July 10, 2024 – 17:00 CEST

Winamp's new music player apps are now available

For the first time, the Winamp player debuted as a mobile application for both iOS and Android devices, preserving its hallmark features while introducing new functionalities crafted to align with contemporary audio consumption trends.

The core elements playing tracks stored locally, in the Cloud, and on Fanzone; tuning your listening experience with an in-app equalizer; and customizing the application's interface.

This long-awaited app promises to bring joy to loyal fans and newcomers by introducing features to strengthen the bond between music enthusiasts and their beloved artists

It's part of the new generation of players we'll be producing in the future. Updates will arrive very rapidly between now and the end of the year, bringing new designs, new features, and more connectivity, entering a cycle of constant evolution in 2024 and 2025.
