference price on the valuation date is determined to be lower than the cap, then instead of the cash amount the investor receives the underlying in the number expressed by the multiplier. The market value of the underlying may be lower than the purchase price of the Certificate. In this event investors will suffer a loss. In the worst case this will involve the total loss of the capital invested. This will be the case if the relevant reference price of the underlying on the valuation date amounts to zero. |

| E.4 | A description of any interest that is material to the issue/offer including conflicting interests. | The Issuer, its affiliated companies or other companies belonging to Citigroup, Inc. or affiliated to it generally act as the calculation agent for the Certificates. This activity can lead to conflicts of interest since the responsibilities of the calculation agent include making certain determinations and decisions which could have a negative effect on the price of the Certificates or the level of the cash amount. The Issuer, its affiliated companies or other companies belonging to Citigroup, Inc. or affiliated to it may actively engage in trading transactions in the underlying, other instruments or derivatives, stock exchange options or stock exchange forward contracts linked to it, or the issuance of other securities and derivatives based on the underlying. The companies may also be involved in the acquisition of new shares or other securities of the underlying or, in the case of stock indices, of individual companies included in the index, or act as financial advisers to the entities referred to or work with them in the commercial banking business. The companies are required to fulfill their obligations arising in this connection irrespective of the consequences resulting for the certificate holders and, where necessary, to take actions they consider necessary or appropriate in order to protect themselves or safeguard their interests arising from these business relationships. The activities referred to above could lead to conflicts of interest and have a negative effect on the price of the underlying or securities linked to it such as the Certificates. The Issuer, its affiliated companies or other companies belonging to Citigroup, Inc. or affiliated to it may issue additional derivative securities based on the respective underlying or constituents of the underlying, including securities whose features are the same as or similar to those of the Certificates. The introduction of such products that compete with the Certificates may impact the price of the underlying or the constituents of the underlying and thus also the price of the Certificates. The Issuer, its affiliated companies or other companies belonging to Citigroup, Inc. or affiliated to it may receive non-public information relating to the underlying or the constituents of the underlying, but are under no obligation to pass on such information to the certificate holders. Furthermore, companies belonging to Citigroup, Inc. or affiliated to it may publish research reports relating to the underlying or constituents of the underlying. These types of activities may entail certain conflicts of interest and affect the price of the Certificates. |
| E.7 | Estimated expenses charged to the investor by the issuer or the offeror.                           | The estimated expenses for the Certificates, including the cost for admission to exchange trading, are included in the issue price or the selling price, as the case may be. | A.1                                        | Le présent Résumé présente les caractéristiques et les risques principaux de Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG (« l'Émetteur ») et les Certificats émis au titre de Prospectus de Base daté du 7 mai 2014 (complétés par le supplément en date du 13 août 2014 et encore augmentés de temps à autre). Le Résumé a pour finalité de servir d'introduction au Prospectus de Base. Les investisseurs devraient donc veiller à ne prendre aucune décision d'investir dans les Certificats avant d'avoir pris connaissance du Prospectus dans sa totalité, y compris des documents intégrés par référence, de tous les suppléments et des Conditions Définitives. Dans le cas où un recours relatif aux informations contenues dans un prospectus de base, les documents intégrés par référence, dans tous les suppléments ou dans les Conditions Définitives respectives serait intenté auprès d'un tribunal, l'investisseur agissant en tant que plaignant pourrait, en vertu des lois de différents États membres de l'Espace économique européen, être contraint de prendre en charge le coût de la traduction du prospectus de base, des documents intégrés par référence, de tous les suppléments et des Conditions Définitives, dans la langue de travail du tribunal avant le commencement de la procédure judiciaire. L'Émetteur assume la responsabilité du contenu de ce Résumé, y compris de toute traduction en étant faite. L'Émetteur ou toute personne ayant déposé le Résumé peut être jugé responsable, mais seulement dans le cas où le Résumé serait trompeur, inexact ou contradictoire par rapport aux autres parties du Prospectus, ou, dans le cas où il est lu en même temps que les autres parties du Prospectus de Base, s'il ne donne pas toutes les informations clés nécessaires. |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |

Pour les années suivantes, nous nous attendons à une nouvelle augmentation de 3,3% pour 2015 et à une hausse de 3,5 % pour 2016 et 2017. D'une façon générale, l'Émetteur s'attend au maintien d'écarts significatifs entre les différentes régions.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |

|  | secteurs d'activité. | L'Émetteur s'attend à une croissance modeste dans l'Eurozone (les prévisions de croissance de l'Émetteur sont de 0,9 % et de 1,0 % pour 2014 et 2015, respectivement) après avoir enregistré un taux de -0,4 % en 2013. La reprise économique devrait être dynamisée par la réduction des mesures publiques d'austérité, une politique monétaire favorable dans la durée de la part de la Banque Centrale Européenne (BCE), le redressement de l'économie mondiale et la diminution des facteurs d'incertitude. Un euro plus fort, un endettement plus élevé dans les secteurs privés et publics et des conditions de financement toujours difficiles (surtout pour les petites et moyennes entreprises et pour de nombreux États membres) devraient continuer à empêcher la croissance potentielle dans l'Eurozone. L'inflation devrait être très modérée dans l'ensemble de l'Eurozone. En 2014, les éléments importants seront « l'examen de la qualité des actifs » et le test de stress qui sont prévus et que la BCE réalisera en lien avec les autorités de contrôle nationales et l'Autorité bancaire européenne (ABE). Malgré les efforts actuels de nombreuses banques européennes pour réduire la dette et augmenter le capital, de nouveaux déficits ou insuffisances des banques dans certains pays pourraient apparaître au cours de ces recherches. Cette perspective et l'incertitude, qui prévaut actuellement sur la manière dont les besoins en capital pourraient être potentiellement satisfaits, pourraient entraîner une incertitude à la fois sur les marchés financiers et, potentiellement, à l'approche de ces tests. Étant donné les risques actuels de déflation et la faible croissance, nous nous attendons à ce que la BCE poursuive l'ajustement des taux d'intérêt et décide d'apports supplémentaires de liquidités si la situation du marché le nécessite. Compte tenu de la persistance des taux d'intérêt bas, de l'hésitation des clients et de la volatilité encore prévisible sur les marchés, le potentiel de croissance des bénéfices dans le secteur bancaire doit encore être considéré comme modeste. Des questions telles que les exigences en matière de capital, la réglementation et la restructuration seront encore des sujets essentiels dans le secteur bancaire en 2014 et marqueront de leur empreinte l'aspect financier des choses. Des réductions générales des coûts et la révision des modèles de gestion occuperont une fois de plus une place centrale. L'accroissement des exigences réglementaires en matière de fonds propres et de liquidités continuera à préoccuper l'ensemble du secteur financier et, sans aucun doute, augmentera fortement les charges d'exploitation. Pour l'Allemagne, l'Émetteur prévoit des taux de croissance de 1,9 % environ pour 2014 et de 1,7 % pour 2015. Aux États-Unis, il faut encore observer comme réagira la Réserve fédérale aux défis actuels et si les partis politiques des États-Unis peuvent parvenir à un accord sur le budget du pays. L'Asie semble stable et demeurera certainement attractive pour les investisseurs. Néanmoins, il faut encore voir comment la Chine résoudra certains de ses défis actuels. Pour les pays industriels, le taux d'inflation en 2014 devrait légèrement augmenter à 1,7 % et demeurer ensuite relativement stable les années suivantes. De même, en Allemagne, le taux d'inflation devrait osciller au-dessous de 2%. Concernant les taux d'inflation des pays émergents, l'Émetteur s'attend à une légère augmentation de 5,0 % en 2014 et de 5,2 % en 2015. Aucun projet de modification importante du modèle de gestion n'existe en 2014 pour l'Émetteur. Il continuera à s'axer sur son activité de base et, compte tenu de l'environnement difficile du marché, s'efforcera de maintenir et, si possible, d'étendre sa part actuelle de marché. À cet égard, l'Émetteur conseillera et soutiendra ses clients dans toutes les activités générales en s'appuyant sur le réseau mondial et les produits de Citi. En 2014, l'Émetteur mettra en œuvre une nouvelle fois un programme strict de gestion des coûts et de la comptabilité. Dans ce sens, il recherchera essentiellement à améliorer l'efficacité opérationnelle et à consolider davantage les structures de gouvernance d'entreprise. L'optimisation des procédures internes restera aussi l'objectif. Il n'existe aucun projet |

L'Émetteur a cependant l'intention d'ajouter ponctuellement des clients stratégiquement importants à sa clientèle dans la mesure où peut être mis au point un modèle de gestion apportant des gains économiques durables pour ces clients et pour Citi. La solvabilité du portefeuille de clients actuel est considérée stable. L'exposition du portefeuille de prêts par rapport aux pays périphériques est limitée au maximum. Aucun préjudice important de cette exposition n'est présagé. | B.13                             | Décrire tout événement récent propre à l'émetteur et présentant un intérêt significatif pour l'évaluation de sa solvabilité.                                                               | Aucun événement présentant un intérêt significatif pour l'évaluation de la solvabilité de l'Émetteur n'est identifié à ce moment. Cependant, Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG est actuellement sujet à un audit extraordinaire sur les retenues à la source fiscales par l'autorité fiscale Francfort-Hoeschst pour les années 2007-2008. Dans ce contexte, l'autorité fiscale a explicité ses vues quant au fait que Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG peut ne pas avoir déduit et payé la retenue à la source des dividendes reçus en relation avec des transactions communément appelées cum-ex transactions pour des actions qu'il conserve pour ses clients suivant les besoins. S'appuyant sur ces observations, l'autorité fiscale est actuellement de l'avis que Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG est responsable de la non-déduction de la retenue à la source d'un montant supérieur à 706 millions d'euros pour les années 2007 et 2008. Dans le cas où l'autorité fiscale a raison, la responsabilité fiscale pour les années 2009 à 2011 pourrait se poser, ce qui est impossible d'estimer pour le moment. Le principal point de départ de l'action en responsabilité des autorités fiscales est de savoir si Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG est qualifié de banque allemande exécutant une transaction (die den Verkaufsauftrag ausführende Stelle) durant ces années. De plus, la méthode appliquée pour identifier le montant des dommages et intérêts est débattue comme celle de savoir si Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG peut être tenu responsable comme débiteur principal. Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG a obtenu l'avis juridique d'un bureau réputé de consultants en fiscalité ainsi que d'un cabinet réputé d'expertise comptable. A partir de ces avis, la direction de Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG considère que la probabilité d'obtenir gain de cause dans l'hypothèse d'une procédure judiciaire excède 50 pourcents. De ce fait, la direction de Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG a décidé de n'écrire dans ses comptes qu'une réserve au titre de l'avis juridique et des dépenses éventuelles de litige et a décidé à cet égard qu'un montant de 2 millions d'Euros était adéquat. De plus, il devrait être noté que Citigroup envisage actuellement des mesures visant à optimiser sa structure d'organisation. |                                  |    |    |

Les coûts pour l'Émetteur résultant de l'échange de services avec différentes sociétés du Groupe sont remboursés sur la base des accords existants en utilisant les prix de cession. À cette fin, le revenu et les dépenses, en particulier le revenu de commission pour les transactions réalisées avec l'assistance de la banque à titre de conseiller dans le cadre de ses activités commerciales, sont déterminés et alloués aux différents secteurs fournissant les services. Les transactions se rapportent à la négociation sur les titres, les émissions d'obligations et la gestion financière d'entreprise ainsi qu'à la vente de produits structurés, dérivés de titres de sociétés et les produits de gestion de devises, et aux opérations bancaires internationales. Ce processus est coordonné étroitement dans l'ensemble des secteurs avec Citigroup Global Markets Limited, Londres, en particulier, et également avec Citibank, N.A., Londres. Si une décision était prise au sein de Citigroup pour réaffecter les activités concernées à d'autres sociétés du Groupe, l'Émetteur pourrait perdre une importante source de revenu. Les risques de l'activité de prêt Le portefeuille de prêt de l'Émetteur consiste principalement en prêts accordés à des clients |

Les défauts de remboursement de prêt ont été évités ces dernières années grâce à cette politique commerciale. Le portefeuille de prêts consiste principalement en un nombre raisonnable d'unités empruntrices, comme le prescrit la loi allemande sur les opérations bancaires. Si des emprunteurs individuels importants du portefeuille de l'Émetteur n'étaient pas en mesure d'honorer leurs obligations, une forte hausse des provisions pour pertes sur prêt serait envisageable en principe et des défauts de remboursement sur prêts pourraient se produire. Risque des fonds de pension L'Émetteur possède habituellement trois fonds de pension. Toutefois, le calcul de la capacité de couverture des risques indique uniquement deux fonds pour lesquels l'Émetteur supporte un risque économique par rapport aux objectifs (de rendement) minimum et un devoir de réalisation de revenus importants. Risques de fluctuations des taux d'intérêt L'Émetteur évalue et maîtrise le risque de fluctuations des taux d'intérêt. L'Émetteur est exposé au risque de fluctuations des taux d'intérêt à moyen ou à long terme pour la détention de titres liquides si ceux-ci n'étaient pas à l'origine couverts par des transactions de couverture. Il en va de même pour les emprunts à moyen et long terme accordés par l'Émetteur. Un risque significatif de fluctuation des taux d'intérêt pourrait survenir lorsque les taux d'intérêt ne font pas l'objet d'un suivi attentif et en temps opportun, ce qui peut générer le danger concomitant qu'une mesure pour couvrir une telle exposition au risque de taux d'intérêt ne soit pas prise suffisamment tôt. Risque opérationnel L'Émetteur a transféré un certain nombre de domaines qui sont importants pour une gestion et un contrôle appropriés de ses activités économiques et les risques qui s'y rapportent à d'autres sociétés au sein et à l'extérieur de Citigroup. Au cas où les sociétés auxquelles ces domaines ont été transférés ne s'acquitteraient pas de leurs obligations contractuelles ou ne le feraient pas en temps opportun, la capacité de l'Émetteur à assumer ses propres obligations découlant des titres qu'il a émis aux dates prévues pourrait également être compromise. Risque fiscal Les décisions fiscales prises concernant l'Émetteur sont régulièrement soumises à un examen ultérieur sous forme d'audit fiscal externe ou d'arbitrage des affaires individuelles par les tribunaux compétents. Cette pratique est courante et signifie qu'un rappel d'impôts peut être décidé par l'administration fiscale des années après l'évaluation initiale en raison d'un contrôle fiscal ou d'une décision à portée générale rendue par un tribunal fiscal. Risques généraux liés à l'activité <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Risque de règlementLe risque qu'une transaction soit traitée de manière incorrecte, ou qu'une transaction soit exécutée différemment des intentions et des attentes de la direction de l'Émetteur.</li> <li>• Risque en matière d'informationLe risque que l'information, qui a été produite, reçue, transmise ou conservée au sein ou à l'extérieur du siège social de l'Émetteur ne soit plus accessible. <sup>1</sup> « crédit de qualité » est une indication du risque de crédit d'un emprunteur qui permet une simple évaluation de la solvabilité. Pour des notations sur le long terme, c'est-à-dire pour une période de plus de 360 jours, les taux de notation sont, par exemple selon S&P ou Fitch, divisés en AAA (qualité maximale, risque minimum), AA, A, BBB, BB, B, CCC, CC, C à D (difficultés de paiement, retard). Les notations AAA à BBB (bon investissement moyen ; en cas de détérioration de l'économie mondiale, des problèmes pourraient survenir) sont considérées comme « crédit de qualité ».

Cependant, le prix de référence de la valeur sous-jacente à la date d'évaluation et/ou le taux de change applicable, lesquels sont importants dans la détermination du montant des Certificats, peuvent varier entre le dernier jour de cotation et la date d'échéance, dans un sens défavorable à l'investisseur. Il existe un risque particulier que le prix de la valeur sous-jacente atteigne, chute au-dessous ou dépasse une barrière pour la première fois juste avant que le prix de référence à la date d'évaluation soit déterminé et après la clôture de la cotation sur le marché secondaire. Risque de change Si l'actif sous-jacent ou si les composants d'un panier sur lesquels les Certificats sont libellés dans une devise autre que la devise de règlement, les investisseurs pourraient être exposés au risque de subir une perte du fait de la conversion de la devise du sous-jacent ou d'un composant d'un panier dans la devise de règlement ou dans une devise d'échange (en cas de vente sur le marché secondaire). Risque relatif aux Certificats avec couverture par rapport à la devise (Certificats Quanto) Dans le cas de Certificats avec couverture par rapport à la devise (Certificats Quanto), le taux auquel le prix de référence concerné, exprimé dans la devise de la valeur sous-jacente est converti dans la devise de règlement à la date d'évaluation, est spécifié à l'avance dans les termes et conditions. Cependant, le prix des Certificats avec couverture par rapport à la devise (Certificats Quanto) peut tenir compte des fluctuations des taux de change avant la période d'évaluation des Certificats, même si les facteurs affectant leur valeur restent sinon inchangés. Dans le cas où le Certificat est vendu pendant sa période de validité, l'investisseur peut être exposé à un risque de taux de change correspondant. Si un Certificat a une couverture Quanto, en conséquence, les investisseurs doivent supposer qu'ils paieront aussi les coûts de la couverture Quanto. Dans le cas de Certificats avec couverture par rapport à la devise, les Investisseurs ne contribuent pas à un développement favorable du taux de change au moment de la détermination du montant de rachat. Risques d'événements perturbant le fonctionnement du marché En cas de survenue d'événements perturbant le fonctionnement du marché pour la valeur sous-jacente à la date d'évaluation (finale) ou, dans le cas de Certificats Open-End, c'est-à-dire de Certificats qui n'ont pas une validité définie, lors de l'exercice, l'Émetteur a le droit de repousser la date d'évaluation du prix de référence. Ceci peut entraîner un risque supplémentaire pour les investisseurs si la valeur sous-jacente réalise une performance négative pendant la durée du report ou, le cas échéant, si le taux de change utilisé pour la conversion en devise de règlement fluctue dans un sens qui est défavorable à l'investisseur. Facteurs de risque spécifiques au produit Produit n° 1 : facteurs de risques spécifiques aux Certificats Bonus ou Bonus Cappés ou Bonus Pro ou Bonus Pro Cappés : Si le prix d'observation atteint ou chute en dessous de la barrière à tout moment pendant la période d'observation au cours des heures d'observation, le Certificat présente un risque de perte dépendant du prix de référence considéré du sous-jacent à la date d'évaluation. Dans le pire des cas, ceci entraînera la perte totale du capital investi. Ceci sera le cas si le prix de référence du sous-jacent considéré à la date d'évaluation correspond à zéro. Dans le cas de Certificats Bonus avec livraison physique, si le prix d'observation atteint ou chute en dessous de la barrière à tout moment pendant la période d'observation au cours des heures d'observation et dans le cas de Certificats Bonus Cappés, si le prix de référence à la date d'évaluation est inférieur au plafond (niveau bonus), alors au lieu du montant en numéraire, l'investisseur recevra le sous-jacent dans un nombre exprimé par le coefficient |

Les sociétés peuvent également intervenir dans l'acquisition de nouvelles parts ou d'autres titres de la valeur sous-jacente ou, dans le cas d'indices de valeurs, de sociétés individuelles incluses dans l'indice, ou agir en qualité de conseillers financiers pour les entités auxquelles il est fait référence ou collaborer avec elle dans le secteur de la banque d'affaires. Les sociétés sont tenues de s'acquitter de leurs obligations à ce titre, indépendamment des conséquences qui peuvent en résulter pour les détenteurs de certificats et, le cas échéant, devront prendre les mesures qu'elles considèrent nécessaires ou appropriées pour se protéger ou sauvegarder leurs intérêts dans le cadre de ces relations d'affaires. Les activités visées ci-dessus pourraient entraîner des conflits d'intérêt et avoir un effet négatif sur le prix de la valeur sous-jacente ou des titres qui lui sont associés comme les Certificats. L'Émetteur, ses sociétés apparentées ou d'autres sociétés appartenant à Citigroup, Inc. ou affiliées à lui peuvent émettre des titres dérivés supplémentaires fondés sur la valeur sous-jacente, ou sur des éléments constitutifs de la valeur sous-jacente, notamment des titres dont les caractéristiques sont identiques ou similaires à celles des Certificats. L'introduction de tels produits, qui concurrencent les Certificats, peuvent avoir un effet sur le prix de la valeur sous-jacente ou les éléments constitutifs de la valeur sous-jacente et donc aussi sur le prix des Certificats. L'Émetteur, ses sociétés apparentées ou d'autres sociétés appartenant à Citigroup, Inc. ou affiliées à lui peuvent recevoir des informations de nature non publique se rapportant à la valeur sous-jacente, ou à des éléments constitutifs de la valeur sous-jacente, mais ne sont pas tenus de les communiquer aux détenteurs de certificats. De plus, les sociétés appartenant à Citigroup ou affiliées à lui peuvent publier des rapports de recherche se rapportant à la valeur sous-jacente ou aux éléments constitutifs de la valeur sous-jacente. Les activités de ce type peuvent créer certains conflits d'intérêt et affecter le prix des Certificats. |

- (4) All amounts payable under these Issue Specific Conditions shall be rounded to two decimal places in accordance with normal commercial practice.

No. 3

Exercise of the Certificate Right; Payment of the Cash Amount

- (1) The Certificate Right may be exercised by the Certificate Holder only with effect as of the Valuation Date for the respective Certificate.

If the Certificate Holder has not exercised the Certificate Right and if the Cash Amount is not equal to zero (0), the Certificate Right of the respective Certificate Holder shall be deemed to be exercised with effect as of the Valuation Date without further preconditions and without the submission of an explicit Exercise Notice.

- (2) Subject to the occurrence of a Market Disruption Event or an Adjustment Period, the Issuer will arrange for the Cash Amount to be paid in the Settlement Currency by the fifth Banking Day following the Valuation Date or the Currency Conversion Date, whichever is the latter, for the benefit of the account of the respective Certificate Holder via the Central Securities Depository.
- (3) The currency conversion rate used for the conversion of the Cash Amount, of the Extraordinary Termination Amount pursuant to No. 2 of the General Conditions or of any other amount payable under these Terms and Conditions into the Settlement Currency shall be determined by the Exchange Rate Reference Agent on the basis of the respective currency conversion rate published on the screen page specified in No. 2 (3) of the Issue Specific Conditions under "Reference Rate for Currency Conversion" on (i) the Currency Conversion Date or (ii) in the event of extraordinary termination pursuant to No. 2 of the General Conditions, the date on which the Extraordinary Termination Amount was determined by the Issuer, or, if that day is not a Banking Day, the immediately following Banking Day. In the event that no relevant Reference Rates for Currency Conversion are published on such screen page or that the rates published are questionable, the Issuer shall be entitled to use an appropriate corresponding rate for currency conversion published by a comparable financial services provider (e.g. Bloomberg) and calculated using a similar method. The relevant financial services provider shall be selected in the reasonable discretion of the Issuer.

In the event that the currency conversion rate cannot be determined or quoted in the manner described above, the Issuer shall be entitled to determine the currency conversion rate on the basis of the prevailing market circumstances.

- (4) The Issuer shall be released from its obligations upon payment of the Cash Amount or any other amounts payable under these Terms and Conditions to the Central Securities Depository.
- (5) The Central Securities Depository has given an undertaking to the Issuer to make a corresponding onward transfer. In the event that the onward transfer of the Cash Amount or of any other amount payable under these Terms and Conditions is not possible within three months after the Maturity Date ("Presentation Period"), the Issuer shall be entitled to deposit the relevant amounts or the fair market value of the Underlying with the Frankfurt am Main Local Court for the Certificate Holders at their risk and expense with a waiver of its right to reclaim those amounts. Upon the deposit of the relevant amounts with the Court, the claims of the Certificate Holders against the Issuer shall expire.
- (6) All taxes or other levies that may be incurred in connection with the payment of the Cash Amount or of the fair market value shall be borne by the Certificate Holders.

- (7) If the Valuation Date falls between the date on which the Issuer determines that there are grounds for making an Adjustment in accordance with No. 6 of the Issue Specific Conditions and the date on which the Issuer has given notice of the Adjustments (referred to in the following as the "Adjustment Period"), the Maturity Date shall be the fifth Banking Day common to the head office of the Issuer and to the location of the Central Securities Depository following the date on which the Issuer has given notice of the Adjustments for the Valuation Date. The calculation of the Cash Amount in accordance with No. 2 of the Issue Specific Conditions shall be based on the relevant Reference Price of the Underlying on the Valuation Date together with the adjustments made by the Issuer.
- (8) The Cash Amount and the fair market value shall be paid in the Settlement Currency without a requirement for the Issuer to give notice of any kind.
- (9) A declaration shall be deemed to have been made automatically that the person entitled to the rights arising from the Certificates is not a US person (as defined in Regulation S pursuant to the United States Securities Act of 1933) and that that person has agreed with the Issuer and, if the latter is not also the seller, with the seller of these Certificates (a) not to offer, sell, resell or deliver the Certificates acquired at any time directly or indirectly in the United States or to or for the account of or for the benefit of US persons, (b) not to purchase Certificates for the account of or for the benefit of US persons and (c) not to offer, sell, resell or deliver Certificates (acquired in any other manner) directly or indirectly in the United States or to or for the account of or for the benefit of US persons.

Part B. Underlying Specific Conditions

No. 5
Underlying

- (1) The "Underlying" shall correspond to the share or security representing shares of the Company specified in Table 2 of the Annex to the Issue Specific Conditions (the "Company").
- (2) The "Reference Price" of the Underlying shall correspond to the price of the Underlying specified as the Reference Price in Table 1 of the Annex to the Issue Specific Conditions, as calculated and published on Trading Days on the Relevant Exchange specified in Table 2 of the Annex to the Issue Specific Conditions (the "Relevant Exchange"). The "Observation Price" of the Underlying shall correspond to the prices for the Underlying calculated and published on an ongoing basis on Trading Days on the Relevant Exchange. "Observation Hours" shall be the Trading Hours. "Trading Days" shall be days on which the Underlying is normally traded on the Relevant Exchange. "Trading Hours" shall be hours during which the Underlying is normally traded on the Relevant Exchange on Trading Days.

Adjustments

- (1) If an Adjustment Event pursuant to paragraph (2) of this No. 6 occurs, the Issuer shall determine whether the relevant Adjustment Event has a diluting, concentrative or other effect on the computed value of the Underlying and, if such is the case, shall if necessary make a corresponding Adjustment to the affected features of the Certificates (referred to in the following as "Adjustments"), which in its reasonable discretion is appropriate in order to take account of the diluting, concentrative or other effect and to leave the Certificate Holders as far as possible in the same position in financial terms as they were in before the Adjustment Event took effect. The Adjustments may relate, among other things, to the Strike, the Multiplier or other relevant features, as well as to the replacement of the Underlying by a basket of shares or other assets or, in the event of a merger, by an adjusted number of shares of the absorbing or newly formed company and, where relevant, the specification of a different exchange as the Relevant Exchange and/or a different currency as the Reference Currency. The Issuer may (but is not obliged to) base the determination of this appropriate Adjustment on the adjustment made in response to the relevant Adjustment Event by a futures exchange, on which options or futures contracts on the Underlying are traded at the time of the Adjustment Event, in respect of options or futures contracts on the relevant share traded on that futures exchange.
- (2) An "Adjustment Event" shall be:
  - (a) the subdivision (stock split), combination (reverse stock split) or reclassification of the respective shares or the distribution of dividends in the form of bonus shares or stock dividends or a comparable issue;
  - (b) the increase in the capital of the Company by means of the issue of new shares in return for capital contributions, with the grant of a direct or indirect subscription right to its shareholders (capital increase for capital contributions);
  - (c) the increase of the capital of the Company from its own financial resources (capital increase from corporate funds);
  - (d) the grant by the Company to its shareholders of the right to subscribe for bonds or other securities with option or conversion rights (issue of securities with option or conversion rights);
  - (e) the distribution of an extraordinary dividend;
  - (f) the spin-off of a division of the Company in such a way that a new, independent company is formed or the division is absorbed by a third company, with the grant to the shareholders of the Company of shares in either the new company or the absorbing company for no consideration;
  - (g) the permanent delisting of the Underlying on the Relevant Exchange as a result of a merger by absorption or new company formation or for another reason;

- (h) other comparable events that could have a diluting, concentrative or other effect on the calculated value of the Underlying.
- (3) The rules described in the preceding paragraphs shall apply analogously to securities representing shares as the Underlying (such as ADRs, ADSs or GDRs).
- (4) Changes in the method of calculating the Reference Price or other prices for the Underlying Basket Constituent that are relevant in accordance with these Terms and Conditions, including a change in the Trading Days or Trading Hours relevant for the Underlying, shall entitle the Issuer to adjust the Certificate Right accordingly in its reasonable discretion. The Issuer shall determine the date on which the adjusted Certificate Right shall first apply, taking account of the date of the change.
- (5) In the event that the Underlying is permanently delisted on the Relevant Exchange but continues to be listed on another exchange or another market which the Issuer in its reasonable discretion considers to be suitable (the "New Relevant Exchange"), then, subject to Extraordinary Termination of the Certificates by the Issuer pursuant to No. 2 of the General Conditions, the Cash Amount shall be calculated on the basis of the corresponding prices for the Underlying calculated and published on the New Relevant Exchange. In addition, all references in these Terms and Conditions to the Relevant Exchange shall then be deemed, insofar as the context allows, to be references to the New Relevant Exchange.
- (6) In the event that a voluntary or compulsory liquidation, bankruptcy, insolvency, winding up, dissolution or comparable procedure affecting the Company is initiated, or in the event of a process as a result of which all of the shares in the Company or all or substantially all of the assets of the Company are nationalized or expropriated or required to be transferred in some other way to government bodies, authorities or institutions, or if following the occurrence of an event of another kind the Issuer reaches the conclusion that it is not possible to make an Adjustment that would reflect the changes that have occurred appropriately from a financial point of view, then the Issuer will terminate the Certificates pursuant to No. 2 of the General Conditions.
- (7) The Issuer shall give notice of the Adjustments and the date on which the Adjustments become effective in accordance with No. 4 of the General Conditions.

Market Disruption Events

- (1) If a Market Disruption Event in accordance with paragraph (2) of this No. 7 exists on the Valuation Date, then the Valuation Date shall be postponed to the next following day which fulfills the criteria for a Valuation Date with respect to the Underlying in accordance with No. 2 (3) of the Issue Specific Conditions and on which a Market Disruption Event no longer exists. The Issuer shall endeavor to give notice to the Certificate Holders without delay in accordance with No. 4 of the General Conditions that a Market Disruption Event has occurred. However, there shall be no obligation to give notice. If, as a result of the provisions of this paragraph, the Valuation Date has been postponed for five (5) consecutive days that fulfill the criteria for a Valuation Date in accordance with No. 2 (3) of the Issue Specific

Conditions and if the Market Disruption Event continues to exist on that day as well, then that day shall be deemed to be the relevant Valuation Date with respect to the Underlying and the Issuer shall determine the Cash Amount in its reasonable discretion taking account of the market conditions prevailing with respect to the Underlying on any such deemed Valuation Date.

(2) "Market Disruption Event" shall mean:

- (i) the suspension or restriction of trading in the Underlying on the Relevant Exchange, or
- (ii) the suspension or restriction of trading (including the lending market) in a futures or options contract based on the Underlying on a Futures Exchange on which futures or options contracts based on the Underlying are traded (the "Futures Exchange");

if that suspension or restriction occurs or exists in the last half-hour before the calculation of the closing price of the Underlying that would normally take place and is material as determined by the Issuer in its reasonable discretion. A change in the Trading Days or Trading Hours on or during which the Underlying is traded does not constitute a Market Disruption Event, provided that the change takes place as the result of a previously announced change in the trading regulations by the Relevant Exchange.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

Name and address of the paying agents and the calculation agent

Paying agent(s):

Citigroup Global Markets Ltd., 1-5 Rue Paul Cézanne, 75008 Paris, France

Calculation agent:

Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG, Frankfurter Welle, Reuterweg 16, 60323 Frankfurt am Main, Federal Republic of Germany

Offer method

The Certificates are being offered over-the-counter on a continuous basis in one series.

The offer of the Certificates begins in France on 04/12/2014.

Stock exchange listing

Application has been made to include the Certificates to trading in the regulated market on the Eurolist, Euronext Paris S.A. Stock Exchange, which is a regulated market within the meaning of Directive 2004/39/EC starting from 04/12/2014.

Consent to the use of the Prospectus

The Issuer consents to the use of the Prospectus by all financial intermediaries (general consent). The general consent to the subsequent resale and final placement of the securities by the financial intermediaries is given with respect to France.

The subsequent resale and final placement of the securities by financial intermediaries may take place during the period of validity of the Base Prospectus pursuant to § 9 of the German Securities Prospectus Act (Wertpapierprospektgesetz, "WpPG").

Issue price, price calculation and costs and taxes on purchase

The initial issue price is specified in Table 1 of the Annex to the Issue Specific Conditions.

Both the initial issue price and the bid and ask prices quoted by the Issuer during the term of the Certificates are calculated using theoretical pricing models. In this context, the bid and ask prices for the Certificates are determined on the basis, among other things, of the mathematical value of the Certificates, the costs of hedging and accepting risk and the expected return. Please see also the information provided under "Risk relating to the calculation of the Certificate prices" and "4. Risk of conflicts of interest", both in Section "II. Risk factors" under "B. Risk factors associated with Certificates".

No costs or taxes of any kind for the certificate holders will be deducted by the Issuer whether the Certificates are purchased off-market (in countries where this is permitted by law) or via a stock exchange. Such costs or taxes should be distinguished from the fees and costs charged to the purchaser of the Certificates by his bank for executing the securities order, which are generally shown separately on the statement for the purchase transaction in addition to the price of the Certificates. The latter costs depend solely on the particular terms of business of the certificate purchaser's bank. In the case of a purchase via a stock exchange, additional fees and expenses are also incurred. Furthermore, certificate holders are generally charged an individual fee in each case by their bank for managing the securities account. Notwithstanding the foregoing, profits arising from the Certificates or capital represented by the Certificates may be subject to taxation.

Information on the underlying

Website: www.arcelormittal.com

Disclaimers in relation to Share Prices used as Underlyings

Insofar as share prices are the underlying of Warrants issued by the issuer and described in this Final Terms document, the respective public limited company that has issued the relevant shares, to whose reference price the Warrants relate (the “Issuer of the Underlying”), does not express any recommendation for the Warrants issued by Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG, Frankfurt am Main. The Issuer of the underlying neither directly nor indirectly assumes any liability for the Warrants issued by Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG, Frankfurt am Main.

The Warrants are the sole obligation of Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG and do not involve liability on the part of the Issuer of the underlying. This is not an offer of shares. The Issuer of the underlying has not been and does not want to be involved, neither directly nor indirectly, in deciding the timing of the issue, or the preparation of this document, or the constitution of the option rights under these securities. Furthermore, the Warrant Holder will not have any right through the Warrant to any information, votes or dividends in the Issuer of the underlying.

Publication of additional information

The Issuer does not intend to provide any additional information about the underlying.

The Issuer will publish additional notices described in detail in the terms and conditions. Examples of such notices are adjustments of the features of the Certificates as a result of adjustments relating to the underlying which may, for example, affect the conditions for calculating the cash amount or a replacement of the underlying. A further example is the early redemption of the Certificates if an adjustment cannot be made.

Notices under these terms and conditions are generally published on the Issuer's website. If and to the extent that mandatory provisions of the applicable laws or exchange regulations require notices to be published elsewhere, they will also be published, where necessary, in the place prescribed in each case.

| A.1                                   | This Summary presents the key features and risks of Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG (the "Issuer") and of the Certificates issued under the Base Prospectus dated 07 May 2014 (as supplemented by the supplement dated 13 August 2014 and as further supplemented from time to time). The Summary is intended as an introduction to the Base Prospectus. Investors should therefore ensure that any decision to invest in the Certificates is based on a review of the entire Prospectus, including the documents incorporated by reference, any supplements and the Final Terms. Where claims relating to the information contained in a base prospectus, the documents incorporated by reference, any supplements, and the respective Final Terms are brought before a court, the investor acting as plaintiff may, as a result of the laws of individual member states of the European Economic Area, have to bear the costs of translating the base prospectus, the documents incorporated by reference, any supplements, and the Final Terms into the language of the court prior to the commencement of legal proceedings. The Issuer has assumed responsibility for this Summary including any translations of the same. The Issuer or persons who have tabled the Summary may be held liable, but only in the event that the Summary is misleading, inaccurate or inconsistent when read in conjunction with the other parts of the Prospectus, or, when read in conjunction with the other parts of the Base Prospectus, does not convey all of the key information required. |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |

For the years thereafter, we are anticipating a further increase to 3.3% for 2015 and a rise to 3.5% for 2016 and 2017. Overall, the Issuer continues to expect significant differences between the individual regions. The Issuer expects modest growth in the Eurozone (the Issuer's growth projections are 0.9% and 1.0% for 2014 and 2015, respectively) after having reported a -0.4% rate in 2013. The economic recovery should be buoyed by scaled-down public austerity measures, a continuing supportive monetary policy from the European Central Bank (ECB), a recovering global economy and a decline in the factors of uncertainty. A stronger Euro, higher debt loads in the private and public |

|     |                                                                      | sectors and a persistently difficult financing terms and conditions (above all for small and mid-sized companies and for many Member States) should continue to inhibit the growth potential in the Eurozone. Inflation should be very modest in the entire Eurozone. Important factors in 2014 will be the planned “Asset Quality Review” and the stress test, which the ECB will perform in conjunction with national supervisory authorities and the European Bank Authority (EBA). Despite the current efforts by many European banks to lower debt and raise capital, new capital shortfalls or gaps at the banks in some countries could come to light during the course of these investigations. This prospect and the currently prevailing uncertainty about how such capital shortfalls could be potentially filled could cause uncertainty both on the financial markets and potentially in the run-up to these tests. Given the current risks of deflation and weak growth, we expect that the ECB will further adjust interest rates, and will decide on additional liquidity measures, if the market situation necessitates such action. In light of the continued low interest rates, the hesitancy of clients, and the volatility still anticipated on the markets, the potential for earnings growth within the banking industry must still be viewed as modest. Issues such as capital requirements, regulation and restructuring will again be the major themes in the banking industry in 2014 and will leave their mark on the cost side of things. General cost reductions and the review of the business models will once again take center stage. Increased regulatory requirements concerning equity capital and liquidity will continue to preoccupy the entire financial industry and will without question significantly increase operating costs. For Germany, the Issuer is forecasting growth rates of about 1.9% for 2014 and 1.7% for 2015. In the United States, it remains to be seen how the Federal Reserve will react to the current challenges and whether the political parties in the US can reach an agreement on the US budget. Asia is viewed as stable and will certainly remain attractive to investors. Nevertheless, it remains to be seen how China will resolve some of its current challenges. For the industrial countries, the inflation rate in 2014 should increase slightly to 1.7%, and then remain relatively stable in the years thereafter. Also in Germany, the inflation rate should hover below 2%. With respect to the inflation rates for the emerging countries, the Issuer expects a slight increase to 5.0% in 2014 and to 5.2% in 2015. There are no plans for the Issuer’s business model to change significantly in 2014. The Issuer will continue to focus on its core business and, in light of the difficult market environment, direct its attention to maintaining and, where possible, expanding its current market share. In this respect, the Issuer will advise and support its clients in all global activities by relying on the global network and products of Citi. In 2014, the Issuer shall once again operate a disciplined cost and accounting management program. It will direct most of its attention in this regard to improving operational efficiency and to further strengthening the corporate governance structures. Optimizing internal procedures will also remain a focus. There is no plan to significantly expand the client portfolio, the volume of business and the selection of products and services. The Issuer does intend, however, to selectively add strategically important clients to its client base, to the extent that a business model can be developed which provides sustainable economic benefits for these clients and Citi. The credit standing of the current client portfolio is viewed as stable. The loan portfolio exposure to the peripheral countries is to the largest extent limited. No significant detriment from that exposure is anticipated. The risk capital currently available is viewed as absolutely adequate for running the current business model. Given the forecasts made by the individual Issuer’s divisions and the measures described above, the Bank is again projecting an overall profit for fiscal year 2014, but it will probably be slightly lower than the 2013 profit. |

| B.13                                         | A description of any recent events particular to the issuer which are to a material extent relevant to the evaluation of the issuer's solvency. | Significant events that may have a material impact on the assessment of the Issuer's solvency have recently not occurred. However, Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG is currently subject to an extra-ordinary audit on withholding taxes by the Frankfurt-Hoechst tax authority for the years 2007-2008. In this context the tax authority has expressed its view that Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG may not have deducted and paid withholding taxes from dividends received in connection with so called cum-ex transactions for shares held by it in custody for its clients as required. Based on these findings the tax authority is currently of the view that Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG is liable for non deducted withholding taxes in the amount of more than Euro 706 million for the years 2007 and 2008. In case the tax authority's view should succeed further tax liability for the years 2009 to 2011 may arise which can not be estimated at the moment. The main starting point for the liability claim of the tax authorities is the question if Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG is to be qualified as a German bank executing the trade (die den Verkaufsauftrag ausführende Stelle) in the respective years. Furthermore, the method applied to identify the amount of the liability claim is debatable as well as the question if Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG can be held liable as principal debtor. Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG has obtained legal advice from a reputable tax consultant office as well as from a reputable accounting firm. Based thereon, the management of Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG is of the view that the likelihood to win any legal proceedings in this matter exceeds 50 per. cent. On this basis, Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG's management has decided to put up a reserve only for expected legal advice and litigation expenses, if any, and has decided that 2 million Euro is an adequate figure in this respect. Furthermore, it should be noted that Citigroup is currently evaluating measures to optimize its organizational structure. |                 |        |        |                |     |     |                |       |       |                     |     |     |  |                                                       |                                                       |                                 |   |   |                                     |    |    |                                      |   |   |                                              |    |    |                                 |    |    |

| D.2 | Key information on the key risks that are specific to the issuer. | Risk of the cessation or limitation of price-setting by the Issuer If the Issuer were to limit or completely abandon its voluntary intention to set bid and ask prices, there would be a danger, if prices for the Certificates were not set by any other party that investors would have to wait for the final maturity of the Certificates or, where early exercise is possible, exercise the certificate right. Liquidity risk despite control and profit and loss transfer agreement The Issuer would also be unable to meet its obligations arising from the securities despite the control and profit and loss transfer agreement if, in the event that the Issuer generated a net loss, while the immediate parent company would in principle be required to assume that loss, it was unable or unwilling to comply with this contractual obligation as a result of its own liquidity difficulties or overindebtedness. Brokerage of transactions for other Group companies and allocation of work within Citigroup The great majority of the Issuer's commission income consists of transfer pricing income from brokerage transactions with affiliated companies. The Issuer's costs arising from the exchange of services with individual Group companies are reimbursed on the basis of existing agreements using transfer prices. For this purpose, income and expenses, in particular commission income for transactions assisted by the bank in an advisory capacity in the context of its sales activities, are determined and allocated to the relevant areas providing the services. The transactions relate to equity trading, bond issues and corporate finance as well as to the sale of structured products, corporate derivatives and currency management products, and also global relationship banking. This process is coordinated closely across all areas with Citigroup Global Markets Limited, London, in particular, and also with Citibank, N.A., London. If a decision were made within Citigroup to reallocate the relevant activities to other Group companies, the Issuer could lose a material source of income. Risks in the lending business |

|  | The Issuer's loan portfolio consists mainly of loans to international customers in the industrial and financial services sectors with investment grade<sup>1</sup> credit ratings. Loan defaults have been avoided in recent years thanks to this business policy. The loan portfolio is mainly concentrated on a manageable number of borrower units, as defined by German banking law. If significant individual borrowers in the Issuer's portfolio were unable to meet their obligations, therefore, a substantial increase in loan loss provisions would be conceivable in principle and loan defaults could occur. Pension fund risk The Issuer currently has three pension funds. However, the risk-bearing capacity calculation lists only two funds, for which the Issuer bears an economic risk regarding the minimum return (yield) targets and a duty to make subsequent contributions. Risks of interest rate changes The Issuer assesses and controls the risk of interest rate changes. The Issuer is exposed to the risk of changes in interest rates in mid to long-term in holdings in liquid securities if these were not originally covered by hedging transactions. The same applies to medium and long-term loans granted by the Issuer. A significant risk from interest rate changes could arise where interest rates are not monitored in a timely or sensitive manner, which may produce the concomitant danger that action to cover such interest rate exposure is not taken early enough. Operating risk The Issuer has transferred a number of areas that are significant for the proper management and control of its business activities and the risks associated with them to other companies within and outside Citigroup. In the event that the companies to which these areas have been transferred do not fulfill their contractual obligations or do not do so at the proper time, the ability of the Issuer to meet its own obligations arising from the securities it has issued on the due dates could also be adversely affected. Tax risks The tax decisions issued to the Issuer are regularly subject to subsequent review in the form of an external tax audit or to the resolution of individual issues by the relevant courts. This is normal practice and means that an additional tax demand can be issued by the tax authorities years after the original assessment as a result of a tax audit or a generally applicable decision by a tax court. General business risks <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Settlement riskThe risk that a business transaction is incorrectly processed or that a transaction is executed which is different from the intentions and expectations of the Issuer's management.</li> <li>• Information riskThe risk that information, which was generated, received, transmitted or stored within or outside the Issuer's place of business, can no longer be accessed. Furthermore, such information may be of poor quality, or have been wrongly handled or improperly obtained. The information risk also includes risks that are generated by systems and used for processing information.</li> <li>• Reputation riskThis represents the Issuer's risk that its relations with its customers could be harmed if its services are poor or transactions are incorrectly executed. <sup>1</sup> "investment grade" is an indication for the credit risk of a debtor which allows a simple assessment of the solvency. For long-term ratings, i.e. for a period of time of more than 360 days the rating codes are, e.g. from S&P or Fitch, split into AAA (highest quality, lowest risk), AA, A, BBB, BB, B, CCC, CC, C to D (payment difficulties, delay). The ratings AAA to BBB (average good investment; in case of a deterioration of the global economy problems could be expected) are regarded as "investment grade".

| D.6 | Key information on the key risks that are specific to the securities. This must include a risk warning to the effect that investors may lose the value of their entire investment or part of it, as the case may be, and/or, if the investor's liability is not limited to the value of his investment, a statement of that fact, together with a description of the circumstances in which such additional liability arises and the likely financial effect. | General risk factors of Certificates Risk of total loss The Certificates represent risky investment instruments. They entail the risk of losing the capital invested, up to and including a total loss. The rights represented by the Certificates may suffer an irrecoverable loss of value, because these Certificates only ever represent rights that are valid for a limited period. Risk of default by the Issuer of the Certificates In the event of the Issuer becoming insolvent, investors could suffer a loss up to and including a total loss. As bearer securities, Certificates do not fall within the scope of the deposit protection arrangements. Risk of the absence or non-functioning of a secondary market in the Certificates or restricted availability of the Issuer's electronic trading system Investors should not assume that they will be able to sell a Certificate at a particular time or at a particular price during its term. Investors should assume instead that pricing on the exchange can only take place within the spread of bid and ask prices quoted by the Issuer, if available, and that their buy or sell orders on the exchange will be executed with the Issuer as the direct or indirect counterparty. Risk in connection with the cessation of secondary trading immediately prior to final maturity The Issuer and/or the exchange cease trading in the Certificates shortly before their valuation date. However, the reference price of the underlying on the valuation date and/or the applicable exchange rate, both of which are important for the purpose of determining the cash amount of the Certificates, may still change between the last exchange trading day and the maturity date, which may be to the disadvantage of the investor. There is a particular risk that the price of the underlying may reach, fall below or exceed a barrier for the first time shortly before the reference price on the valuation date is determined and after trading in the secondary market has already finished. Exchange rate risk If the underlying asset or basket constituents on which the Certificates are based are denominated in a currency other than the settlement currency, investors may be exposed to the risk of suffering a loss as a result of the conversion of the currency of the underlying or of a basket constituent into the settlement currency or into the trading currency (in the event of a sale in the secondary market). Risk of Certificates with currency hedging (Quanto Certificates) |

However, the price of Certificates with Quanto currency hedging may also respond to exchange rate movements prior to the valuation time of the Certificates, even if the factors affecting their value remain otherwise unchanged. In the event that the Certificate is sold during its term, the investor may be exposed to a corresponding exchange rate risk. If a Certificate has Quanto hedging, therefore, investors must assume that they will also pay for any costs of the Quanto hedging. In the case of Certificates with currency hedging Investors do not participate in a favourable development of the exchange rate at the time of the determination of the redemption amount. Risk relating to market disruption events In the event of market disruption events with respect to the underlying occurring on the (final) valuation date or, in the case of Open End Certificates, i.e. Certificates which do not have a defined term, on exercise, the Issuer has the right to postpone the valuation date for the reference price. This may result in an additional risk for investors if the underlying performs negatively during the period of delay or, where applicable, if the exchange rate for conversion into the settlement currency moves in a direction that is unfavorable for the investor. Product specific risk factors Product No. 1: Specific risk factors of Bonus or Capped Bonus or Bonus Pro or Capped Bonus Pro Certificates: If the observation price equals or falls below the barrier at any time during the observation period within the observation hours, the Certificate is subject to a risk of loss depending on the relevant reference price of the underlying on the valuation date. In the worst case this will involve the total loss of the capital invested. This will be the case if the relevant reference price of the underlying on the valuation date amounts to zero. In the case of Bonus Certificates with physical delivery, if the observation price equals or falls below the barrier at any time during the observation period within the observation hours and in the case of Capped Bonus Certificates if the reference price on the valuation date is determined to be lower than the cap, then instead of the cash amount the investor receives the underlying in the number expressed by the multiplier. The market value of the underlying may be lower than the purchase price of the Certificate. In this event investors will suffer a loss. In the worst case this will involve the total loss of the capital invested. This will be the case if the relevant reference price of the underlying on the valuation date amounts to zero. |

| E.4 | A description of any interest that is material to the issue/offer including conflicting interests. | The Issuer, its affiliated companies or other companies belonging to Citigroup, Inc. or affiliated to it generally act as the calculation agent for the Certificates. This activity can lead to conflicts of interest since the responsibilities of the calculation agent include making certain determinations and decisions which could have a negative effect on the price of the Certificates or the level of the cash amount. The Issuer, its affiliated companies or other companies belonging to Citigroup, Inc. or affiliated to it may actively engage in trading transactions in the underlying, other instruments or derivatives, stock exchange options or stock exchange forward contracts linked to it, or the issuance of other securities and derivatives based on the underlying. The companies may also be involved in the acquisition of new shares or other securities of the underlying or, in the case of stock indices, of individual companies included in the index, or act as financial advisers to the entities referred to or work with them in the commercial banking business. The companies are required to fulfill their obligations arising in this connection irrespective of the consequences resulting for the certificate holders and, where necessary, to take actions they consider necessary or appropriate in order to protect themselves or safeguard their interests arising from these business relationships. The activities referred to above could lead to conflicts of interest and have a negative effect on the price of the underlying or securities linked to it such as the Certificates. The Issuer, its affiliated companies or other companies belonging to Citigroup, Inc. or affiliated to it may issue additional derivative securities based on the respective underlying or constituents of the underlying, including securities whose features are the same as or similar to those of the Certificates. The introduction of such products that compete with the Certificates may impact the price of the underlying or the constituents of the underlying and thus also the price of the Certificates. The Issuer, its affiliated companies or other companies belonging to Citigroup, Inc. or affiliated to it may receive non-public information relating to the underlying or the constituents of the underlying, but are under no obligation to pass on such information to the certificate holders. Furthermore, companies belonging to Citigroup, Inc. or affiliated to it may publish research reports relating to the underlying or constituents of the underlying. These types of activities may entail certain conflicts of interest and affect the price of the Certificates. |
| E.7 | Estimated expenses charged to the investor by the issuer or the offeror.                           | The estimated expenses for the Certificates, including the cost for admission to exchange trading, are included in the issue price or the selling price, as the case may be. | A.1                                        | Le présent Résumé présente les caractéristiques et les risques principaux de Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG (« l'Émetteur ») et les Certificats émis au titre de Prospectus de Base daté du 7 mai 2014 (complétés par le supplément en date du 13 août 2014 et encore augmentés de temps à autre). Le Résumé a pour finalité de servir d'introduction au Prospectus de Base. Les investisseurs devraient donc veiller à ne prendre aucune décision d'investir dans les Certificats avant d'avoir pris connaissance du Prospectus dans sa totalité, y compris des documents intégrés par référence, de tous les suppléments et des Conditions Définitives. Dans le cas où un recours relatif aux informations contenues dans un prospectus de base, les documents intégrés par référence, dans tous les suppléments ou dans les Conditions Définitives respectives serait intenté auprès d'un tribunal, l'investisseur agissant en tant que plaignant pourrait, en vertu des lois de différents États membres de l'Espace économique européen, être contraint de prendre en charge le coût de la traduction du prospectus de base, des documents intégrés par référence, de tous les suppléments et des Conditions Définitives, dans la langue de travail du tribunal avant le commencement de la procédure judiciaire. L'Émetteur assume la responsabilité du contenu de ce Résumé, y compris de toute traduction en étant faite. L'Émetteur ou toute personne ayant déposé le Résumé peut être jugé responsable, mais seulement dans le cas où le Résumé serait trompeur, inexact ou contradictoire par rapport aux autres parties du Prospectus, ou, dans le cas où il est lu en même temps que les autres parties du Prospectus de Base, s'il ne donne pas toutes les informations clés nécessaires. |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |

Pour les années suivantes, nous nous attendons à une nouvelle augmentation de 3,3% pour 2015 et à une hausse de 3,5 % pour 2016 et 2017. D'une façon générale, l'Émetteur s'attend au maintien d'écarts significatifs entre les différentes régions.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |

|  | secteurs d'activité. | L'Émetteur s'attend à une croissance modeste dans l'Eurozone (les prévisions de croissance de l'Émetteur sont de 0,9 % et de 1,0 % pour 2014 et 2015, respectivement) après avoir enregistré un taux de -0,4 % en 2013. La reprise économique devrait être dynamisée par la réduction des mesures publiques d'austérité, une politique monétaire favorable dans la durée de la part de la Banque Centrale Européenne (BCE), le redressement de l'économie mondiale et la diminution des facteurs d'incertitude. Un euro plus fort, un endettement plus élevé dans les secteurs privés et publics et des conditions de financement toujours difficiles (surtout pour les petites et moyennes entreprises et pour de nombreux États membres) devraient continuer à empêcher la croissance potentielle dans l'Eurozone. L'inflation devrait être très modérée dans l'ensemble de l'Eurozone. En 2014, les éléments importants seront « l'examen de la qualité des actifs » et le test de stress qui sont prévus et que la BCE réalisera en lien avec les autorités de contrôle nationales et l'Autorité bancaire européenne (ABE). Malgré les efforts actuels de nombreuses banques européennes pour réduire la dette et augmenter le capital, de nouveaux déficits ou insuffisances des banques dans certains pays pourraient apparaître au cours de ces recherches. Cette perspective et l'incertitude, qui prévaut actuellement sur la manière dont les besoins en capital pourraient être potentiellement satisfaits, pourraient entraîner une incertitude à la fois sur les marchés financiers et, potentiellement, à l'approche de ces tests. Étant donné les risques actuels de déflation et la faible croissance, nous nous attendons à ce que la BCE poursuive l'ajustement des taux d'intérêt et décide d'apports supplémentaires de liquidités si la situation du marché le nécessite. Compte tenu de la persistance des taux d'intérêt bas, de l'hésitation des clients et de la volatilité encore prévisible sur les marchés, le potentiel de croissance des bénéfices dans le secteur bancaire doit encore être considéré comme modeste. Des questions telles que les exigences en matière de capital, la réglementation et la restructuration seront encore des sujets essentiels dans le secteur bancaire en 2014 et marqueront de leur empreinte l'aspect financier des choses. Des réductions générales des coûts et la révision des modèles de gestion occuperont une fois de plus une place centrale. L'accroissement des exigences réglementaires en matière de fonds propres et de liquidités continuera à préoccuper l'ensemble du secteur financier et, sans aucun doute, augmentera fortement les charges d'exploitation. Pour l'Allemagne, l'Émetteur prévoit des taux de croissance de 1,9 % environ pour 2014 et de 1,7 % pour 2015. Aux États-Unis, il faut encore observer comme réagira la Réserve fédérale aux défis actuels et si les partis politiques des États-Unis peuvent parvenir à un accord sur le budget du pays. L'Asie semble stable et demeurera certainement attractive pour les investisseurs. Néanmoins, il faut encore voir comment la Chine résoudra certains de ses défis actuels. Pour les pays industriels, le taux d'inflation en 2014 devrait légèrement augmenter à 1,7 % et demeurer ensuite relativement stable les années suivantes. De même, en Allemagne, le taux d'inflation devrait osciller au-dessous de 2%. Concernant les taux d'inflation des pays émergents, l'Émetteur s'attend à une légère augmentation de 5,0 % en 2014 et de 5,2 % en 2015. Aucun projet de modification importante du modèle de gestion n'existe en 2014 pour l'Émetteur. Il continuera à s'axer sur son activité de base et, compte tenu de l'environnement difficile du marché, s'efforcera de maintenir et, si possible, d'étendre sa part actuelle de marché. À cet égard, l'Émetteur conseillera et soutiendra ses clients dans toutes les activités générales en s'appuyant sur le réseau mondial et les produits de Citi. En 2014, l'Émetteur mettra en œuvre une nouvelle fois un programme strict de gestion des coûts et de la comptabilité. Dans ce sens, il recherchera essentiellement à améliorer l'efficacité opérationnelle et à consolider davantage les structures de gouvernance d'entreprise. L'optimisation des procédures internes restera aussi l'objectif. Il n'existe aucun projet |

L'Émetteur a cependant l'intention d'ajouter ponctuellement des clients stratégiquement importants à sa clientèle dans la mesure où peut être mis au point un modèle de gestion apportant des gains économiques durables pour ces clients et pour Citi. La solvabilité du portefeuille de clients actuel est considérée stable. L'exposition du portefeuille de prêts par rapport aux pays périphériques est limitée au maximum. Aucun préjudice important de cette exposition n'est présagé. | B.13                             | Décrire tout événement récent propre à l'émetteur et présentant un intérêt significatif pour l'évaluation de sa solvabilité.                                                               | Aucun événement présentant un intérêt significatif pour l'évaluation de la solvabilité de l'Émetteur n'est identifié à ce moment. Cependant, Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG est actuellement sujet à un audit extraordinaire sur les retenues à la source fiscales par l'autorité fiscale Francfort-Hoeschst pour les années 2007-2008. Dans ce contexte, l'autorité fiscale a explicité ses vues quant au fait que Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG peut ne pas avoir déduit et payé la retenue à la source des dividendes reçus en relation avec des transactions communément appelées cum-ex transactions pour des actions qu'il conserve pour ses clients suivant les besoins. S'appuyant sur ces observations, l'autorité fiscale est actuellement de l'avis que Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG est responsable de la non-déduction de la retenue à la source d'un montant supérieur à 706 millions d'euros pour les années 2007 et 2008. Dans le cas où l'autorité fiscale a raison, la responsabilité fiscale pour les années 2009 à 2011 pourrait se poser, ce qui est impossible d'estimer pour le moment. Le principal point de départ de l'action en responsabilité des autorités fiscales est de savoir si Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG est qualifié de banque allemande exécutant une transaction (die den Verkaufsauftrag ausführende Stelle) durant ces années. De plus, la méthode appliquée pour identifier le montant des dommages et intérêts est débattue comme celle de savoir si Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG peut être tenu responsable comme débiteur principal. Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG a obtenu l'avis juridique d'un bureau réputé de consultants en fiscalité ainsi que d'un cabinet réputé d'expertise comptable. A partir de ces avis, la direction de Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG considère que la probabilité d'obtenir gain de cause dans l'hypothèse d'une procédure judiciaire excède 50 pourcents. De ce fait, la direction de Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG a décidé de n'écrire dans ses comptes qu'une réserve au titre de l'avis juridique et des dépenses éventuelles de litige et a décidé à cet égard qu'un montant de 2 millions d'Euros était adéquat. De plus, il devrait être noté que Citigroup envisage actuellement des mesures visant à optimiser sa structure d'organisation. |                                  |    |    |

Les coûts pour l'Émetteur résultant de l'échange de services avec différentes sociétés du Groupe sont remboursés sur la base des accords existants en utilisant les prix de cession. À cette fin, le revenu et les dépenses, en particulier le revenu de commission pour les transactions réalisées avec l'assistance de la banque à titre de conseiller dans le cadre de ses activités commerciales, sont déterminés et alloués aux différents secteurs fournissant les services. Les transactions se rapportent à la négociation sur les titres, les émissions d'obligations et la gestion financière d'entreprise ainsi qu'à la vente de produits structurés, dérivés de titres de sociétés et les produits de gestion de devises, et aux opérations bancaires internationales. Ce processus est coordonné étroitement dans l'ensemble des secteurs avec Citigroup Global Markets Limited, Londres, en particulier, et également avec Citibank, N.A., Londres. Si une décision était prise au sein de Citigroup pour réaffecter les activités concernées à d'autres sociétés du Groupe, l'Émetteur pourrait perdre une importante source de revenu. Les risques de l'activité de prêt Le portefeuille de prêt de l'Émetteur consiste principalement en prêts accordés à des clients |

Les défauts de remboursement de prêt ont été évités ces dernières années grâce à cette politique commerciale. Le portefeuille de prêts consiste principalement en un nombre raisonnable d'unités empruntrices, comme le prescrit la loi allemande sur les opérations bancaires. Si des emprunteurs individuels importants du portefeuille de l'Émetteur n'étaient pas en mesure d'honorer leurs obligations, une forte hausse des provisions pour pertes sur prêt serait envisageable en principe et des défauts de remboursement sur prêts pourraient se produire. Risque des fonds de pension L'Émetteur possède habituellement trois fonds de pension. Toutefois, le calcul de la capacité de couverture des risques indique uniquement deux fonds pour lesquels l'Émetteur supporte un risque économique par rapport aux objectifs (de rendement) minimum et un devoir de réalisation de revenus importants. Risques de fluctuations des taux d'intérêt L'Émetteur évalue et maîtrise le risque de fluctuations des taux d'intérêt. L'Émetteur est exposé au risque de fluctuations des taux d'intérêt à moyen ou à long terme pour la détention de titres liquides si ceux-ci n'étaient pas à l'origine couverts par des transactions de couverture. Il en va de même pour les emprunts à moyen et long terme accordés par l'Émetteur. Un risque significatif de fluctuation des taux d'intérêt pourrait survenir lorsque les taux d'intérêt ne font pas l'objet d'un suivi attentif et en temps opportun, ce qui peut générer le danger concomitant qu'une mesure pour couvrir une telle exposition au risque de taux d'intérêt ne soit pas prise suffisamment tôt. Risque opérationnel L'Émetteur a transféré un certain nombre de domaines qui sont importants pour une gestion et un contrôle appropriés de ses activités économiques et les risques qui s'y rapportent à d'autres sociétés au sein et à l'extérieur de Citigroup. Au cas où les sociétés auxquelles ces domaines ont été transférés ne s'acquitteraient pas de leurs obligations contractuelles ou ne le feraient pas en temps opportun, la capacité de l'Émetteur à assumer ses propres obligations découlant des titres qu'il a émis aux dates prévues pourrait également être compromise. Risque fiscal Les décisions fiscales prises concernant l'Émetteur sont régulièrement soumises à un examen ultérieur sous forme d'audit fiscal externe ou d'arbitrage des affaires individuelles par les tribunaux compétents. Cette pratique est courante et signifie qu'un rappel d'impôts peut être décidé par l'administration fiscale des années après l'évaluation initiale en raison d'un contrôle fiscal ou d'une décision à portée générale rendue par un tribunal fiscal. Risques généraux liés à l'activité <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Risque de règlementLe risque qu'une transaction soit traitée de manière incorrecte, ou qu'une transaction soit exécutée différemment des intentions et des attentes de la direction de l'Émetteur.</li> <li>• Risque en matière d'informationLe risque que l'information, qui a été produite, reçue, transmise ou conservée au sein ou à l'extérieur du siège social de l'Émetteur ne soit plus accessible. <sup>1</sup> « crédit de qualité » est une indication du risque de crédit d'un emprunteur qui permet une simple évaluation de la solvabilité. Pour des notations sur le long terme, c'est-à-dire pour une période de plus de 360 jours, les taux de notation sont, par exemple selon S&P ou Fitch, divisés en AAA (qualité maximale, risque minimum), AA, A, BBB, BB, B, CCC, CC, C à D (difficultés de paiement, retard). Les notations AAA à BBB (bon investissement moyen ; en cas de détérioration de l'économie mondiale, des problèmes pourraient survenir) sont considérées comme « crédit de qualité ».

Cependant, le prix de référence de la valeur sous-jacente à la date d'évaluation et/ou le taux de change applicable, lesquels sont importants dans la détermination du montant des Certificats, peuvent varier entre le dernier jour de cotation et la date d'échéance, dans un sens défavorable à l'investisseur. Il existe un risque particulier que le prix de la valeur sous-jacente atteigne, chute au-dessous ou dépasse une barrière pour la première fois juste avant que le prix de référence à la date d'évaluation soit déterminé et après la clôture de la cotation sur le marché secondaire. Risque de change Si l'actif sous-jacent ou si les composants d'un panier sur lesquels les Certificats sont libellés dans une devise autre que la devise de règlement, les investisseurs pourraient être exposés au risque de subir une perte du fait de la conversion de la devise du sous-jacent ou d'un composant d'un panier dans la devise de règlement ou dans une devise d'échange (en cas de vente sur le marché secondaire). Risque relatif aux Certificats avec couverture par rapport à la devise (Certificats Quanto) Dans le cas de Certificats avec couverture par rapport à la devise (Certificats Quanto), le taux auquel le prix de référence concerné, exprimé dans la devise de la valeur sous-jacente est converti dans la devise de règlement à la date d'évaluation, est spécifié à l'avance dans les termes et conditions. Cependant, le prix des Certificats avec couverture par rapport à la devise (Certificats Quanto) peut tenir compte des fluctuations des taux de change avant la période d'évaluation des Certificats, même si les facteurs affectant leur valeur restent sinon inchangés. Dans le cas où le Certificat est vendu pendant sa période de validité, l'investisseur peut être exposé à un risque de taux de change correspondant. Si un Certificat a une couverture Quanto, en conséquence, les investisseurs doivent supposer qu'ils paieront aussi les coûts de la couverture Quanto. Dans le cas de Certificats avec couverture par rapport à la devise, les Investisseurs ne contribuent pas à un développement favorable du taux de change au moment de la détermination du montant de rachat. Risques d'événements perturbant le fonctionnement du marché En cas de survenue d'événements perturbant le fonctionnement du marché pour la valeur sous-jacente à la date d'évaluation (finale) ou, dans le cas de Certificats Open-End, c'est-à-dire de Certificats qui n'ont pas une validité définie, lors de l'exercice, l'Émetteur a le droit de repousser la date d'évaluation du prix de référence. Ceci peut entraîner un risque supplémentaire pour les investisseurs si la valeur sous-jacente réalise une performance négative pendant la durée du report ou, le cas échéant, si le taux de change utilisé pour la conversion en devise de règlement fluctue dans un sens qui est défavorable à l'investisseur. Facteurs de risque spécifiques au produit Produit n° 1 : facteurs de risques spécifiques aux Certificats Bonus ou Bonus Cappés ou Bonus Pro ou Bonus Pro Cappés : Si le prix d'observation atteint ou chute en dessous de la barrière à tout moment pendant la période d'observation au cours des heures d'observation, le Certificat présente un risque de perte dépendant du prix de référence considéré du sous-jacent à la date d'évaluation. Dans le pire des cas, ceci entraînera la perte totale du capital investi. Ceci sera le cas si le prix de référence du sous-jacent considéré à la date d'évaluation correspond à zéro. Dans le cas de Certificats Bonus avec livraison physique, si le prix d'observation atteint ou chute en dessous de la barrière à tout moment pendant la période d'observation au cours des heures d'observation et dans le cas de Certificats Bonus Cappés, si le prix de référence à la date d'évaluation est inférieur au plafond (niveau bonus), alors au lieu du montant en numéraire, l'investisseur recevra le sous-jacent dans un nombre exprimé par le coefficient |

Les sociétés peuvent également intervenir dans l'acquisition de nouvelles parts ou d'autres titres de la valeur sous-jacente ou, dans le cas d'indices de valeurs, de sociétés individuelles incluses dans l'indice, ou agir en qualité de conseillers financiers pour les entités auxquelles il est fait référence ou collaborer avec elle dans le secteur de la banque d'affaires. Les sociétés sont tenues de s'acquitter de leurs obligations à ce titre, indépendamment des conséquences qui peuvent en résulter pour les détenteurs de certificats et, le cas échéant, devront prendre les mesures qu'elles considèrent nécessaires ou appropriées pour se protéger ou sauvegarder leurs intérêts dans le cadre de ces relations d'affaires. Les activités visées ci-dessus pourraient entraîner des conflits d'intérêt et avoir un effet négatif sur le prix de la valeur sous-jacente ou des titres qui lui sont associés comme les Certificats. L'Émetteur, ses sociétés apparentées ou d'autres sociétés appartenant à Citigroup, Inc. ou affiliées à lui peuvent émettre des titres dérivés supplémentaires fondés sur la valeur sous-jacente, ou sur des éléments constitutifs de la valeur sous-jacente, notamment des titres dont les caractéristiques sont identiques ou similaires à celles des Certificats. L'introduction de tels produits, qui concurrencent les Certificats, peuvent avoir un effet sur le prix de la valeur sous-jacente ou les éléments constitutifs de la valeur sous-jacente et donc aussi sur le prix des Certificats. L'Émetteur, ses sociétés apparentées ou d'autres sociétés appartenant à Citigroup, Inc. ou affiliées à lui peuvent recevoir des informations de nature non publique se rapportant à la valeur sous-jacente, ou à des éléments constitutifs de la valeur sous-jacente, mais ne sont pas tenus de les communiquer aux détenteurs de certificats. De plus, les sociétés appartenant à Citigroup ou affiliées à lui peuvent publier des rapports de recherche se rapportant à la valeur sous-jacente ou aux éléments constitutifs de la valeur sous-jacente. Les activités de ce type peuvent créer certains conflits d'intérêt et affecter le prix des Certificats. |

- (4) All amounts payable under these Issue Specific Conditions shall be rounded to two decimal places in accordance with normal commercial practice.

No. 3

Exercise of the Certificate Right; Payment of the Cash Amount

- (1) The Certificate Right may be exercised by the Certificate Holder only with effect as of the Valuation Date for the respective Certificate.

If the Certificate Holder has not exercised the Certificate Right and if the Cash Amount is not equal to zero (0), the Certificate Right of the respective Certificate Holder shall be deemed to be exercised with effect as of the Valuation Date without further preconditions and without the submission of an explicit Exercise Notice.

- (2) Subject to the occurrence of a Market Disruption Event or an Adjustment Period, the Issuer will arrange for the Cash Amount to be paid in the Settlement Currency by the fifth Banking Day following the Valuation Date or the Currency Conversion Date, whichever is the latter, for the benefit of the account of the respective Certificate Holder via the Central Securities Depository.
- (3) The currency conversion rate used for the conversion of the Cash Amount, of the Extraordinary Termination Amount pursuant to No. 2 of the General Conditions or of any other amount payable under these Terms and Conditions into the Settlement Currency shall be determined by the Exchange Rate Reference Agent on the basis of the respective currency conversion rate published on the screen page specified in No. 2 (3) of the Issue Specific Conditions under "Reference Rate for Currency Conversion" on (i) the Currency Conversion Date or (ii) in the event of extraordinary termination pursuant to No. 2 of the General Conditions, the date on which the Extraordinary Termination Amount was determined by the Issuer, or, if that day is not a Banking Day, the immediately following Banking Day. In the event that no relevant Reference Rates for Currency Conversion are published on such screen page or that the rates published are questionable, the Issuer shall be entitled to use an appropriate corresponding rate for currency conversion published by a comparable financial services provider (e.g. Bloomberg) and calculated using a similar method. The relevant financial services provider shall be selected in the reasonable discretion of the Issuer.

In the event that the currency conversion rate cannot be determined or quoted in the manner described above, the Issuer shall be entitled to determine the currency conversion rate on the basis of the prevailing market circumstances.

- (4) The Issuer shall be released from its obligations upon payment of the Cash Amount or any other amounts payable under these Terms and Conditions to the Central Securities Depository.
- (5) The Central Securities Depository has given an undertaking to the Issuer to make a corresponding onward transfer. In the event that the onward transfer of the Cash Amount or of any other amount payable under these Terms and Conditions is not possible within three months after the Maturity Date ("Presentation Period"), the Issuer shall be entitled to deposit the relevant amounts or the fair market value of the Underlying with the Frankfurt am Main Local Court for the Certificate Holders at their risk and expense with a waiver of its right to reclaim those amounts. Upon the deposit of the relevant amounts with the Court, the claims of the Certificate Holders against the Issuer shall expire.
- (6) All taxes or other levies that may be incurred in connection with the payment of the Cash Amount or of the fair market value shall be borne by the Certificate Holders.

- (7) If the Valuation Date falls between the date on which the Issuer determines that there are grounds for making an Adjustment in accordance with No. 6 of the Issue Specific Conditions and the date on which the Issuer has given notice of the Adjustments (referred to in the following as the "Adjustment Period"), the Maturity Date shall be the fifth Banking Day common to the head office of the Issuer and to the location of the Central Securities Depository following the date on which the Issuer has given notice of the Adjustments for the Valuation Date. The calculation of the Cash Amount in accordance with No. 2 of the Issue Specific Conditions shall be based on the relevant Reference Price of the Underlying on the Valuation Date together with the adjustments made by the Issuer.
- (8) The Cash Amount and the fair market value shall be paid in the Settlement Currency without a requirement for the Issuer to give notice of any kind.
- (9) A declaration shall be deemed to have been made automatically that the person entitled to the rights arising from the Certificates is not a US person (as defined in Regulation S pursuant to the United States Securities Act of 1933) and that that person has agreed with the Issuer and, if the latter is not also the seller, with the seller of these Certificates (a) not to offer, sell, resell or deliver the Certificates acquired at any time directly or indirectly in the United States or to or for the account of or for the benefit of US persons, (b) not to purchase Certificates for the account of or for the benefit of US persons and (c) not to offer, sell, resell or deliver Certificates (acquired in any other manner) directly or indirectly in the United States or to or for the account of or for the benefit of US persons.

Part B. Underlying Specific Conditions

No. 5
Underlying

- (1) The "Underlying" shall correspond to the share or security representing shares of the Company specified in Table 2 of the Annex to the Issue Specific Conditions (the "Company").
- (2) The "Reference Price" of the Underlying shall correspond to the price of the Underlying specified as the Reference Price in Table 1 of the Annex to the Issue Specific Conditions, as calculated and published on Trading Days on the Relevant Exchange specified in Table 2 of the Annex to the Issue Specific Conditions (the "Relevant Exchange"). The "Observation Price" of the Underlying shall correspond to the prices for the Underlying calculated and published on an ongoing basis on Trading Days on the Relevant Exchange. "Observation Hours" shall be the Trading Hours. "Trading Days" shall be days on which the Underlying is normally traded on the Relevant Exchange. "Trading Hours" shall be hours during which the Underlying is normally traded on the Relevant Exchange on Trading Days.

Adjustments

- (1) If an Adjustment Event pursuant to paragraph (2) of this No. 6 occurs, the Issuer shall determine whether the relevant Adjustment Event has a diluting, concentrative or other effect on the computed value of the Underlying and, if such is the case, shall if necessary make a corresponding Adjustment to the affected features of the Certificates (referred to in the following as "Adjustments"), which in its reasonable discretion is appropriate in order to take account of the diluting, concentrative or other effect and to leave the Certificate Holders as far as possible in the same position in financial terms as they were in before the Adjustment Event took effect. The Adjustments may relate, among other things, to the Strike, the Multiplier or other relevant features, as well as to the replacement of the Underlying by a basket of shares or other assets or, in the event of a merger, by an adjusted number of shares of the absorbing or newly formed company and, where relevant, the specification of a different exchange as the Relevant Exchange and/or a different currency as the Reference Currency. The Issuer may (but is not obliged to) base the determination of this appropriate Adjustment on the adjustment made in response to the relevant Adjustment Event by a futures exchange, on which options or futures contracts on the Underlying are traded at the time of the Adjustment Event, in respect of options or futures contracts on the relevant share traded on that futures exchange.
- (2) An "Adjustment Event" shall be:
  - (a) the subdivision (stock split), combination (reverse stock split) or reclassification of the respective shares or the distribution of dividends in the form of bonus shares or stock dividends or a comparable issue;
  - (b) the increase in the capital of the Company by means of the issue of new shares in return for capital contributions, with the grant of a direct or indirect subscription right to its shareholders (capital increase for capital contributions);
  - (c) the increase of the capital of the Company from its own financial resources (capital increase from corporate funds);
  - (d) the grant by the Company to its shareholders of the right to subscribe for bonds or other securities with option or conversion rights (issue of securities with option or conversion rights);
  - (e) the distribution of an extraordinary dividend;
  - (f) the spin-off of a division of the Company in such a way that a new, independent company is formed or the division is absorbed by a third company, with the grant to the shareholders of the Company of shares in either the new company or the absorbing company for no consideration;
  - (g) the permanent delisting of the Underlying on the Relevant Exchange as a result of a merger by absorption or new company formation or for another reason;

- (h) other comparable events that could have a diluting, concentrative or other effect on the calculated value of the Underlying.
- (3) The rules described in the preceding paragraphs shall apply analogously to securities representing shares as the Underlying (such as ADRs, ADSs or GDRs).
- (4) Changes in the method of calculating the Reference Price or other prices for the Underlying Basket Constituent that are relevant in accordance with these Terms and Conditions, including a change in the Trading Days or Trading Hours relevant for the Underlying, shall entitle the Issuer to adjust the Certificate Right accordingly in its reasonable discretion. The Issuer shall determine the date on which the adjusted Certificate Right shall first apply, taking account of the date of the change.
- (5) In the event that the Underlying is permanently delisted on the Relevant Exchange but continues to be listed on another exchange or another market which the Issuer in its reasonable discretion considers to be suitable (the "New Relevant Exchange"), then, subject to Extraordinary Termination of the Certificates by the Issuer pursuant to No. 2 of the General Conditions, the Cash Amount shall be calculated on the basis of the corresponding prices for the Underlying calculated and published on the New Relevant Exchange. In addition, all references in these Terms and Conditions to the Relevant Exchange shall then be deemed, insofar as the context allows, to be references to the New Relevant Exchange.
- (6) In the event that a voluntary or compulsory liquidation, bankruptcy, insolvency, winding up, dissolution or comparable procedure affecting the Company is initiated, or in the event of a process as a result of which all of the shares in the Company or all or substantially all of the assets of the Company are nationalized or expropriated or required to be transferred in some other way to government bodies, authorities or institutions, or if following the occurrence of an event of another kind the Issuer reaches the conclusion that it is not possible to make an Adjustment that would reflect the changes that have occurred appropriately from a financial point of view, then the Issuer will terminate the Certificates pursuant to No. 2 of the General Conditions.
- (7) The Issuer shall give notice of the Adjustments and the date on which the Adjustments become effective in accordance with No. 4 of the General Conditions.

Market Disruption Events

- (1) If a Market Disruption Event in accordance with paragraph (2) of this No. 7 exists on the Valuation Date, then the Valuation Date shall be postponed to the next following day which fulfills the criteria for a Valuation Date with respect to the Underlying in accordance with No. 2 (3) of the Issue Specific Conditions and on which a Market Disruption Event no longer exists. The Issuer shall endeavor to give notice to the Certificate Holders without delay in accordance with No. 4 of the General Conditions that a Market Disruption Event has occurred. However, there shall be no obligation to give notice. If, as a result of the provisions of this paragraph, the Valuation Date has been postponed for five (5) consecutive days that fulfill the criteria for a Valuation Date in accordance with No. 2 (3) of the Issue Specific

Conditions and if the Market Disruption Event continues to exist on that day as well, then that day shall be deemed to be the relevant Valuation Date with respect to the Underlying and the Issuer shall determine the Cash Amount in its reasonable discretion taking account of the market conditions prevailing with respect to the Underlying on any such deemed Valuation Date.

(2) "Market Disruption Event" shall mean:

- (i) the suspension or restriction of trading in the Underlying on the Relevant Exchange, or
- (ii) the suspension or restriction of trading (including the lending market) in a futures or options contract based on the Underlying on a Futures Exchange on which futures or options contracts based on the Underlying are traded (the "Futures Exchange");

if that suspension or restriction occurs or exists in the last half-hour before the calculation of the closing price of the Underlying that would normally take place and is material as determined by the Issuer in its reasonable discretion. A change in the Trading Days or Trading Hours on or during which the Underlying is traded does not constitute a Market Disruption Event, provided that the change takes place as the result of a previously announced change in the trading regulations by the Relevant Exchange.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

Name and address of the paying agents and the calculation agent

Paying agent(s):

Citigroup Global Markets Ltd., 1-5 Rue Paul Cézanne, 75008 Paris, France

Calculation agent:

Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG, Frankfurter Welle, Reuterweg 16, 60323 Frankfurt am Main, Federal Republic of Germany

Offer method

The Certificates are being offered over-the-counter on a continuous basis in one series.

The offer of the Certificates begins in France on 04/12/2014.

Stock exchange listing

Application has been made to include the Certificates to trading in the regulated market on the Eurolist, Euronext Paris S.A. Stock Exchange, which is a regulated market within the meaning of Directive 2004/39/EC starting from 04/12/2014.

Consent to the use of the Prospectus

The Issuer consents to the use of the Prospectus by all financial intermediaries (general consent). The general consent to the subsequent resale and final placement of the securities by the financial intermediaries is given with respect to France.

The subsequent resale and final placement of the securities by financial intermediaries may take place during the period of validity of the Base Prospectus pursuant to § 9 of the German Securities Prospectus Act (Wertpapierprospektgesetz, "WpPG").

Issue price, price calculation and costs and taxes on purchase

The initial issue price is specified in Table 1 of the Annex to the Issue Specific Conditions.

Both the initial issue price and the bid and ask prices quoted by the Issuer during the term of the Certificates are calculated using theoretical pricing models. In this context, the bid and ask prices for the Certificates are determined on the basis, among other things, of the mathematical value of the Certificates, the costs of hedging and accepting risk and the expected return. Please see also the information provided under "Risk relating to the calculation of the Certificate prices" and "4. Risk of conflicts of interest", both in Section "II. Risk factors" under "B. Risk factors associated with Certificates".

No costs or taxes of any kind for the certificate holders will be deducted by the Issuer whether the Certificates are purchased off-market (in countries where this is permitted by law) or via a stock exchange. Such costs or taxes should be distinguished from the fees and costs charged to the purchaser of the Certificates by his bank for executing the securities order, which are generally shown separately on the statement for the purchase transaction in addition to the price of the Certificates. The latter costs depend solely on the particular terms of business of the certificate purchaser's bank. In the case of a purchase via a stock exchange, additional fees and expenses are also incurred. Furthermore, certificate holders are generally charged an individual fee in each case by their bank for managing the securities account. Notwithstanding the foregoing, profits arising from the Certificates or capital represented by the Certificates may be subject to taxation.

Information on the underlying

Website: www.arcelormittal.com

Disclaimers in relation to Share Prices used as Underlyings

Insofar as share prices are the underlying of Warrants issued by the issuer and described in this Final Terms document, the respective public limited company that has issued the relevant shares, to whose reference price the Warrants relate (the “Issuer of the Underlying”), does not express any recommendation for the Warrants issued by Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG, Frankfurt am Main. The Issuer of the underlying neither directly nor indirectly assumes any liability for the Warrants issued by Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG, Frankfurt am Main.

The Warrants are the sole obligation of Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG and do not involve liability on the part of the Issuer of the underlying. This is not an offer of shares. The Issuer of the underlying has not been and does not want to be involved, neither directly nor indirectly, in deciding the timing of the issue, or the preparation of this document, or the constitution of the option rights under these securities. Furthermore, the Warrant Holder will not have any right through the Warrant to any information, votes or dividends in the Issuer of the underlying.

Publication of additional information

The Issuer does not intend to provide any additional information about the underlying.

The Issuer will publish additional notices described in detail in the terms and conditions. Examples of such notices are adjustments of the features of the Certificates as a result of adjustments relating to the underlying which may, for example, affect the conditions for calculating the cash amount or a replacement of the underlying. A further example is the early redemption of the Certificates if an adjustment cannot be made.

Notices under these terms and conditions are generally published on the Issuer's website. If and to the extent that mandatory provisions of the applicable laws or exchange regulations require notices to be published elsewhere, they will also be published, where necessary, in the place prescribed in each case.

| A.1                                   | This Summary presents the key features and risks of Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG (the "Issuer") and of the Certificates issued under the Base Prospectus dated 07 May 2014 (as supplemented by the supplement dated 13 August 2014 and as further supplemented from time to time). The Summary is intended as an introduction to the Base Prospectus. Investors should therefore ensure that any decision to invest in the Certificates is based on a review of the entire Prospectus, including the documents incorporated by reference, any supplements and the Final Terms. Where claims relating to the information contained in a base prospectus, the documents incorporated by reference, any supplements, and the respective Final Terms are brought before a court, the investor acting as plaintiff may, as a result of the laws of individual member states of the European Economic Area, have to bear the costs of translating the base prospectus, the documents incorporated by reference, any supplements, and the Final Terms into the language of the court prior to the commencement of legal proceedings. The Issuer has assumed responsibility for this Summary including any translations of the same. The Issuer or persons who have tabled the Summary may be held liable, but only in the event that the Summary is misleading, inaccurate or inconsistent when read in conjunction with the other parts of the Prospectus, or, when read in conjunction with the other parts of the Base Prospectus, does not convey all of the key information required. |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |

For the years thereafter, we are anticipating a further increase to 3.3% for 2015 and a rise to 3.5% for 2016 and 2017. Overall, the Issuer continues to expect significant differences between the individual regions. The Issuer expects modest growth in the Eurozone (the Issuer's growth projections are 0.9% and 1.0% for 2014 and 2015, respectively) after having reported a -0.4% rate in 2013. The economic recovery should be buoyed by scaled-down public austerity measures, a continuing supportive monetary policy from the European Central Bank (ECB), a recovering global economy and a decline in the factors of uncertainty. A stronger Euro, higher debt loads in the private and public |

|     |                                                                      | sectors and a persistently difficult financing terms and conditions (above all for small and mid-sized companies and for many Member States) should continue to inhibit the growth potential in the Eurozone. Inflation should be very modest in the entire Eurozone. Important factors in 2014 will be the planned “Asset Quality Review” and the stress test, which the ECB will perform in conjunction with national supervisory authorities and the European Bank Authority (EBA). Despite the current efforts by many European banks to lower debt and raise capital, new capital shortfalls or gaps at the banks in some countries could come to light during the course of these investigations. This prospect and the currently prevailing uncertainty about how such capital shortfalls could be potentially filled could cause uncertainty both on the financial markets and potentially in the run-up to these tests. Given the current risks of deflation and weak growth, we expect that the ECB will further adjust interest rates, and will decide on additional liquidity measures, if the market situation necessitates such action. In light of the continued low interest rates, the hesitancy of clients, and the volatility still anticipated on the markets, the potential for earnings growth within the banking industry must still be viewed as modest. Issues such as capital requirements, regulation and restructuring will again be the major themes in the banking industry in 2014 and will leave their mark on the cost side of things. General cost reductions and the review of the business models will once again take center stage. Increased regulatory requirements concerning equity capital and liquidity will continue to preoccupy the entire financial industry and will without question significantly increase operating costs. For Germany, the Issuer is forecasting growth rates of about 1.9% for 2014 and 1.7% for 2015. In the United States, it remains to be seen how the Federal Reserve will react to the current challenges and whether the political parties in the US can reach an agreement on the US budget. Asia is viewed as stable and will certainly remain attractive to investors. Nevertheless, it remains to be seen how China will resolve some of its current challenges. For the industrial countries, the inflation rate in 2014 should increase slightly to 1.7%, and then remain relatively stable in the years thereafter. Also in Germany, the inflation rate should hover below 2%. With respect to the inflation rates for the emerging countries, the Issuer expects a slight increase to 5.0% in 2014 and to 5.2% in 2015. There are no plans for the Issuer’s business model to change significantly in 2014. The Issuer will continue to focus on its core business and, in light of the difficult market environment, direct its attention to maintaining and, where possible, expanding its current market share. In this respect, the Issuer will advise and support its clients in all global activities by relying on the global network and products of Citi. In 2014, the Issuer shall once again operate a disciplined cost and accounting management program. It will direct most of its attention in this regard to improving operational efficiency and to further strengthening the corporate governance structures. Optimizing internal procedures will also remain a focus. There is no plan to significantly expand the client portfolio, the volume of business and the selection of products and services. The Issuer does intend, however, to selectively add strategically important clients to its client base, to the extent that a business model can be developed which provides sustainable economic benefits for these clients and Citi. The credit standing of the current client portfolio is viewed as stable. The loan portfolio exposure to the peripheral countries is to the largest extent limited. No significant detriment from that exposure is anticipated. The risk capital currently available is viewed as absolutely adequate for running the current business model. Given the forecasts made by the individual Issuer’s divisions and the measures described above, the Bank is again projecting an overall profit for fiscal year 2014, but it will probably be slightly lower than the 2013 profit. |

| B.13                                         | A description of any recent events particular to the issuer which are to a material extent relevant to the evaluation of the issuer's solvency. | Significant events that may have a material impact on the assessment of the Issuer's solvency have recently not occurred. However, Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG is currently subject to an extra-ordinary audit on withholding taxes by the Frankfurt-Hoechst tax authority for the years 2007-2008. In this context the tax authority has expressed its view that Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG may not have deducted and paid withholding taxes from dividends received in connection with so called cum-ex transactions for shares held by it in custody for its clients as required. Based on these findings the tax authority is currently of the view that Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG is liable for non deducted withholding taxes in the amount of more than Euro 706 million for the years 2007 and 2008. In case the tax authority's view should succeed further tax liability for the years 2009 to 2011 may arise which can not be estimated at the moment. The main starting point for the liability claim of the tax authorities is the question if Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG is to be qualified as a German bank executing the trade (die den Verkaufsauftrag ausführende Stelle) in the respective years. Furthermore, the method applied to identify the amount of the liability claim is debatable as well as the question if Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG can be held liable as principal debtor. Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG has obtained legal advice from a reputable tax consultant office as well as from a reputable accounting firm. Based thereon, the management of Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG is of the view that the likelihood to win any legal proceedings in this matter exceeds 50 per. cent. On this basis, Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG's management has decided to put up a reserve only for expected legal advice and litigation expenses, if any, and has decided that 2 million Euro is an adequate figure in this respect. Furthermore, it should be noted that Citigroup is currently evaluating measures to optimize its organizational structure. |                 |        |        |                |     |     |                |       |       |                     |     |     |  |                                                       |                                                       |                                 |   |   |                                     |    |    |                                      |   |   |                                              |    |    |                                 |    |    |

| D.2 | Key information on the key risks that are specific to the issuer. | Risk of the cessation or limitation of price-setting by the Issuer If the Issuer were to limit or completely abandon its voluntary intention to set bid and ask prices, there would be a danger, if prices for the Certificates were not set by any other party that investors would have to wait for the final maturity of the Certificates or, where early exercise is possible, exercise the certificate right. Liquidity risk despite control and profit and loss transfer agreement The Issuer would also be unable to meet its obligations arising from the securities despite the control and profit and loss transfer agreement if, in the event that the Issuer generated a net loss, while the immediate parent company would in principle be required to assume that loss, it was unable or unwilling to comply with this contractual obligation as a result of its own liquidity difficulties or overindebtedness. Brokerage of transactions for other Group companies and allocation of work within Citigroup The great majority of the Issuer's commission income consists of transfer pricing income from brokerage transactions with affiliated companies. The Issuer's costs arising from the exchange of services with individual Group companies are reimbursed on the basis of existing agreements using transfer prices. For this purpose, income and expenses, in particular commission income for transactions assisted by the bank in an advisory capacity in the context of its sales activities, are determined and allocated to the relevant areas providing the services. The transactions relate to equity trading, bond issues and corporate finance as well as to the sale of structured products, corporate derivatives and currency management products, and also global relationship banking. This process is coordinated closely across all areas with Citigroup Global Markets Limited, London, in particular, and also with Citibank, N.A., London. If a decision were made within Citigroup to reallocate the relevant activities to other Group companies, the Issuer could lose a material source of income. Risks in the lending business |

|  | The Issuer's loan portfolio consists mainly of loans to international customers in the industrial and financial services sectors with investment grade<sup>1</sup> credit ratings. Loan defaults have been avoided in recent years thanks to this business policy. The loan portfolio is mainly concentrated on a manageable number of borrower units, as defined by German banking law. If significant individual borrowers in the Issuer's portfolio were unable to meet their obligations, therefore, a substantial increase in loan loss provisions would be conceivable in principle and loan defaults could occur. Pension fund risk The Issuer currently has three pension funds. However, the risk-bearing capacity calculation lists only two funds, for which the Issuer bears an economic risk regarding the minimum return (yield) targets and a duty to make subsequent contributions. Risks of interest rate changes The Issuer assesses and controls the risk of interest rate changes. The Issuer is exposed to the risk of changes in interest rates in mid to long-term in holdings in liquid securities if these were not originally covered by hedging transactions. The same applies to medium and long-term loans granted by the Issuer. A significant risk from interest rate changes could arise where interest rates are not monitored in a timely or sensitive manner, which may produce the concomitant danger that action to cover such interest rate exposure is not taken early enough. Operating risk The Issuer has transferred a number of areas that are significant for the proper management and control of its business activities and the risks associated with them to other companies within and outside Citigroup. In the event that the companies to which these areas have been transferred do not fulfill their contractual obligations or do not do so at the proper time, the ability of the Issuer to meet its own obligations arising from the securities it has issued on the due dates could also be adversely affected. Tax risks The tax decisions issued to the Issuer are regularly subject to subsequent review in the form of an external tax audit or to the resolution of individual issues by the relevant courts. This is normal practice and means that an additional tax demand can be issued by the tax authorities years after the original assessment as a result of a tax audit or a generally applicable decision by a tax court. General business risks <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Settlement riskThe risk that a business transaction is incorrectly processed or that a transaction is executed which is different from the intentions and expectations of the Issuer's management.</li> <li>• Information riskThe risk that information, which was generated, received, transmitted or stored within or outside the Issuer's place of business, can no longer be accessed. Furthermore, such information may be of poor quality, or have been wrongly handled or improperly obtained. The information risk also includes risks that are generated by systems and used for processing information.</li> <li>• Reputation riskThis represents the Issuer's risk that its relations with its customers could be harmed if its services are poor or transactions are incorrectly executed. <sup>1</sup> "investment grade" is an indication for the credit risk of a debtor which allows a simple assessment of the solvency. For long-term ratings, i.e. for a period of time of more than 360 days the rating codes are, e.g. from S&P or Fitch, split into AAA (highest quality, lowest risk), AA, A, BBB, BB, B, CCC, CC, C to D (payment difficulties, delay). The ratings AAA to BBB (average good investment; in case of a deterioration of the global economy problems could be expected) are regarded as "investment grade".

| D.6 | Key information on the key risks that are specific to the securities. This must include a risk warning to the effect that investors may lose the value of their entire investment or part of it, as the case may be, and/or, if the investor's liability is not limited to the value of his investment, a statement of that fact, together with a description of the circumstances in which such additional liability arises and the likely financial effect. | General risk factors of Certificates Risk of total loss The Certificates represent risky investment instruments. They entail the risk of losing the capital invested, up to and including a total loss. The rights represented by the Certificates may suffer an irrecoverable loss of value, because these Certificates only ever represent rights that are valid for a limited period. Risk of default by the Issuer of the Certificates In the event of the Issuer becoming insolvent, investors could suffer a loss up to and including a total loss. As bearer securities, Certificates do not fall within the scope of the deposit protection arrangements. Risk of the absence or non-functioning of a secondary market in the Certificates or restricted availability of the Issuer's electronic trading system Investors should not assume that they will be able to sell a Certificate at a particular time or at a particular price during its term. Investors should assume instead that pricing on the exchange can only take place within the spread of bid and ask prices quoted by the Issuer, if available, and that their buy or sell orders on the exchange will be executed with the Issuer as the direct or indirect counterparty. Risk in connection with the cessation of secondary trading immediately prior to final maturity The Issuer and/or the exchange cease trading in the Certificates shortly before their valuation date. However, the reference price of the underlying on the valuation date and/or the applicable exchange rate, both of which are important for the purpose of determining the cash amount of the Certificates, may still change between the last exchange trading day and the maturity date, which may be to the disadvantage of the investor. There is a particular risk that the price of the underlying may reach, fall below or exceed a barrier for the first time shortly before the reference price on the valuation date is determined and after trading in the secondary market has already finished. Exchange rate risk If the underlying asset or basket constituents on which the Certificates are based are denominated in a currency other than the settlement currency, investors may be exposed to the risk of suffering a loss as a result of the conversion of the currency of the underlying or of a basket constituent into the settlement currency or into the trading currency (in the event of a sale in the secondary market). Risk of Certificates with currency hedging (Quanto Certificates) |

However, the price of Certificates with Quanto currency hedging may also respond to exchange rate movements prior to the valuation time of the Certificates, even if the factors affecting their value remain otherwise unchanged. In the event that the Certificate is sold during its term, the investor may be exposed to a corresponding exchange rate risk. If a Certificate has Quanto hedging, therefore, investors must assume that they will also pay for any costs of the Quanto hedging. In the case of Certificates with currency hedging Investors do not participate in a favourable development of the exchange rate at the time of the determination of the redemption amount. Risk relating to market disruption events In the event of market disruption events with respect to the underlying occurring on the (final) valuation date or, in the case of Open End Certificates, i.e. Certificates which do not have a defined term, on exercise, the Issuer has the right to postpone the valuation date for the reference price. This may result in an additional risk for investors if the underlying performs negatively during the period of delay or, where applicable, if the exchange rate for conversion into the settlement currency moves in a direction that is unfavorable for the investor. Product specific risk factors Product No. 1: Specific risk factors of Bonus or Capped Bonus or Bonus Pro or Capped Bonus Pro Certificates: If the observation price equals or falls below the barrier at any time during the observation period within the observation hours, the Certificate is subject to a risk of loss depending on the relevant reference price of the underlying on the valuation date. In the worst case this will involve the total loss of the capital invested. This will be the case if the relevant reference price of the underlying on the valuation date amounts to zero. In the case of Bonus Certificates with physical delivery, if the observation price equals or falls below the barrier at any time during the observation period within the observation hours and in the case of Capped Bonus Certificates if the reference price on the valuation date is determined to be lower than the cap, then instead of the cash amount the investor receives the underlying in the number expressed by the multiplier. The market value of the underlying may be lower than the purchase price of the Certificate. In this event investors will suffer a loss. In the worst case this will involve the total loss of the capital invested. This will be the case if the relevant reference price of the underlying on the valuation date amounts to zero. |

| E.4 | A description of any interest that is material to the issue/offer including conflicting interests. | The Issuer, its affiliated companies or other companies belonging to Citigroup, Inc. or affiliated to it generally act as the calculation agent for the Certificates. This activity can lead to conflicts of interest since the responsibilities of the calculation agent include making certain determinations and decisions which could have a negative effect on the price of the Certificates or the level of the cash amount. The Issuer, its affiliated companies or other companies belonging to Citigroup, Inc. or affiliated to it may actively engage in trading transactions in the underlying, other instruments or derivatives, stock exchange options or stock exchange forward contracts linked to it, or the issuance of other securities and derivatives based on the underlying. The companies may also be involved in the acquisition of new shares or other securities of the underlying or, in the case of stock indices, of individual companies included in the index, or act as financial advisers to the entities referred to or work with them in the commercial banking business. The companies are required to fulfill their obligations arising in this connection irrespective of the consequences resulting for the certificate holders and, where necessary, to take actions they consider necessary or appropriate in order to protect themselves or safeguard their interests arising from these business relationships. The activities referred to above could lead to conflicts of interest and have a negative effect on the price of the underlying or securities linked to it such as the Certificates. The Issuer, its affiliated companies or other companies belonging to Citigroup, Inc. or affiliated to it may issue additional derivative securities based on the respective underlying or constituents of the underlying, including securities whose features are the same as or similar to those of the Certificates. The introduction of such products that compete with the Certificates may impact the price of the underlying or the constituents of the underlying and thus also the price of the Certificates. The Issuer, its affiliated companies or other companies belonging to Citigroup, Inc. or affiliated to it may receive non-public information relating to the underlying or the constituents of the underlying, but are under no obligation to pass on such information to the certificate holders. Furthermore, companies belonging to Citigroup, Inc. or affiliated to it may publish research reports relating to the underlying or constituents of the underlying. These types of activities may entail certain conflicts of interest and affect the price of the Certificates. |
| E.7 | Estimated expenses charged to the investor by the issuer or the offeror.                           | The estimated expenses for the Certificates, including the cost for admission to exchange trading, are included in the issue price or the selling price, as the case may be. | A.1                                        | Le présent Résumé présente les caractéristiques et les risques principaux de Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG (« l'Émetteur ») et les Certificats émis au titre de Prospectus de Base daté du 7 mai 2014 (complétés par le supplément en date du 13 août 2014 et encore augmentés de temps à autre). Le Résumé a pour finalité de servir d'introduction au Prospectus de Base. Les investisseurs devraient donc veiller à ne prendre aucune décision d'investir dans les Certificats avant d'avoir pris connaissance du Prospectus dans sa totalité, y compris des documents intégrés par référence, de tous les suppléments et des Conditions Définitives. Dans le cas où un recours relatif aux informations contenues dans un prospectus de base, les documents intégrés par référence, dans tous les suppléments ou dans les Conditions Définitives respectives serait intenté auprès d'un tribunal, l'investisseur agissant en tant que plaignant pourrait, en vertu des lois de différents États membres de l'Espace économique européen, être contraint de prendre en charge le coût de la traduction du prospectus de base, des documents intégrés par référence, de tous les suppléments et des Conditions Définitives, dans la langue de travail du tribunal avant le commencement de la procédure judiciaire. L'Émetteur assume la responsabilité du contenu de ce Résumé, y compris de toute traduction en étant faite. L'Émetteur ou toute personne ayant déposé le Résumé peut être jugé responsable, mais seulement dans le cas où le Résumé serait trompeur, inexact ou contradictoire par rapport aux autres parties du Prospectus, ou, dans le cas où il est lu en même temps que les autres parties du Prospectus de Base, s'il ne donne pas toutes les informations clés nécessaires. |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |

|  | secteurs d'activité. | L'Émetteur s'attend à une croissance modeste dans l'Eurozone (les prévisions de croissance de l'Émetteur sont de 0,9 % et de 1,0 % pour 2014 et 2015, respectivement) après avoir enregistré un taux de -0,4 % en 2013. La reprise économique devrait être dynamisée par la réduction des mesures publiques d'austérité, une politique monétaire favorable dans la durée de la part de la Banque Centrale Européenne (BCE), le redressement de l'économie mondiale et la diminution des facteurs d'incertitude. Un euro plus fort, un endettement plus élevé dans les secteurs privés et publics et des conditions de financement toujours difficiles (surtout pour les petites et moyennes entreprises et pour de nombreux États membres) devraient continuer à empêcher la croissance potentielle dans l'Eurozone. L'inflation devrait être très modérée dans l'ensemble de l'Eurozone. En 2014, les éléments importants seront « l'examen de la qualité des actifs » et le test de stress qui sont prévus et que la BCE réalisera en lien avec les autorités de contrôle nationales et l'Autorité bancaire européenne (ABE). Malgré les efforts actuels de nombreuses banques européennes pour réduire la dette et augmenter le capital, de nouveaux déficits ou insuffisances des banques dans certains pays pourraient apparaître au cours de ces recherches. Cette perspective et l'incertitude, qui prévaut actuellement sur la manière dont les besoins en capital pourraient être potentiellement satisfaits, pourraient entraîner une incertitude à la fois sur les marchés financiers et, potentiellement, à l'approche de ces tests. Étant donné les risques actuels de déflation et la faible croissance, nous nous attendons à ce que la BCE poursuive l'ajustement des taux d'intérêt et décide d'apports supplémentaires de liquidités si la situation du marché le nécessite. Compte tenu de la persistance des taux d'intérêt bas, de l'hésitation des clients et de la volatilité encore prévisible sur les marchés, le potentiel de croissance des bénéfices dans le secteur bancaire doit encore être considéré comme modeste. Des questions telles que les exigences en matière de capital, la réglementation et la restructuration seront encore des sujets essentiels dans le secteur bancaire en 2014 et marqueront de leur empreinte l'aspect financier des choses. Des réductions générales des coûts et la révision des modèles de gestion occuperont une fois de plus une place centrale. L'accroissement des exigences réglementaires en matière de fonds propres et de liquidités continuera à préoccuper l'ensemble du secteur financier et, sans aucun doute, augmentera fortement les charges d'exploitation. Pour l'Allemagne, l'Émetteur prévoit des taux de croissance de 1,9 % environ pour 2014 et de 1,7 % pour 2015. Aux États-Unis, il faut encore observer comme réagira la Réserve fédérale aux défis actuels et si les partis politiques des États-Unis peuvent parvenir à un accord sur le budget du pays. L'Asie semble stable et demeurera certainement attractive pour les investisseurs. Néanmoins, il faut encore voir comment la Chine résoudra certains de ses défis actuels. Pour les pays industriels, le taux d'inflation en 2014 devrait légèrement augmenter à 1,7 % et demeurer ensuite relativement stable les années suivantes. De même, en Allemagne, le taux d'inflation devrait osciller au-dessous de 2%. Concernant les taux d'inflation des pays émergents, l'Émetteur s'attend à une légère augmentation de 5,0 % en 2014 et de 5,2 % en 2015. Aucun projet de modification importante du modèle de gestion n'existe en 2014 pour l'Émetteur. Il continuera à s'axer sur son activité de base et, compte tenu de l'environnement difficile du marché, s'efforcera de maintenir et, si possible, d'étendre sa part actuelle de marché. À cet égard, l'Émetteur conseillera et soutiendra ses clients dans toutes les activités générales en s'appuyant sur le réseau mondial et les produits de Citi. En 2014, l'Émetteur mettra en œuvre une nouvelle fois un programme strict de gestion des coûts et de la comptabilité. Dans ce sens, il recherchera essentiellement à améliorer l'efficacité opérationnelle et à consolider davantage les structures de gouvernance d'entreprise. L'optimisation des procédures internes restera aussi l'objectif. Il n'existe aucun projet |

L'Émetteur a cependant l'intention d'ajouter ponctuellement des clients stratégiquement importants à sa clientèle dans la mesure où peut être mis au point un modèle de gestion apportant des gains économiques durables pour ces clients et pour Citi. La solvabilité du portefeuille de clients actuel est considérée stable. L'exposition du portefeuille de prêts par rapport aux pays périphériques est limitée au maximum. Aucun préjudice important de cette exposition n'est présagé. | B.13                             | Décrire tout événement récent propre à l'émetteur et présentant un intérêt significatif pour l'évaluation de sa solvabilité.                                                               | Aucun événement présentant un intérêt significatif pour l'évaluation de la solvabilité de l'Émetteur n'est identifié à ce moment. Cependant, Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG est actuellement sujet à un audit extraordinaire sur les retenues à la source fiscales par l'autorité fiscale Francfort-Hoeschst pour les années 2007-2008. Dans ce contexte, l'autorité fiscale a explicité ses vues quant au fait que Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG peut ne pas avoir déduit et payé la retenue à la source des dividendes reçus en relation avec des transactions communément appelées cum-ex transactions pour des actions qu'il conserve pour ses clients suivant les besoins. S'appuyant sur ces observations, l'autorité fiscale est actuellement de l'avis que Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG est responsable de la non-déduction de la retenue à la source d'un montant supérieur à 706 millions d'euros pour les années 2007 et 2008. Dans le cas où l'autorité fiscale a raison, la responsabilité fiscale pour les années 2009 à 2011 pourrait se poser, ce qui est impossible d'estimer pour le moment. Le principal point de départ de l'action en responsabilité des autorités fiscales est de savoir si Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG est qualifié de banque allemande exécutant une transaction (die den Verkaufsauftrag ausführende Stelle) durant ces années. De plus, la méthode appliquée pour identifier le montant des dommages et intérêts est débattue comme celle de savoir si Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG peut être tenu responsable comme débiteur principal. Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG a obtenu l'avis juridique d'un bureau réputé de consultants en fiscalité ainsi que d'un cabinet réputé d'expertise comptable. A partir de ces avis, la direction de Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG considère que la probabilité d'obtenir gain de cause dans l'hypothèse d'une procédure judiciaire excède 50 pourcents. De ce fait, la direction de Citigroup Global Markets Deutschland AG a décidé de n'écrire dans ses comptes qu'une réserve au titre de l'avis juridique et des dépenses éventuelles de litige et a décidé à cet égard qu'un montant de 2 millions d'Euros était adéquat. De plus, il devrait être noté que Citigroup envisage actuellement des mesures visant à optimiser sa structure d'organisation. |                                  |    |    |
