Quadient Reports Continued Momentum After Launch of France's E-invoicing Reform

- Businesses accelerate adoption of e-invoicing through Serensia by Quadient platform
- E-invoicing seen as a foundation for broader finance transformation
- Quadient extends e-invoicing support across Europe ahead of ViDA and new mandates in Germany and the UK

Paris, November 16, 2026

Quadient (Euronext Paris: QDT), a global automation platform powering secure and sustainable business connections, today announced it has processed more than 4.5 million electronic invoices through its Serensia by Quadient accredited platform since the launch of France's mandatory reform on September 1.

In just two months, the number of entities (SIRETs) registered in the French Tax Authority's central directory through Serensia by Quadient and its white-label partner network has reached 1.05 million, an increase of 32% since the start of the reform when 800,000 had already been registered.

"France's e-invoicing reform marks a significant shift in how businesses exchange financial data," said Stéphanie Auchabie, Senior Vice President, Sales and Operations Europe at Quadient. "What we are seeing is that organizations are moving beyond viewing e-invoicing simply as a regulatory requirement but rather are using it as a catalyst to streamline operations, improve data quality and create a more connected financial ecosystem."

As an accredited platform, Quadient helps businesses comply with France's e-invoicing requirements while securely connecting with customers, suppliers and public authorities. Beyond compliance, the reform triggers businesses to streamline and automate financial operations through structured data. The Quadient Suite supports this transformation with integrated cloud-based solutions for accounts payable, accounts receivable, cash management and customer communications automation.

Beyond domestic e-invoicing, Serensia by Quadient supports e-reporting, which requires businesses to transmit data on cross-border and business-to-consumer transactions, as well as payment data, to the French Tax Authority. The platform has already processed thousands of e-reporting flows, enabling businesses to meet the full scope of their obligations through a single connection. As the reform extends to small and medium-sized businesses in September 2027, Quadient is helping these businesses move from traditional paper and PDF invoices to structured e-invoicing well ahead of the deadline.

Outside France, Quadient is helping customers prepare for e-invoicing mandates across Europe, including the EU's VAT in the Digital Age (ViDA) package and national reforms in Germany, beginning in January 2027, and the UK, expected in April 2029, two markets where Quadient operates. As a Peppol Access Point provider, Quadient enables businesses to exchange compliant e-invoices across borders through the Peppol network, the interoperability framework underpinning many European reforms.
