

ATEME VERIFIED FOR YOUTUBE LIVE

Paris, March 18, 2026 – AteME (Euronext - FR0011992700), a global leader in video compression software, announced that its AteME Encoding products & services are now included in YouTube’s Live verified encoders list, including support for SRT (Secure Reliable Transport) output as part of the certification.

This validation confirms that TITAN meets YouTube’s technical and performance requirements for reliable, high-quality live streaming workflows using SRT contribution. AteME enables creators and content owner to securely and efficiently deliver low-latency live content to YouTube over unmanaged networks, with enhanced resilience, and secure transmission.

AteME’s live encoding and processing technologies are designed to operate in the most demanding live production environments—on-premises, in the cloud, or as SaaS—offering advanced compression efficiency, industry leading video quality across all major codecs including AV1, as well as features such as HDR support and low-latency streaming.

AteME's TITAN solution notably powers the live encoding to YouTube for CazéTV, the Brazilian YouTube channel which hosted 5 of the 10 most viewed live events on YouTube.

"We are proud to receive the official YouTube seal of approval for our TITAN encoding solution" said François Guilleautot, Head of New Media at AteME. "This milestone is a testament to our commitment to making the best video quality available to all customers in the live streaming industry."
