Orders for three research machines in Russia

Bezons, October 25th, 2011 – 5:45 pm – RIBER, the global leader for molecular beam epitaxy (MBE), is announcing the sale of three research systems to two leading research institutes based in Russia.

With these orders, Epineat, Compact12 and Compact 21 model MBE systems will be supplied in 2012.

More specifically, two systems will be delivered to the Saint Petersburg Academy of Sciences' Nanotechnology Research and Education Centre in connection with the "Alferov-Riber MBE Academy", set up jointly in 2010 with Nobel Prize in Physics Zhores Alferov and RIBER.

These new orders confirm RIBER's growing reputation among the scientific community in Russia, enabling it to further strengthen its positions on this market, where the semiconductor industry is booming. They also illustrate the quality of RIBER's business model, focused on:

- Continuing to further strengthen RIBER's leadership on the market for molecular beam epitaxy machines;
- Capitalizing on the installed base and growing sales of epitaxy equipment, spare parts and accessories, as well as the corresponding services;
- Diversifying the business, releasing a range of high value-added equipment (cells and sources) on the market for strong-growth application fields (thin-layer solar cells, OLED lighting and screens, etc.).

About RIBER:

Riber designs and produces molecular beam epitaxy (MBE) systems as well as evaporation sources and cells for the semiconductor industry. This high-technology equipment is essential for the manufacturing of compound semiconductor materials and new materials that are used in numerous consumer applications, such as new information technologies, OLED flat screens and new generation solar cells.

Riber is listed on Euronext Paris Compartment "C" and is part of the CAC Small, CAC Mid & Small and CAC IT indexes.
