

Turbine purchase for the Vila Acre wind facility in Brazil

Launch of the construction expected in October 2016

Voltalia (Euronext Paris, ISIN code: FR0011995588), an international independent renewable energy power producer, has announced the signing of a supply contract for 13 turbines to equip the Vila Acre wind facility (27 MW) in Brazil.

The contract signed with Gamesa, one of the global leaders in wind turbine construction, covers the supply, transport, installation and commissioning of 13 turbines (2.1 MW each).

These turbines will equip the Vila Acre facility, a project won during the auctions organized by the Brazilian federal authorities in November 2015. The plant will be located in the Serra Branca cluster, which has a 1.2 GW potential, including the Areia Branca (90 MW) and Vamcruz (93 MW) operating facilities and the Vila Para site (99 MW) currently in construction. The new wind power plant will benefit from the 52 kilometer transmission line built in 2014, and from the other connection facilities also owned by Voltalia.

The construction will begin in October 2016 and the commissioning is expected in Q3 2017, over one year ahead of the start of the long term electricity sales contract. Benefiting from the cluster's transmission line, the Vila Acre wind power plant will thus be able to sell its power production on the free market as soon as it is commissioned.

Next on the agenda: Q2 2016 revenues, on July 28, 2016 (post trading)
