

Les Aloes: 35 new intermediate rental homes delivered to SHLMR (Action Logement Group)

In response to strong housing demand on Réunion Island, CBo Territoria continues its commitment to providing accessible, high-quality housing. On July 22, 2026, the Group delivered the first phase of the Les Aloes residential development (Aloe Macra project) to SHLMR (Action Logement Group), comprising 35 intermediate rental housing units.

Developed under an off-plan property sale (Vente en l'État Futur d'Achèvement – VEFA), the first phase comprises 15 one-bedroom, 14 two-bedroom, and 6 three-bedroom intermediate rental apartments, spread across two six-story buildings. With 55 parking spaces, the development was designed to provide future residents with a functional living environment designed for everyday living.

Through this development, CBo Territoria continues to expand a diversified residential offering that meets the needs of households on Réunion Island.

The quality of the residence is recognized through NF Habitat certification, which guarantees high standards of comfort, safety, energy performance, indoor air quality, and respect for the environment. This certification reflects CBo Territoria's ambition to design homes that are sustainable, high-performing, and enjoyable to live in.

Beyond its residential purpose, the development also illustrates CBo Territoria's CSR commitment to the region's economic and social development. The construction project generated more than 9,000 hours of employment integration for people returning to the workforce, across a wide range of construction trades, including structural work, plumbing, waterproofing, aluminum joinery, and tiling.

Upon completion, the development will comprise a total of 76 intermediate rental housing units. The second phase is scheduled for completion during the fourth quarter of 2026 and will culminate in the completion of a 10-story tower, which will be the tallest building and the defining landmark of the Beauséjour urban center.

This landmark project once again demonstrates the strength of the partnership between CBo Territoria and SHLMR (Action Logement Group). Together, the two organizations share a commitment to helping meet growing housing demand by combining residential quality, environmental performance, and seamless urban integration.
