Consolidated revenue for the third quarter of 2008 came in at €2.42m, up 3% from €2.36m in the third quarter of 2007. Access Commerce revenue for the first nine months of the year totaled €8.42m, a sharp 10% increase from €7.63m in the same period last year.

Jacques Soumeillan, Access Commerce Chairman and CEO, commented, "The Cameleon business continues to expand on the strength of our new vertical market strategy. We are excited by the enthusiastic reception that our new and innovative Cameleon^{edge} technology platform has received from both existing and potential customers. Cameleon^{edge} was introduced in early October, and underscores our leadership position in sales configurators. The platform enables service companies cut their time-to-market for new products, expand their product ranges, enhance their product quality, and open the door to multi-channel distribution. The key element of our growth strategy is the introduction of three software applications designed to meet the specific needs of different market segments: Cameleon MC Suite, which offers multi-channel commerce and configurator solutions for manufacturing companies; Cameleon SC Suite, which offers multi-channel commerce and configurator solutions for services companies; and Cameleon DC Suite, which offers multi-channel commerce and product information management solutions for specialty distributors. At the same time, we expect the robust performance of the Integration business in the first nine months should extend through the rest of the year. We are keeping a close eye on our financial breakeven point for 2009, given the current economic climate, and have maintained a healthy cash balance at just over €4m at September 30, 2008 – essentially unchanged from September 30, 2007.”
