Research system order in Japan

Bezons, January 15th, 2015 – 5:45 pm – RIBER, the global leader for molecular beam epitaxy (MBE), is announcing an order for an MBE412 system from a major Japanese electronics equipment manufacturer.

This latest sale to a leading name from the Japanese electronics industry confirms the market's adoption of the MBE 412, which was released recently by RIBER and is one of the market's best performing thin-film deposition systems. The MBE 412 has been chosen for its high level of flexibility, its reliability and its capacity to produce extremely complex and very high-quality semiconductor materials on large-format substrates on a reproducible basis.

Following its acquisition of this machine, this industrial firm will develop optoelectronic devices at the forefront of current technologies.

The system, ordered at the end of December, will be delivered in 2015.

As Frédérick Goutard, Chairman of the Executive Board, explains: “This latest order confirms the commercial success of our new ranges of systems. The fact that RIBER has been chosen by an internationally renowned industrial firm following a stringent selection process highlights MBE’s relevance as a research technology, while further strengthening RIBER’s leading position in Japan, a country with a particularly well-developed semiconductor industry”.

ABOUT RIBER:

Riber designs and produces molecular beam epitaxy (MBE) systems as well as evaporation sources and cells for the semiconductor industry. This high-tech equipment is essential for the manufacturing of compound semiconductor materials and new materials that are used in numerous consumer applications, from new information technologies to OLED flat screens and new generation solar cells.

The Riber Group recorded €23.5 million in revenues for 2013, with 109 employees at the end of 2013. The company is ISO9001 certified. Riber is listed on NYSE-Euronext Paris, Compartment “C”, and is part of the CAC Small, CAC Mid & Small, CAC Technology and CAC T. HARD. & EQ indices. Riber is one of the best-rated companies in the Gaïa-index, the leading SRI index for French mid-caps. Riber is eligible for SME share-based savings schemes.
