Patrick Jeantet is appointed as Deputy CEO of Aéroports de Paris

The board of Directors approved on 24 October 2013 the proposal of Augustin de Romanet, Chairman and CEO of Aéroports de Paris, to appoint Patrick Jeantet as Deputy CEO of Aéroports de Paris.

This appointment will be effective on Monday 6 January 2014 the latest.

Since February 2011, Patrick Jeantet has been Deputy CEO France of Keolis. As such, he allowed the public group to strengthen its leading position in the public transportation landscape in France.

Between 2005 and 2011, he was Executive Director then Executive Vice President International of Keolis.

From 1997 to 2005, Patrick Jeantet was Director of the water supply and sanitation companies Manila Water Company (Philippines) and Chief Operating Officer of International Water in London. Between 1993 and 1997, he was Director in charge of the international development and Director of the subsidiaries in Eastern and Southern Africa of SOGEA SA. From 1986 to 1993, Patrick Jeantet held several positions in Bouygues group where he took part in particular, as an engineer, to the building of the Channel Tunnel.

Patrick Jeantet, 53 years old, is a graduate of the Ecole Polytechnique and of the Ecole Nationale des Ponts et Chaussées. He joins the Executive Committee of Aéroports de Paris.

Augustin de Romanet, Chairman and CEO of Aéroports de Paris, said: "I am looking forward to the arrival of Patrick Jeantet in our Group. His experience built in France and abroad in the management of services, infrastructure and engineering will be a precious asset for the development of Aéroports de Paris".
