GLOBAL GRAPHICS SIGNS STRATEGIC PARTNERSHIP WITH LEXISNEXIS

Cambridge, UK 25 October, 2012: Global Graphics® (NYSE Euronext: GLOG) has signed a strategic partnership with LexisNexis® to provide its gDoc Binder® platform to power a new range of solutions aimed at the professional services market. A FTSE 100 company, LexisNexis is a leading provider of information and business solutions to the legal, accountancy, corporate, risk and public sectors and a pioneer of online information with its Lexis® and Nexis® services. Global Graphics is a leading developer of software used in printing and electronic document applications by the world's leading brands including HP, Corel, Fuji Xerox and Quark.

The patent-pending gDoc Binder platform provides LexisNexis with the ability to create electronic ring-binders for enterprise desktop and laptop users. gDoc Binder makes it easy to organize and review information in a completely natural way because it is based on the familiar paper binder concept used by business professionals for decades.

Laura Whitehead, Head of Marketing, LexisNexis Enterprise Solutions, comments, "gDoc Binder is a complementary solution and offering alongside our core systems and will greatly benefit our customers, enabling them to enhance the productivity and efficiency of their organisations. We are always looking at different ways to meet the changing needs of our customers with speed and accuracy. Our partnership with Global Graphics is a step in this direction."

Gary Fry, Global Graphics' CEO says "we are very happy that LexisNexis has chosen gDoc Binder to integrate into its strong portfolio of solutions and we look forward to a long and rewarding relationship."

The new LexisNexis solution will be branded as Lexis® Binder.
