Natixis statement

Following press articles related to the suspension of a trader at Natixis' Americas platform, Natixis would like to make it clear that it constantly monitors and reviews its employees' performance through well-established internal procedures that are applicable to all employees.

Regarding the case mentioned by a Bloomberg article published on November 26th, it is a purely internal procedure that is by no means related to a P&L loss and has no impact whatsoever on Natixis' clients or businesses.
