Promising outlook for 2014

For Nanobiotix, 2014 will be a pivotal year for the company, during which we expect to achieve several significant milestones.

In terms of clinical development, Nanobiotix is expecting final results from the phase I study initiated in France on soft tissue sarcoma, the first intermediate results from the clinical study on head and neck cancers and anticipating the regulatory authorization for the start of the clinical trial in liver cancer within the framework of the NICE project. At the international level, Nanobiotix will be focused on its ambitious partnership policy with the initiation of two trials led by PharmaEngine in Asia and will be targeting the US territory [for development partners].

To support these key developments, the Nanobiotix management nominated Anne-Marie GRAFFIN (as a member) and Enno SPILLNER (as observer) to the Supervisory Board in January 2014. This is in addition to the recruitment of Philippe MAUBERNA as Chief Financial Officer and Sarah GAUBERT as Head of Communication and Public Affairs, in H2 2013 to strengthen the management team and the corporate governance.

We believe we are making major strides in our development and have the right team in place to fulfil our strategy and ambitions to make a significant impact in the field of nanomedicine.
