Aéroports de Paris February 2011 traffic figures

Passenger traffic

In February 2011, Aéroports de Paris passenger traffic increased by 5.9% compared to February 2010, with a total of 5.8 million passengers handled: 4.0 million at Paris-Charles de Gaulle (+4.6%) and 1.8 million at Paris-Orly (+8.8%). This month's traffic was boosted by the winter breaks grouped this year on the month of February. However, the Middle-eastern and African traffic suffered from geo-political unrest although being partially offset by transfers to European destinations. As a reminder, February 2010 was hit by an air traffic controllers' strike which mostly hit Paris-Orly airport.

- International traffic (excluding Europe), affected by geo-political unrest in some parts of Africa and the Middle East, rose slightly by 0.4%. Middle-Eastern traffic fell by 11.5% and traffic to Egypt dropped to a quarter of its normal levels. African traffic slipped 1.5% due mainly to the slump in travel to Tunisia, Mali and Ivory Coast. All other areas improved: Asia/Pacific +8.3%; North America +5.5% and French Overseas Departments and Territories (DOM-TOMs) +0.2%.
- European traffic (excluding France) went up 9.2%, driven by Schengen countries (+9.7%), while travel to the UK and Ireland grew by 1.2%.
- Traffic in France increased by 11.1%.
- The number of connecting passengers rose by 4.9%. The connecting passenger rate amounts to 23.2% against 23.3% in February 2010.

Over the first two months of 2011, passenger traffic increased by 5.7% compared to the same period last year. The number of connecting passengers grew by 4.6% coming in at 24.9% against 25.1% over the first two months of 2010.
