Edenred Mobility and Electra form a strategic partnership to accelerate the electrification of commercial fleets in France

Edenred, the global leader in Benefits & Engagement and Mobility, and Electra, one of Europe's leading ultra-fast charging operators, have entered into an agreement to reduce costs and simplify electric vehicle charging for Edenred Mobilité's customers in France, at a time when economic considerations remain the main obstacle to the energy transition of corporate fleets.

Starting today, Edenred Mobilité's corporate clients in France will benefit from a 30% discount across Electra's premium ultra-fast network, recognized for its simplicity, accessibility, and reliability with a 99% availability rate, the highest in the French market.

Ranked number one on highways in terms of quality, the Electra network now includes more than 700 stations across 10 European countries and is expanding rapidly, with two new stations opening every day near residential and commercial hubs (shopping centers, city centers, and major roads). It enables ultra-fast charging in under 20 minutes.

Access to Electra charging stations and the exclusive pricing plan available for Edenred Mobilité customers are natively integrated into Edenred's all-in-one offering, which enables electric charging at over one million charging points across Europe and includes a wide range of associated services to simplify life for fleet managers at both large corporations and SMEs.

Diane Coliche, Chief Operating Officer for Mobility at Edenred, states: "Professional mobility is undergoing a major transformation. The electrification of fleets is no longer an option, but it can only become a reality on a large scale if we reduce the cost of charging and simplify the operational management of electric and hybrid fleets. With this partnership, we are providing a very concrete solution for companies to drive change and accelerate the transition: a competitive pricing plan, a premium ultra-fast charging network, and seamless integration into their multi-energy management systems."

Aurélien de Meaux, Founder and CEO of Electra, states: "The electrification of commercial fleets is a major driver of the energy transition. Through our partnership with Edenred Mobilité, we are creating the conditions for large-scale deployment by simplifying access to fast charging for businesses across Europe. This partnership reflects our ongoing ambition: to make simplicity of use the driving force behind adoption."
