ABL DIAGNOSTICS BECOMES ABL TEXCELL DIAGNOSTICS

Shareholders confirm the continuation of the Company's listing on the regulated market of Euronext Paris as the most appropriate framework to support the Company's next phase of long-term development

Woippy, September 17, 2026 at 8 p.m. – ABL Diagnostics (Euronext Paris: ABLD – ISIN: FR001400AHX6) (the "Company"), a company specialized in molecular diagnostics solutions, healthcare software and services supporting clinical research, announces that its shareholders, meeting today in an Extraordinary General Meeting, approved the change of the Company's corporate name to ABL Texcell Diagnostics, reflecting the Company's evolution and the growing complementarity of its activities in molecular diagnostics, virology and life sciences.

Shareholders also decided not to approve the resolution relating to the proposed transfer of the Company's shares to Euronext Growth Paris.

A new identity reflecting the Company's evolution

"The review conducted over the past several weeks enabled us to thoroughly assess the various options available to support the Company's development. Following this analysis, maintaining the Company's listing on the regulated market of Euronext Paris emerged as the most appropriate solution for our growth trajectory, our ambitions and the interests of all our shareholders," said Dr. Chalom B. Sayada, Chief Executive Officer of ABL Diagnostics and founder of parent company Advanced Biological Laboratories (ABL).

"The adoption of the name ABL Texcell Diagnostics also marks an important milestone in the Company's evolution. This new identity reflects the complementarity of our activities, Texcell's international recognition and our commitment to creating sustainable value in the fields of diagnostics, virology and life sciences. We remain fully focused on executing our strategic roadmap, expanding our activities and pursuing profitable growth," added Dr. Sayada.

The Company will therefore continue to pursue its development under its new identity, ABL Texcell Diagnostics, while benefiting from the standards and framework associated with the regulated market of Euronext Paris. The Company continues its efforts to enhance investor visibility, improve share liquidity and broaden its shareholder base, while maintaining the governance and transparency standards associated with a regulated market.

About ABL Texcell Diagnostics (ABLTDx)

ABL Texcell Diagnostics (ABLTDx) is an international company that specializes in innovative molecular biology tests and global solutions for its customers:
