RISK FACTORS

Prospective purchasers of the Warrants are advised to read the complete Base Prospectus including the chapter on "Risk Factors" and to seek their own advice (including tax consultants and accountholding bank) before reaching an investment decision.

Potential investors intending to purchase the Warrants should only purchase the Warrants if they are able to evaluate the merits and risks of such a purchase and if they are able to sustain the loss of the purchase price and of the transaction costs in connection with the purchase of the Warrants.

RISKS ASSOCIATED WITH THE INLINE WARRANTS

General

Subject to the occurrence of Knock-Out Event, Inline Warrants on indices (the "Warrants", the "Underlying Asset") grant to the holder (the "Warrantholder") the right (the "Option Right") to receive the payment of a fixed amount (the "Cash Settlement Amount").

The Option Right will expire upon the occurrence of a Knock-Out Event (see below "Knock-Out Event").

The Warrants do not entitle the Warrantholders to receive a coupon payment or dividend yield and therefore do not constitute a regular source of income. Possible losses in connection with an investment in the Warrants can therefore not be compensated by other income from the Warrants.

Knock-Out Event

If during the Monitoring Period at a time on which no Market Disruption Event with respect to the Underlying Asset occurs the price of the Underlying Asset is equal to or below the Lower Barrier or equal to or above the Upper Barrier (the "Knock-Out Event") the Option Right granted by the Warrants shall expire and no Cash Settlement Amount shall be payable to the Warrantholder. The occurrence of a Knock-out Event leads to the total loss of the capital invested by the Warrantholder for the purchase of the Warrants.

As opposed to standard warrants where a standard warrant which has lost in value may recover during its lifetime until the Expiration Date, investors in Warrants with a Knock-out feature should be aware of the fact that such securities may become worthless at any time after the issue date without the possibility to recover in value during the time until the Expiration Date.

Exercise of the Warrants only on the Expiration Date (European Style)

One of the essential characteristics of the Warrants is that the Warrants are not exercisable during their lifetime. An automatic payment can only be expected by the Warrantholder (i) latest on the fifth Payment Business Day following the Expiration Date, or, (ii) in case of an Early Termination of the Warrants by the Issuer, on the Early Termination Date.

Prior to the fifth Payment Business Day following the Expiration Date (or prior to the Early Termination Date in case of an Early Termination of the Warrants by the Issuer) a realisation of the economic value of the Warrants (or part of it) is only possible by selling the Warrants. A sale of the Warrants, however, requires that there are market participants willing to purchase the Warrants at the respective price. If there are no market participants willing to do so the value of the Warrants may possibly not be realised. The Issuer has no obligation to provide for a trading in the Warrants or to repurchase the Warrants itself.

Other Risks associated with the Purchase of Warrants

Warrants involve a high degree of risk and investors must be prepared to sustain a total loss of the purchase price of their Warrants. It cannot be expected that the price of the Underlying Asset will neither trigger the Lower Barrier nor the Upper Barrier and, therefore, the investor can not rely upon an investment in the Warrants being profitable. The occurrence of not anticipated fluctuations in the price of the Underlying Asset may disproportionately affect the value of the Warrants and may lead to the Warrants expiring worthless.

Important factors in determining the price of Warrants are in particular:

- the actual price of the relevant Underlying Asset and the expectations of market participants regarding its price,
- the anticipated frequency and intensity of fluctuations in the price of the relevant Underlying Asset (volatility), and
- the lifetime of the Warrants.

Risk of Loss due to Changes in the Volatility of the Underlying Asset

Changes in the frequency and intensity of fluctuations in the price of the Underlying Asset anticipated by the market participants (especially the increase of the implied volatility) may reduce the value of the Warrants even if the price of the Underlying Asset does not change. Movements in the price of the Underlying Asset do not necessarily result in movements in the price of the Warrants.

Risk associated with Leverage

A typical feature of Warrants is their leverage effect on the earnings prospects of the invested capital: The price of Warrants always reacts over proportionately to changes in the price of the Underlying Asset and, thus, offers chances of higher profit during their lifetime - but bear at the same time high risks of incurring a loss. This is because the leverage has an effect in both directions - i.e. not only upwards in favourable periods, but also downwards in unfavourable periods. The greater the leverage, the riskier the purchase of Warrants. The leverage effect is particularly strong in the case of Warrants with very short lifetimes.

Warrants are Unsecured Obligations

The Warrants are unsecured and unsubordinated obligations of the Issuer and will rank pari passu with all present and future unsecured and unsubordinated obligations of the Issuer, without any preference among themselves and without any preference one above the other by reason of priority of date of issue, currency or any payment or otherwise, except for obligations given priority by law. Any person who purchases any of the Warrants is relying upon the creditworthiness of the Issuer and has no rights under the Warrants against any other person. Together with the general investment risk an investment in the Warrants is also concerned with possible default risk of the Issuer. The Issuer may issue several issues of warrants relating to various reference underlying assets which may be specified in the applicable Final Terms. However, no assurance can be given that the Issuer will issue any warrants other than the warrants to which a particular set of Final Terms relates. At any given time, the number of warrants outstanding may be substantial. Warrants provide opportunities for investment and pose risks to investors as a result of fluctuations in the value of the underlying asset. In general, certain risks associated with the Warrants are similar to those generally applicable to other options or warrants of private corporate issuers.

Issuer Risk

In addition to the risk connected with the investment in the Underlying Asset of a Warrant, the investor bears the risk that the financial situation of the Issuer of the Warrant declines – or that insolvency or bankruptcy proceedings are instituted against the Issuer – and that as a result the Issuer cannot fulfil its payment obligations under the Warrants.

Possible Illiquidity of the Warrants in the Secondary Market

It is not possible to predict the price at which Warrants will trade in the secondary market or whether such market will be liquid or illiquid. The Issuer may, but is not obliged to, list Warrants on a stock exchange.

The Issuer may, but is not obliged to, at any time purchase Warrants at any price in the open market or by tender or private treaty. Any Warrants so purchased may be held or resold or surrendered for cancellation. The Issuer may, but is not obliged to, be a market-maker for an issue of Warrants. Even if the Issuer is a market-maker for an issue of Warrants, the secondary market for such Warrants may be limited. To the extent that an issue of Warrants becomes illiquid, an investor may have to exercise such Warrants to realise value.

Potential Conflicts of Interest

The Issuer and its affiliates may also engage in trading activities (including hedging activities) related to the Underlying Asset of the Warrants and other instruments or derivative products based on or related to the Underlying Asset for their proprietary accounts or for other accounts under their management. The Issuer and its affiliates may also issue other derivative instruments in respect of the Underlying Asset. Such activities could present certain conflicts of interest, could influence the prices of the Underlying Assets or other securities and could adversely affect the value of such Warrants.

Risks in connection with Borrowing

If the investor obtains a loan in connection with financing the purchase of the Warrants the investor does not only bear the risk of sustaining the loss in connection with the Warrants if the price of the Underlying Assets develops unfavourably, but also has to pay back the loan and pay the interest connected with it. This means a substantial increase in risk. An investor can never rely on being able to pay back the loan and the interest connected with it through gains derived from the purchase of the Warrants. Prospective purchasers of Warrants should therefore carefully consider their particular financial circumstances and whether they will be able to pay back the loan and pay the interest connected with it even if the investor has to sustain losses instead of the expected gains.

Transactions Excluding or Limiting Risk

The investor cannot expect that at all times during the lifetime of the Warrants transactions can be concluded which exclude or limit the risks incurred from a purchase of Warrants; this depends on the market conditions and the specific features of such Warrants as specified in the Final Terms of such Warrants. Such transactions can under certain circumstances be concluded only at an unfavourable market price and lead to a corresponding loss.

Influence of ancillary Costs on Potential Profit

Investors should consider that the return on the investment in the Warrants is reduced by the costs in connection with the purchase and sale of the Warrants.

Minimum or fixed commissions per transaction (purchase and sale) combined with a low order value (price of the Warrant times quantity) can lead to costs which, in extreme cases, may exceed the value of the Warrants purchased. The costs may be considerable compared with the total Cash Settlement Amount received by the Warrantholder exercising his Warrants.

The Influence of Hedging Transactions of the Issuer on the Warrants

The Issuer and/or its affiliates may in the course of their normal business activity engage in trading in the Underlying Asset. In addition, the Issuer may conclude transactions in order to hedge itself partially or completely against the risks associated with the issue of the Warrants. These activities of the Issuer and/or its affiliates may have an influence on the market price of the Warrants. A possibly negative impact of the conclusion or dissolution of these hedging transactions on the value of the Warrants or the size of the Cash Settlement Amount to which the holder of a Warrant is entitled cannot be excluded. In particular, the dissolution of the hedge position and a possible unwinding of the Issuer's and/or its affiliates' position in the Underlying Asset during the closing auction on the relevant Valuation Date may influence the price of the Underlying Assets in the closing auction. Consequently, the Cash Settlement Amount payable to the investor calculated on the Reference Price of the Underlying Assets might be reduced merely by the fact that the hedge for the Warrants was dissolved on the Valuation Date in the closing auction. This risk is higher for Underlying Assets with low liquidity levels, especially during the closing auction.

Risk Factors relating to the underlying

The value of the respective underlying depends on a number of interrelated factors, including economic, financial and political events beyond the Issuer's control. The historical experience of the respective underlying should not be taken as an indication of future performance of such underlying(s) during the term of any Warrant. Additionally, there may be regulatory and other ramifications associated with the ownership by certain investors of the Warrants.

Special Risks of Warrants relating to Indices

Dependency on the value of the index components

The value of an index is calculated on the basis of the value of its components. Changes in the composition of an index as well as factors that (may) influence the value of the components also influence the value of the relevant index and can thus influence the yield from an investment in the Warrants. Fluctuations in the value of one component of an index may be compensated or aggravated by fluctuations in the value of another component. Historical performance of the components does not represent any guarantee of future performance. An index used as an underlying may not, in certain circumstances, be maintained for the entire term of the Warrants.

An index may reflect the performance of assets of some countries or some industries only. Therefore, the value of the relevant index depends on the development of the index components of individual countries or industries. Even if more than just a few countries or industries are represented, it is still possible that the industries contained in the relevant index are weighted unevenly. This means that in case of an unfavourable development in one industry contained in the relevant index, the index may be affected disproportionately by this adverse development.

Investors should note that the selection of an index is not based on the expectations or estimates of the Issuer in respect of the future performance of the selected index. Investors should thus make their own estimates in respect of the future performance of the components of an index and the index itself on the basis of their own knowledge and sources of information.

No influence of the Issuer

As a general rule, the Issuer has no influence on the composition and performance of an underlying index or the performance of its components (exception: The Issuer is identical with the index sponsor). A change in composition may have an adverse effect on the value of the Warrants.

No liability of the index sponsor

Where the Issuer is not the index sponsor of the relevant index, Warrants based on an index as underlying are generally not sponsored or otherwise supported by any index sponsor, and the relevant index is composed and calculated by the respective index sponsor without any account being taken of the Issuer's or the interests of the holder's of the Warrants. In such case, the index sponsors does not assume any obligation or liability in respect of the issue, sale or trading of the Warrants.

No recognised financial index, no independent third party

The Warrants may be linked to an index which is not recognised as a financial index but an index that have been created for the issuance of the relevant Warrant. The index sponsor of such index might not be independent from the Issuer and may thus favour the interests of the Issuer over the interests of the holder of the Warrants.

Composition fees

Certain fees, costs, commissions or other charges for composition and calculation may be deducted by the relevant index sponsor when calculating the value of an index on the basis of the value of its individual components. As a result, the performance of the individual index components is not acknowledged in full when calculating the performance of the respective index, but is reduced by the amount of such fees, costs, commissions and other charges.

Publication of the index composition

Even if the composition of the relevant indices is to be published on a website or in other media specified in the Final Terms, the composition shown might not always be the current composition of the respective relevant index because the posting of the updated composition of the respective index on the website might be delayed considerably, sometimes even by several months.

- (b) one of the exemptions set forth in § 3 paragraph 2 of the Prospectus Act exists or, in case of an offering outside of Germany, an exemption from the obligation to prepare a prospectus exists as set forth in the implementing law of the respective Relevant Member State in which the Public Offering shall occur.

- (4) Payments will be made against presentation, and in the case of the last payment, against surrender of the Global Warrant to the Principal Paying Agent for transfer to the Clearing System or pursuant to the Clearing System's instruction for credit to the relevant accountheolders of the Clearing System. Payment to the Clearing System or pursuant to the Clearing System's instruction shall release the Issuer from its payment obligations under the Warrants in the amount of such payment.
- (5) If any payment with respect to a Warrant is to be effected on a day other than a Payment Business Day, payment shall be effected on the next following Payment Business Day. In this case, the relevant Warrantheolder shall neither be entitled to any payment claim nor to any interest claim or other compensation with respect to such delay.
- (6) All payments are subject in all cases to any applicable fiscal or other laws, regulations and directives.

- (2) With the occurrence of the Knock-Out Event the Option Right of the Warrantheolder according to § 3 paragraph (1) shall expire, and no Cash Settlement Amount shall be payable to the Warrantheolder by the Issuer.

If at any time the Index is cancelled or replaced, the Calculation Agent (§ 9) will determine in its reasonable discretion (§ 315 of the German Civil Code (BGB)) another index on the basis of which the redemption of the Warrants will be determined (the "Successor Index"). The respective Successor Index as well as the time of its first application will be notified pursuant to § 11. Any reference made to the Index in these Terms and Conditions shall, if the context so admits, then refer to the Successor Index. All related definitions shall be deemed to be amended accordingly. Furthermore, the Calculation Agent will make all necessary adjustments to the Terms and Conditions resulting from a substitution of the Index.

- (3) If in the opinion of the Calculation Agent (i) the determination of a Successor Index in accordance with the above paragraph is not possible or (ii) if the Sponsor materially modifies the calculation method of an Index with effect on or before the Valuation Date, or materially modifies the Index in any other way (except for modifications which are contemplated in the calculation method of the Index relating to a change with respect to securities comprising the Index or with respect to any other routine measures) (each of such events an "Extraordinary Event"), then the Issuer is entitled to (a) continue (itself or through an independent expert determined by the Issuer) the calculation of the Index on the basis of the former concept of the Index and its last determined level or (b) to (instead of a continuation of the calculation of the Index) terminate and redeem the Warrants in accordance with § 6 paragraph (2).

- (4) Adjustments take effect as from the date determined by the Issuer. Adjustments as well as the effective date shall be notified by the Issuer in accordance with § 11.

§ 6 (EARLY REDEMPTION, REPURCHASE OF WARRANTS)

- (1) Except as provided in § 6 paragraph (2), the Issuer shall not be entitled to redeem the Warrants prior to the Redemption Date.
