

PRESS RELEASE

FAIVELEY TRANSPORT TO SUPPLY HVAC AND APS TO SMRT SUBSIDIARY SINGAPORE RAIL ENGINEERING (SRE)

As part of Singapore rail operator SMRT extensive midlife upgrade and refurbishment programme to the first and second generation C651 and C151 trains, Faiveley Transport has been selected by SRE (SMRT subsidiary Singapore Rail Engineering) to supply HVAC (heating, ventilation and air-conditioning) and APS (auxiliary power supply) systems for 85 trains.

The contract covers the engineering, manufacturing and delivery of HVAC (heating, ventilation and air-conditioning) and APS (auxiliary power supply) systems. It will allow the C651 and C151 trains cars upgrade while improving passengers comfort and optimizing operations conditions.

It amounts to more than 45 million Euros. Delivery is expected to start mid 2016 and to be completed by beginning of 2020.

According to Olivier Ravit, Faiveley Transport Energy & Comfort Division President: "This project is a significant contract awarded by a new customer, to whom Faiveley Transport has demonstrated its worldwide expertise in air conditioning and energy management. Our proposal meets demanding specifications, offering an innovative and added value proposal aimed at optimizing space envelope, weight and energy consumption."
