

FAIVELEY TRANSPORT WINS A SERIES OF CONTRACTS FOR EVENT RECORDERS

Faiveley Transport has been awarded 6 new contracts for event recorders for high speed and regional trains in Europe, Australia and South Korea confirming its position as a world leader in this increasingly important market. The combined value of these contracts exceeds 7 million euros.

Faiveley Transport has carried out significant research and development over the last few years to create high tech systems that meet today's strict railway standards. These systems have the advantage of meeting the legal requirements in most European countries which allows operators running their trains through several different countries to integrate one single system, instead of a system per country. The recorders, notably ATESS and Driver Information System (DIS), are also internationally renowned for their reliability and low life cycle costs.

Event recorders are integrated into the Access & Information activity, which produces door systems and passenger information.

"Our teams have a good understanding of our customers' technical constraints and the strict norms & standards that vary from country to country", underlined Gildas Rault, Director of the Information & safety Business Unit, "We were able to win these contracts due to our standard range of products which we adapt to each customer's specific needs."

Faiveley Transport is well positioned to continue its expansion worldwide in this market and specifically in emerging countries.
